Kitzmiller VFD Sets Open House For EMS Week

The town of Kitzmiller has slated its own observance of National Emergency Medical Services Week, Sunday through Saturday, May 19-25, as Kitzmiller mayor James Browning and the town council have signed a proclamation that recognizes the "accomplishments of the EMS personnel who dedicate themselves to respond to the call for help and to educate the public about how and when to utilize EMS services."

The town's observance will include a family-oriented open house event at the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department from 2 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, May 22. That day marks the second annual EMS for Children Day, from 5 to 7 p.m. and in cooperation with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, families can obtain fingerprint IDs for their children. In cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department kids can bring their bikes for a safety inspection and should be sure to wear their bike helmets to be checked for proper fit. Personnel will also be available to answer questions and deliver information on child safety seats.

Throughout the event, blood pressure checks will be held, and in cooperation with Wal-Mart, "Vials for Life" will be given to people wishing to participate. Refreshments will be available, and door prizes will be distributed.

The annual National EMS Week recognizes the lifesaving care services EMS providers offer across the nation, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. "EMS is a vital public service, a system of care for victims of sudden and serious illness or injury. This system depends on the availability and coordination of many different elements."

LOCAL KIDS "ZOOM" — Hamming it up for Maryland Public Television cameras recently were a dozen sixth grade students from Southern Middle School and 77 students from Accident Elementary School. The students were filmed as part of a national effort to localize the PBS kids show Zoom, which airs every weekday at 5:30 p.m. on MPT. The episodes will air in the next few Fridays. The SMS students from Dawn Panther's class are seen above taping their segment. They are, from the left, Drew Proudfoot, Alan Gnegy, Josh Davis, Brison Harvey, Bryson Sanders, Andrea Hetrick, Kim Stephens, Marlena Kelly, Amanda VanBogelen, Meredith Pagenhardt, Mitch Georg (hidden), and Julianna Sheets. See story for more details.

PennDOT Moving Ahead With Rt. 219 Studies

Engineering and environmental studies are under way for proposed four-lane improvements to the portion of U.S. Route 219 from Meyersdale in Somerset County, Pa., to Interstate 68 at Grantsville in Garrett County. The studies are being carried out by District 9 of the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT), the Maryland State Highway Administration, and Federal Highway Administration, and preliminary design work is expected to be completed late 2004 or early 2005.

Rt. 219 is a major north-south route through western Pennsylvania linking I-68 in Maryland to the Pennsylvania Turnpike and I-80. In recent years portions of Rt. 219 in southwestern Pennsylvania have been upgraded to a four-lane, limited access facility.

McCormick, Taylor, and Associates of Harrisburg, Pa., along with a team of engineering and environmental consultants, has been retained to prepare an environmental document and preliminary engineering for the project. The project team will study the area and develop several preliminary corridor alternatives.

"Through environmental and engineering studies and public involvement activities, the team will narrow the alternatives until a pre-

EVIDENCE OF INTENSE HEAT — The temperature inside Southern High School's auto mechanics shop had to have been extremely high to do such damage to the equipment pictured here. The heat was caused by a fire over the weekend inside the closed shop, resulting in about $200,000 in damages. An investigation is continuing into the destructive event, which destroyed the work area for about 52 students. The teenagers have been relocated and will not be back in the shop until next fall, according to reports. See story. Photo by Erin White and provided by Southern High School.

Commissioners Sign Oakland Tax Agreement

The Garrett County commissioners signed a tax differential agreement with Oakland this week. After much legal negotiation and, at times, heated debate between county and town officials, the two sides have reached an agreement. Oakland residents will receive a $0.075 tax reduction off the county rate of $1.036 per $100 of assessed real property.

The contention between the county and town has been ongoing for some time. Oakland officials had requested that the town be compensated for parallel services and programs it provides the county. The commissioners contended that Oakland residents should receive a tax rate reduction and not the town. The two entities also disagreed over what formula to use to calculate any proposed reductions.

Last month, however, the two sides agreed on a formula, and that Oakland residents would receive the tax differential. The complex formula is based on the assessable base of county properties within the town limits and the town's tax rate. Oakland residents will now pay $0.961 per $100 of their assessed property.

The seven-year agreement still needs Oakland's final approval, but it is expected that town officials will sign it soon.

The county is also finalizing a tax differential agreement with Mountain Lake Park. Town officials have tentatively approved a tax rate of $0.988 per $100 and are expected to sign an agreement with the county soon, said Monty Pagenhardt, county administrator.

Fire Breaks Out In Southern High School Automotive Shop

Losses estimated around $200,000

A fire of unknown origin broke out in Southern High School's automotive shop over the weekend, resulting in approximately $200,000 in damages. Apparently no one was in the shop for the duration of the fire, although maintenance workers did discover the situation at about 7 p.m. Sunday. They were investigating a power outage in the school when they came upon the smoke-filled shop area.

According to a report from the state fire marshal, two vehicles inside the shop were completely destroyed, and three others were severely damaged. While the ignition source of the fire remains a mystery, the report indicates that its origin was in one of the vehicles.

Southern's shop is not located in the main school building, but is connected to it by a long corridor. This arrangement prevented the fire and smoke from entering the main building. The shop's actual structure was only slightly affected, but the contents of the area were heavily damaged. Shop machinery, computers, desks, tables, and various pieces of equipment were ruined.

The school was closed Monday because the fire alarm system was not operating and there was no heat in the building. The staff did report for work, however, to plan temporary classroom changes for students

Friendsville Man Flown To Hospital After Accident

A Friendsville man who was airlifted from the scene of a single-vehicle crash early Wednesday morning near Accident remained hospitalized in critical condition this morning at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va. Charges are pending against the patient, who was the lone occupant of the car according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

Thomas Edward Parker Jr., 27, was traveling south along Garrett Highway when he lost control of his car as it approached Aiken Miller Road. The 1982 Datsun 280 sedan left the roadway, struck a rock ledge, and overturned. Parker was ejected during the course of the crash, and MSP Trooper 5 was summoned for the emergency medevac flight. The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Accident Volunteer Fire Department assisted on the scene.

As of this morning, charges against Parker still wait to be filed upon the conclusion of the state police accident investigation.

DUI Arrest

State police jailed Sheldon Ray Sisler, 39, Friendsville, on driving under the influence charges this week. He was subsequently released on his own recognizance.

SMS, Accident Students To "Zoom" On MPT

Sixth grade students at Southern Middle School and students from Accident Elementary School were recently filmed by Maryland Public Television as part of a national effort to localize the PBS kids show Zoom, which airs every weekday at 5:30 p.m. on MPT.

The students were asked to introduce themselves, cheer, dance, and answer questions. Some of the questions were "What would you put in a time capsule to be opened in 1,000 years?" and "Who is a hero to you and why?"

The show consists of various segments, such as: introduction, Whatzup, Zoom, good-bye, and the credits.

Those participating from Dawn Panther's health class at SMS were Drew Proudfoot, Kim Stephens, Marlena Kelly, Brison Harvey, Amanda VanBogelen, Mitch Georg, Julianna Sheets, Andrea Hedrick, Alan Gnegy, Josh Davis, Meredith Pagenhardt, and Bryson Sanders.

Several students from each grade at Accident participated. Those participating in the opening segments were Morgan Marple and Cameron Deal, prekindergarten; Ryan Vannosdeln, Aishani Eggenberger, Ashley Davies, Trenton Friend, Trevor Green, and Bruce Nairn, kindergarten.

Sewage Spill Threatens Lake

The Garrett County Sanitary District advises residents that a sewage spill of approximately 15,000 gallons occurred Wednesday morning near 346 Lake Forest Drive, and that some sewage may have entered Deep Creek Lake. Thus, fishing, swimming, or other direct contact with the water in this area should be avoided for a two-week period. Signs will be posted at the waterfront in the area of the spill.

Anyone with questions may contact the Sanitary District at 301-334-1887, extension 102.

Plane Crash In Garrett County Claims Life Of Florida Pilot

A pilot from Florida flying in Garrett County lost his life Sunday afternoon when his aircraft crashed into rocks just below the Jennings Randolph Lake dam near Bloomington.

Kenneth Edward Yegella, 57, was piloting a 1999 Ayres Corporation Model S2R-G10 fixed wing airplane, which apparently came into contact with power lines. Yegella then lost control of the plane and it crashed into a rocky embankment, instantly bursting into flames. The report from the Maryland State Police indicated that the accident occurred at about 12:45 p.m.

Wreckage was reportedly found within a wide range of the actual crash site, which was near the floodgates of the dam.

Yegella was in the process of spraying for gypsy moths. He was working for the Maurice Flying Service of Lake View, Mich., according to reports. He and two other pilots had taken off from the Greater Cumberland Regional Airport earlier Sunday to do the spraying work.

The Bloomington Fire Company responded to the scene, as well as the Elk Garden and Piedmont fire companies, Elk District ambulance, the Mineral County sheriff, Keyser and other Garrett County EMS units, and officers of the West Virginia Division of Natural Resources. The plane was reportedly completely burned by the time the emergency personnel arrived.

An investigation by the National Transportation Safety Board is under way, according to reports.

Many Weekend Drug Arrests Made By GCSO

Numerous motorists were arrested and face various drug charges stemming from traffic stops this weekend, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A motor home was stopped by deputies Sunday afternoon along Route 39 in the Rosedale area after the sheriff's office received information from the West Virginia State Police, Preston County, that the vehicle had left a Terra Alta, W.Va., business without paying for fuel.

While conducting an interview about the possible theft, the deputy detected an odor of burnt marijuana, police said. A search, conducted by deputies with assistance from the Oakland City Police and the sheriff's office K-9 Hanno, revealed multiple articles of controlled dangerous substance, quantities of Ecstacy, marijuana, and Hydrocodone, and electronic scales.

The driver, Casey P. Steele, 25, and his passengers, Sherry R. Gardner, 26, Corrine A. Green, 24, and a juvenile, all of Altoona, Pa., were arrested.

Steele and Green were charged with CDS possession with intent to distribute and possession of CDS paraphernalia. Gardner and the juvenile were charged with CDS possession and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Steele and Green are being held in the Garrett County Jail on $2,500 bond each. Gardner is being held on $500 bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

In another incident, three people were arrested on various drug charges early Friday morning following a traffic stop along Garrett Highway near Nest Lick Acres Road, police

Possible Large Predator Attack Of Horse Probed

Wildlife biologists with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources at Mt. Nebo are investigating what caused injuries to a horse this weekend in a pasture between Accident and Friendsville. At this point the DNR specialists say that the circumstances and nature of the injuries are causing them to lean away from a theory that the horse may have been attacked by a bear.

The incident occurred sometime Saturday night or early Sunday morning on the property of Daymond Schmuck, located along Mitchell Rush Road south of Accident Friendsville Road. A family member discovered the horse standing near the barn Sunday morning, bearing obvious injuries.

According to Lt. Gary Berkebile of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, who was summoned to the scene Sunday afternoon to file a livestock damage report, the horse's injuries consisted of PHENIX BREAKS NEW GROUND — Phenix Technology Inc. and the Garrett County commissioners held a groundbreaking ceremony Tuesday for the company's new 68,000 square-foot facility in the Central Garrett Industrial Park, Accident. The company is scheduled to relocate to its new facility across the park early next year. Four years ago the company outgrew its current 33,000 square-foot facility and started looking for a new site for its operations. A $750,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission will enable the county to purchase Phenix's present facility and market it to other growing businesses. In return, Phenix has agreed to hire at least 50 additional employees over the next five years. See story for details. Pictured above, left to right, with the shovels at the groundbreaking ceremony are Commissioner Ernie Gregg; Richard Carlson, mayor of Accident; Delegate George Edwards; Tim Bender of Byco Enterprises, Accident, which will excavate the site; Commissioner Wendell Beitzel; Tim Magrath, assistant to Senator Paul Sarbanes; Senator John Hafer; Frank Vitez, president of Phenix; Rudi Kremer, vice president of Phenix; and Commissioner Fred Holliday.

Phenix Breaks Ground For New Facility

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners and Phenix Technologies Inc. held a groundbreaking ceremony on Tuesday for a new 68,000 square foot manufacturing facility to be constructed at the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident. The company's expansion plans began nearly four years ago.

"I'm glad it has all come together for Phenix," said Richard Carlson, mayor of Accident.

The county will use a $750,000 grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) to purchase Phenix's current 33,000 square-foot headquarters, also located in the park. In return, Phenix has agreed to hire at least 50 new employees over the next five years. The company currently has 72 employees, but sees the possibility of eventually doubling its workforce, according to a company spokesperson.

President Of ClosetMaid To Speak At Dinner

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently announced that Rob Clements, president of ClosetMaid, has accepted an invitation to be the guest speaker at the organization's annual meeting. A $250 million subsidiary of the Emerson Electric Company, ClosetMaid will soon construct a factory complex in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park.

A leading manufacturer of wire storage units since 1965, ClosetMaid anticipates hiring more than 700 employees for that facility. Sales and marketing director Doug Carter, who is the Garrett County project coordinator, will provide extensive photographs and product displays at the dinner.

According to chamber president Ken Wishnick, there has been "continuing buzz around town" concerning ClosetMaid's hiring time frame, wages, and local procurement policies, plus general curiosity about this soon-to-be business neighbor. "There is no better source for information than hearing it right from the president himself," Wishnick said.

Wishnick also pointed out that Clements will provide a company gift for each event attendee. In addition, there will be at least three door prizes awarded, including a weekend hotel/golf getaway package to Solomon's Island, a 98-second shopping spree at Deep Creek Lake Foodland, courtesy of Hugh Umbel, and a "special" ClosetMaid gift item. The door prize drawings are included in the ticket price.

The public is welcome to attend this annual event, slated for Thursday, June 6, in the McHenry House at Wisp Ski and Golf Resort. Chamber membership is not required. The networking social hour begins at 6 p.m., and will be followed by a buffet dinner. A short chamber business portion will feature the presentation of the 2002 Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award.

Those interested in attending the chamber dinner are encouraged to contact Peggy Santamaria at 301-387-4386 or 301-245-4400. Tickets can still be purchased for $35 in advance or $40 at the door.

OVERLOOK VANDALIZED - The American flag which has been "overlooking" Oakland since the September 11 attack on America was temporarily gone from its location on the overlook platform off Rt. 39, as unknown vandals decided to tear it down and burn it late last month. They also destroyed wiring into the six lights that are used to light the flag at night. Total loss was estimated by Oakland city police at $120. The flag and lighting have all been replaced, according to Jay Moyer of the Oakland city council. "We (on the council) can't believe that anyone would do something like this, but we're confident that the replacement lights are almost indestructible," Moyer said. "If the flag is destroyed again, we will replace it. In fact, if it's destroyed 30 times, we will replace it 30 times. It's that important to us." Persons who have any information about the culprits in this incident are encouraged to contact the Oakland City Police.

Additional Jail Time Handed To Theft Convict

A Friendsville man who was handed 18 months' incarceration time after a recent criminal hearing in Garrett County District Court, as reported in this paper three weeks ago, received an additional jail sentence from Judge Ralph Burnett last week.

Bronco Joseph Detrick, 23, pleaded guilty to the most recent charge of felony theft and was handed a four-year term, all but one year of which was suspended, which must be served consecutively to all other sentences. The specific charge stemmed from Detrick's December arrest by Garrett Bureau of Investigation detectives in connection with that month's theft of windows from a home construction site along Deer Field Drive just north of Mtn. Lake Park.

The windows, valued at more than $800 in aggregate, were located in a wooded area off Squire Fike Road northwest of Friendsville, where Detrick was reportedly storing building materials stolen from several construction sites. He was reportedly stealing the materials in order to construct a cabin for himself.

In other District Court news, Robert James Harbaugh, 50, Confluence, Pa., man was handed a week in jail after pleading guilty to driving while under the influence and driving on a suspended license, while charges of illegally transporting a handgun in a vehicle and trespassing were placed onto the stet docket.

Harbaugh's February arrest by Maryland State Police troopers stemmed from an incident at a Sam Friend Road residence. Harbaugh's wife had initially gone to the home to attempt to retrieve her 2-year-old granddaughter from her own daughter, Jamie Harbaugh, who was refusing to leave the residence. While troopers were on the scene investigating that incident, an intoxicated Robert Harbaugh drove up in his vehicle. A loaded .22-caliber revolver was located in the car.

Harbaugh received a 90-day sentence, all but seven days of which was suspended, a $400 fine, and two years of supervised probation. Various additional traffic-related charges were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney's Office.

Sheriff Issues Message About Illicit Drugs

Garrett County Sheriff Dick Sanders Jr. issued a "strong and clear" message earlier this week stating that possession of illicit drugs in Garrett County will not be condoned.

Within 63 hours, from early Friday morning until Sunday evening, sheriff's deputies arrested 15 individuals on a variety of charges involving illegal drugs and narcotics.

Deputies arrested 10 of the individuals on five motor vehicle traffic stops ranging from speeding, crossing over the center line, and other traffic infractions. Four were arrested after a traffic stop for investigation of a report of failure to pay for a gasohne purchase. One of the arrests resulted from the apparent overdose of the drug Ketamine, an animal tranquilizer.

Sheriff Sanders reported that the agency's specially trained K-9 dog was instrumental in locating drugs in five of the vehicle stops. Evidence seized for prosecution in these cases included various quantities of marijuana, cocaine, prescription dugs, psilocybin mushrooms, Ecstasy pills, and drug paraphernalia, consisting of marijuana pipes and scales. All of those charged have been released on bond, police said.

Sheriff Sanders emphasized that in addition to fines and incarcerations, drug offenders often deal with vehicles being towed and stored, and occasionally seized and sold when the vehicles are used for the sale of drugs.

Information concerning suspected drug activities may be reported to the sheriff's office at 301-334-1911 or the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force at 301-387-9566.

Grantsville Man Charged After Head-On Crash

A Grantsville man was charged following a head-on collision Friday morning on Mosser Road between Foy Road and Garrett Community College, according to the Maryland State Police.

Robert William Guthrie, 22, was driving south on the approach to Swamp Knox Lane when he came upon a vehicle stopped in the southbound lane of Mosser Road. Guthrie reportedly tried to pass the vehicle, and drove his 1989 Ford Tempo into the path of an oncoming 1989 Dodge Daytona operated by Ray Edward Johnson, 35, also of Grantsville. The vehicles collided head-on in the northbound lane.

Both drivers, along with Guthrie's passenger, Ronald Eugene Mitchell Jr., 20, Grantsville, were transported by the Northern and Southern Garrett County rescue squads to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where each was treated and released. State troopers charged Guthrie with improper passing.

Oakland Man Pleads Guilty To Burglary

An Oakland man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court Friday to a second-degree burglary charge. Related charges of theft and possession of marijuana against Jay Michael Lucas, 18, were dismissed upon his plea. Judge Jim Sherbin then sentenced Lucas to three years in the Department of Corrections. Two years of the sentence were suspended, and Lucas will serve one year in the Garrett County Jail. Upon his release, he will be on probation and will have to pay $900 in restitution.

Lucas and a co-defendant were charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in October for breaking into Par-Matt Lanes and stealing money, jewelry, documents, alcoholic beverages, snacks, and other items exceeding $7,000 in value, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney. During the investigation, most of the property was recovered, said Thayer Welch.

GIEC Business Incubator Ready To Hatch Fledgling Companies

by Joan Crawford

"If you build it, they will come" might be said of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, set to open on the Garrett Community College campus this week. The incubator building, designed to house up to 20 start-up and satellite technology businesses, has four tenants currently moving into their new offices.

GIEC director Sandy Major expects all four of the businesses to start operations in the new location by Saturday, June 1. During the past months Major and Frank Shap, technology coordinator lor Garrett County, have been recruiting occupants for the building. GIEC will provide its tenants with stane-of-the-art physical resources and high-speed Internet access as well as business and technical support to help ensure their success. Grants totaling more than $2.1 million were awarded by the Economic Development Administration, the Appalachian Regional Commission, the state of Maryland, and Garrett County to fund the building.

Its location on the GCC campus will give its tenants access to video conferencing, computer labs, and cafeteria and library services, as well as free business counseling and financial planning available through the Small Business Development Center. The first businesses occupying GIEC are Shoup Design and Club 1120, GMA Engineering, Radiant Network Technologies, and Sycamore Associates.

Shoup Design is an advertising web and full service graphic design firm that offers print campaigns, web solutions, and hosting to high-quality printing, equipped to handle every aspect of business design and marketing needs. Company president Jay Shoup previously worked as creative director of a New York City design firm and as senior creative director in marketing for Gannett Newspapers (publishers of USA Today). He is also president of Club 1120, the largest Volkswagon/Audi organization in North America. Club H20 provides an outlet for Volkswagon/Audi owners to gather and communicate about their shared interests and news of upcoming events, such as the annual show in Ocean City.

GMA Engineering is a small company owned by a disabled Vietnam veteran, who formed the business formed in 1999 as an environmental remediation and construction firm to provides engineering consulting services to the federal government. Its primary clients are the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Air Force, and Navy. GMA's services include environmental restoration studies, natural resources studies, environmental compliance assessments, engineering design and implementation of remedial systems, environmental information technology, health and safety, fire protection, and mitigation of unexploded ordnance. The company's president is Gary Mayer.

Radiant Network Technologies was created in 2001 by Julian Zottl and Jose Bacasnot to provide better service with a higher level of technical skill. The company's first phase mission is to create a network environment that will foster and help incubate start-up companies. The future mission will broaden as the company becomes a volume business for fledgling and established companies.

Sycamore Associates is a 6-year-old information technology company that serves the federal government's intelligence community. the aerospace industry, pharmaceutical companies and mortgage banking companies. Its staff of software and database engineers provides custom software solutions and engineering services to its customers. The company has been operating in the mid- Atlantic region from its headquarters in Frederick. Kurt Heckman is the president. GIEC is a satellite location for Sycamore.

The new GIEC building is ahead of occupancy projections, according to Sandy Major. Traditionally, incubator buildings fill slowly and do not expect to reach full capacity for at least 24 months. When it officially opens on June 1 GIEC will already be 21 percent full, and a fifth tenant is expected to move in on June 14. Major did not expect to reach this level of occupancy before December. She attributed this success to the hard work of all the GIEC partners.

"GIEC, HERE I COME!" — It's moving week for Jay Shoup of Shoup Design, the first tenant of the new Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC). Shoup is busy moving and setting up his company's equipment as he readies for this week's starting operations this week in his new technologically advanced GIEC office space.

Court Dismisses Charges Against Parker, Bullis

Three unrelated cases involving out-of-county men were heard last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Two of the cases were dismissed, and one was place on the stet docket.

Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney for Garrett County, dismissed charges of possession of cocaine and possession of drug paraphernalia against Brian Matthew Parker, 24, Glen Burnie.

"Parker was the passenger in a vehicle in which the contraband was recovered," said Thayer Welch. "Later review of the facts led to the determination by the Narcotics Task Force officers and me that Parker had little connection with the CDS, and that the case should proceed only against the driver."

Parker was arrested in October by Task Force officers, who had used a drug-detection dog to scan a vehicle in a parking lot in Oakland. When the dog indicated a presence of CDS, the officers searched the vehicle and located dollar bills with cocaine residue inside, said Thayer Welch.

In another unrelated case, charges against Charles Lee Bullis, 19, Snow Hill, were also dismissed when a critical witness failed to appear for a scheduled jury trial. Bullis was charged with first-degree burglary and theft last September after officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation determined he had pawned a stereo reported stolen from an Oakland area residence, according to Thayer Welch.

An unrelated case involving a Hyndman, Pa., man was also heard last week in court. A charge of manufacturing, possession, or using a destructive device against Joshua John Burkett, 20, was placed on the stet docket. Burkett was charged by investigators with the Fire Marshall's Office after they determined he and others had used a number of commonly available materials and created explosive devices, which were set off in the Bloomington area last summer.

Thayer Welch indicated the case did not go forward for a number of reasons, including complications in presenting one of the witnesses for the state. With this disposition, Burkett is required to complete 50 hours of community service and to have no violations of the law for one year.

A Narrow View...

The Garrett County commissioners and local economic development officials continue to take a lot of heat for their endorsement of the adventure sports complex in McHenry, as critics allege that financial support of this project is a waste of taxpayer money because the complex will not be used by local people, that it will probably not provide what are considered "good-paying" jobs, and that the only real financial gain will be experienced solely in the pockets of the private developers.

Arguments to support the first two claims may be valid. It is quite possible that a relatively low percentage of local, full-time residents will utilize the various recreational facilities that will be available at the AS center. While there will certainly be some new jobs created by the center, it is indeed probable that most of them will not be high-paying positions. However, we must take issue with the third allegation, and it reflects what is a narrow view of economic development.

The commissioners just approved a county budget of over $47 million for FY 2003, and the fact of the matter is, nearly half of that budget is funded by property owners at and near Deep Creek Lake through their county real estate taxes. Another large chunk of change comes from the county accommodations tax. There are also numerous local businesses, not only right at the lake, but throughout the county that depend heavily upon the tourist dollar. These businesses provide both jobs and still more county revenue to finance our schools, roads, law enforcement, and numerous other necessary agencies.

The adventure sports complex will be the only one of its kind in the entire country, and it is all but guaranteed that it will be a significant attraction for visitors — visitors who will stay in our motels or rental properties, eat in our dining establishments, and purchase gasoline, souvenirs, and supplies. They might even purchase a piece of property — extremely valuable property that will provide more tax money for the benefit of all of us.

It is true that most jobs associated with the tourism industry do not feature $30,000 or $40,000 salaries. But tourism will remain crucial to the financial well-being of our county for many years to come. In the meantime, county leaders are also working hard to secure non-tourism employment, jobs that do feature attractive salary levels and benefits, with the most obvious example of success being the Closet-Maid facility that is currently under construction in Grantsville. Another would be the new Phenix expansion project in Accident, for which ground was broken this week (see front-page photo). There is also county support for this venture.

So, no, we do not agree with the critics who believe that support for the adventure sports complex is a wasteful use of our tax dollars, and we encourage the commissioners and economic developers to maintain their present course.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

We are entering dark times for God's creation. Recent moves by the Bush administration to rewrite mining laws to allow for mountain top removal mining practices is shameful. Bush was the number one recipient of coal company lobby money in campaign 2000, and I guess this is payback time.

The clean water act was originally enacted to protect water quality. Now, the Bush administration is removing protection for streams and setting the stage for massive water quality problems in the future.

I have personally been to Logan County, West Virginia, seen the devastation, and talked to the people. The opponents to this mining practice are not only environmentalists but coal field residents — plain old folks who have enough sense to know that when you destroy streams under fill material, water quality is not only destroyed, it is obliterated. The ponds that are left behind to control runoff are flood disasters waiting to happen, and the massive turning of the soil leaves a sterile flat area that is unable to support hardwood trees and is, in fact, a toxic soil condition. Some low-quality pines might grow, but they are poor food for wildlife and birds, and of little value compared to the naturally occurring vegetation.

You can bet your farm that this mining practice will appear in Maryland. The 500+ miles of streams buried in West Virginia are just the start of what the mining industry has in mind for the coal seam and stream near you. The blasting used is 10 times more powerful than the Oklahoma City bombing. Coal company claims that this is the only economical way to mine are only based on how much excessive profit the fat cat operators can line their pockets with. Fewer miners are needed to mine with this technique, and the giant earth moving machinery and huge shovels (30 Chevettes in one scoop) bring the mountains down fast.

It is time to stand up and fight for the mountains. Each mountain is unique as we are each unique. In many sacred texts, from many religions, the mountain is a sacred place where many spiritual masters have gone to find their communion with God. The Creation seems to have few defenders, and our transgression as responsible stewards of God's works is certainly a breaking of the covenant from our end. If God is just, than payback time will be a last chapter that will surprise the vast majority of us. The children of the earth are the ones who are saved.

Water quality finds its health in the headwaters. These headwaters are completely destroyed in mountaintop mining. Water is sacred and its holiness mentioned many times in the Bible. It is the substance that connects and nourishes all life.

I urge everyone who cares about the health of the future generations to be responsible. Write, e-mail, call your congressman and senators, and express your outrage for the Bush administration's efforts to rewrite laws that have served this country well and were enacted for the noble purpose of protecting streams and water quality. Contact the politicians and let them know how you feel. Write the president and let him know that you are a Republican or Democrat who cares about what kind of world we leave behind for the children, and to leave these laws alone!

Mountains were designed by the Creator, and have a purpose beyond our scope of comprehension. Who are we to destroy them, and the "water of life" that flows from their heights? I ask you to consider that coal is a natural charcoal filter for the water.

The Bush administration's ownership by the corporations is disgusting. As we have seen recently in many instances, corporations have little concern for the people. Most corporations only care about profits for the powerful and will do whatever it takes to get rich. A corporation has never introduced a regulation or practice for the good of the people on its own. Fraud, lies, greed, misrepresentation and influence peddling are all typical. Respected accounting firms turn out to be conspiratorial criminals, and companies like Enron, once touted as exciting new economic models, turn out be total shams, phonies, and destroyers of more lives than killed on 9/11.

God have mercy on our society's lust for money and our defilement of the Creation's sacredness. Who was it who said, "A rich man can no more enter heaven than a camel pass through the eye of a needle"?

Crede Calhoun

To the Editor:

I feel I have to put my two cents into this proposed adventure sport complex on Wisp mountain. George Falter has termed the $20 million project a "playground for the rich." I don't see it that way.

Why does he think that rich people are more inclined to be interested in wild whitewater stunts than the rest of the population? If the county really wants to build a "playground for the rich," how about a polo court or exclusive private country club? These would make as much sense for the use of taxpayer dollars as the adventure sport complex.

Come on now, commissioners. The rich aren't going to utilize this white-elephant, whitewater doughnut, the poor aren't going to use it, there's not much of a middle class in the county — Who is going to use the facility to justify this kind of investment? Maybe there is a reason that no other jurisdiction in the United States has built a man-made whitewater course. Maybe you all should be man enough to admit you had some bad advice, and then build something truly useful to both rich and poor, like community ice and roller skating facilities or an indoor pool. And don't BS the public by saying you will do that sometime in the future.

To the Editor:

The current brouhaha pertaining to the matter of how officials reacted to information on what some consider bearing on the 9/11 attacks and others consider having a non-specific relationship to these horrors raises some questions on how the intelligence system works. My past experience, though low-level, may shed a modicum of light as to the uncertainties inherent in the intelligence analyst's workday, even absent the complicating factor of politics.

The Cold War was at its height when I joined the intelligence community, and though university had prepared me well in a regional construct, I soon recognized that most of my work involved decisions: what information should be apparently retained and filed and what part ought to be immediately discarded. And then there was the file for further study. The volume of incoming intelligence from a member of entities, plus the perusal and scanning of several foreign language publications, was initially exhilarating, later virtually overwhelming. A couple of examples may help one understand that frequently there is no smoking gun; only a shadow, indistinguishable, without ultimate definition.

An item arrived at my desk indicating that a credible source had witnessed on a railroad siding a load of military significance — of utility in missile delivery systems of the time. The initial perusal elicited profound interest. But later questions came to mind. How technically qualified was the source to make the judgment he/she did? Did he have qualified technical help? Was the adversary setting him up, leading him, knowing that he would be in the area? Then there was the time of the sighting. Was the information still viable? Did these and other questions vitiate the source and the information? The upshot was that the intelligence bit became, following these considerations, a "maybe" item and relegated to the file for further study. The passing of time produced no confirmation and the piece was consigned to the burn basket. And rightly so.

Another bit of information differed primarily by origin and disposition. It was found in one of the adversary's own publications. As may be known, some multi-national entities are organized according to ethnic principles, with a territorial administrative unit originally having a majority/plurality of a certain ethnic group. Since the centralized state was employing various strategies and tactics to incorporate ethnic groups into the larger culture, with the dominance of the central majority culture, resistance on the part of these groups was deemed of major importance. And here we had information on resistance to the overall strategy — an indication of the possible weakening of our adversary. Therefore the intelligence piece was finally deemed of primary importance and incorporated in a report for further dissemination. So far as was ascertainable, the piece turned out to be migratory, a dud.

The foregoing points up the difficulty related to assessing the usefulness of intelligence information. There are times when success is tangible, though belated.

The ongoing verbal disturbances, primarily in Washington, should not occlude our mental arteries to the difficulty of making a proper decision based on what is an overload of information from various sources, frequently contradictory and useless.

As to the numerous crates of analyzed intelligence materials reportedly stored in the Justice Department, we can only surmise that the resources of the intelligence community need to be enhanced through increases in both skilled personnel and concomitant funds.

A WEEK FOR PATRIOTISM

The air was full of birdsong. The sky wore azure around the pendant sun. It was that perfect spring day which gives birth to most memories of spring. A narrow bed of flowers arched around a flag pole. A wide circle of children and adults enveloped flagpole and flowers. We had gathered to see the flag raised.

We stood outside a community building now put to many uses. Until 1983 its principal use was as a public school. It was my elementary school and my father's school from grades 1 through 11, after which, at that time, one graduated. Today two different schools are among the building's dozen or so tenants and regular users.

The flagpole had fallen into disuse and disrepair, but it had never been removed. A combination of interests yielded the result of restoring the flagpole, the planting of the flower arch, and that day's ceremonial raising of the flag.

There was a color guard of Korean War veterans. The Korean War, long the forgotten war, is increasingly being remembered. In part that is due to there being fewer and fewer World War II veterans, the youngest of them now 75 years old. It is also due, perhaps, to the fact that the Korean War is still with us, as we are reminded from time to time.

The presence of veterans reminded us that our free assembly was bought with a price, and a price that has to be paid in every generation. As moving as it was to have those men who connected us to a war from half a century ago, the most moving sight was that of the respect shown by the youngest children there.

Some of them may have been as young as 3 or 4 years old. They had been well instructed before being brought out onto the yard. They stood in a kind of informal attention, their hands over their hearts — an attitude which many of them maintained from the time I arrived and throughout the proceedings.

I gave the invocation, being the only preacher in attendance. There were brief remarks by various elected officials. A representative of the garden club in charge of the flower arch offered a few thoughts about how happy they are to be a partner in this project.

The color guard captain explained flag etiquette and how flying the flag upside down is a sign of distress. Another participant and I swapped stories, under our breaths, about the time each of us, respectively, had encountered an upside down flag, on both occasions at elementary schools. As practical advice, that part of the captain's instruction may prove the most important to the boys and girls who will be in charge of the flag from day to day.

Before offering the prayer, I reflected for a moment that I had attended school there 35 years earlier. I had been one of the boys — I think it was a boys' job only back then — responsible for raising and lowering the flag each day. I speculated that in 35 years' time one of the boys or girls present might return to speak at another such gathering.

Just as the veterans made it possible for us to reach into our past, the children made it possible for us to reach into our future. Holding hands through time we could experience and anticipate a century of our common life, a century of freedom, a century in which some have been called and some will be called upon to wear the uniform of our nation, and a few — only a few, we pray — will be called upon to die in that cause.

Memorial Day began on May 30 one year during the Civil War. Southern women decorated the graves of the war dead, both from the North and the South. From the decoration of the graves it took its original and charming name, "Decoration Day."

I like Memorial Day all the better because it began as a people's observance. One of the essential characteristics of true democracy is that government officials must often rush to catch up to the people.

Our ceremonial raising of the flag was a little too early to be considered a Memorial Day observance proper, and yet it was that for me. There was the beauty of the world, wild and cultivated, the memory of duty fulfilled and the expectation of duty that will one day call.

We were assembled as free citizens of the American republic gathered in a respect for all that is good and right in our country. We were gathered in the shared determination to pursue the good and the right for ourselves and for all our neighbors.

That is patriotism and that is Memorial Day.

The company has become a family venture. Vitez's son Benjamin and Kremer's son Daniel have joined their fathers in the corporation. In doing so, Vitez said it looks like the company will have "a long and bright future" even after he and Kremer have retired.

young people to stay here and make a living," said Delegate George Edwards about this and other expansions in the county.

Phenix expects to relocate to its new facility in early 2003. With ownership of the current Phenix site, the county will have a building to market to other businesses. In 2000, the Phenix building was appraised at $900,000.

"It's a great opportunity," said Jim Hinebaugh, director of the Garrett County Economic Development Office, about the partnership between the county and Phenix. He described the transaction as a "win-win" sitation. "Phenix is an example of a local home-grown business," he added.

Accident is the world headquarters for Phenix. The company also has offices in Atlanta, Ga., and Basel, Switzerland, and has business partner agreements with companies in Germany, Switzerland, and Italy. The company exports its products to more than 80 countries, according to a Phenix spokesperson.

The company designs and manufactures high voltage, high current, and high power electrical testing equipment. Phenix began its operations in Accident in 1975. The present facility has had five additions since that time. Approximately four years ago, however, Phenix decided it needed to expand even further and started looking for new locations.

President Frank Vitez, a Garrett County native, said the company had been strongly "wooed" by West Virginia. "But Accident has been a real home for 27 years," he said. "This is where we wanted to stay."

Commissioner Fred Holliday noted at the groundbreaking that it was important to support local businesses. He said the company's new facility would be an asset to both Accident and the county.

Hinebaugh said the groundbreaking represented the culmination of three years' work. "This is a great example of a partnership between the county and state," he said. Hinebaugh also noted that Senator Paul Sarbanes was instrumental in securing the ARC funds.

"Some of the hardest working citizens in the country are in Garrett County," added Tim Magrath, assistant to Sarbanes.

Vitez said Phenix's potential for success was promising, even despite the country's current economic climate. He added that he and Rudi Kremer, vice [illegible] were still "brain storming" ideas for their company and its possibilities just minutes before the groundbreaking.

Two Hurt When Jeep Hits Tree On Off-Road Trail

Two Frostburg residents were injured recently when their Jeep Cherokee went out of control and hit a tree along the Poplar Lick off-road vehicle trail. Information regarding the Saturday, May 11, accident was just made available this week by the Department of Natural Resources.

The driver, Elizabeth Ann Johnson, 19, and her passenger, Andrew Howell, age not reported, were driving on the Poplar Lick ORV Trail three miles east of New Germany Road when the mishap occurred at approximately 5:30 p.m. As Johnson was trying to bypass an extremely muddy area on the trail, her right foot apparently became caught between the Jeep's accelerator and the brake pedal, causing the engine to rev and the vehicle to lurch out of control.

The Jeep ran up an embankment on one side of the trail, bounded back across the path, and struck a tree head-on. Both subjects were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where Johnson was admitted and Howell was treated and released. Johnson was released after a short hospital stay, and has been charged with negligent driving.

A DEVASTATING SIGHT met the eyes of students and staff alike this week when they surveyed the damage wrought by a seemingly silent fire at Southern High School. The auto mechanics shop at the school was severely damaged when a car apparently caught on fire sometime over the weekend. The car, possibly the one pictured above, burned and smoldered, as did another vehicle, and the heat generated by the combustion melted equipment and destroyed furnishings. See story. ## ATV Accident Victim Flown To Hospital

An Oakland woman who was a passenger on an all-terrain vehicle that went out of control and overturned near Kitzmiller Saturday evening was flown to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where she was hospitalized for her injuries. She has since been released.

Crystal Elaine Murphy, 21, was riding on the back of a 2002 Honda 400-EX on a dirt trail behind a home at 868 Shallmar Road when the operator, Jesse Lee James, 21, Oakland, lost traction as he tried to crest a steep embankment.

The ATV overturned, ejecting both occupants. James escaped injury, but Maryland State Police helicopter Trooper 5 was summoned to the scene for the flight to the hospital. The duration of Murphy's hospital stay was not available from Cumberland Memorial's public affairs office.

No charges were filed against James by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated the accident. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the Elk District Ambulance, and the Kitzmiller and Elk Garden volunteer fire departments assisted at the scene.

Marijuana Heist Leads To Arrests Of Four Persons

A report of an armed robbery of a Frostburg area (Allegany County) residence early Monday took a bizarre turn when the alleged victims told Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the LaVale barrack that the perpetrators had fled their home with a "large quantity of marijuana." Two Grantsville men who were taken into custody shortly afterward not far from the home face robbery and similar charges, while the two victims were jailed afterward by the Allegany County C31 Narcotics Unit on a variety of drug charges.

Grantsville's Christopher E. Nair, 19, of Meadow View Drive, and Deven R. Brown, 18, of Miller Street, were each charged with armed robbery, false imprisonment, and first-degree assault following the 1:40 a.m. incident that reportedly took place at 11001 Welsh Hill Road.

Nair and Brown are accused of entering the home, and using duct tape to restrain five persons before fleeing on foot with a quantity of marijuana. One of the alleged victims reportedly broke free and quickly notified police with a description of the suspects, and Frostburg police officers located the pair within minutes of the incident on foot on Md. Route 936 near coal company property. The men were taken into custody without resistance, and two handguns were seized during the course of the arrests.

Nair and Brown were incarcerated at the Allegany County Detention Center in Cumberland on $100,000 bond each.

The incident led police to obtain a search warrant of the Welsh Hill Road home where the robbery allegedly took place, with that search leading to the arrest of two Frostburg residents who claimed to be among the victims of the robbery.

Dustin Daniel Chambers, 21, of Welsh Hill Road, and Dyane Jeanne Williams, 18, of Beall Street, were taken into police custody after police officers and narcotics detectives located a quantity of suspected marijuana, a sum of currency, numerous items of drug paraphernalia, and hydroponic indoor growing equipment.

Chambers faces charges of conspiracy to distribute marijuana, and possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, while Williams was charged with marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession. Chambers was subsequently released after posting a $5,000 bond, and Williams was released on her personal recognizance.

Public Meeting To Address DCL Special Permits

Deep Creek Lake Natural Resource Management Area staff will conduct an informative meeting about the special permit required any time a property owner requests to alter the publicly owned buffer strip property. The presentation will get under way at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 1, in the Discovery Room of the DCL State Park Discovery Center.

Department of Natural Resources ranger Brinn Friend is the guest speaker, and his presentation will focus on the guidelines for special permits, with topics including structures, paths, play area, electrical improvements, vegetation removal, and shoreline erosion control.

The meeting is part of a DNR public education effort to inform lake area property owners of the guidelines regarding the buffer strip, which some lake residents apparently mistakenly think is property under their control and not the state's. "We are continuing to have problems with people cutting trees on the park buffer strip," DCL Recreation Area manager Paul Durham commented.

"It has always been illegal to cut trees on the buffer strip without permission," Durham said, adding that "generally you don't cut trees on someone else's property without their permisplaced by the fire. While the shop is the only fire-damaged area, three additional areas have been closed because the fire alarm system is temporarily non-functional. These areas are the biology classroom, carpentry, and vocational-agriculture. Accommodations for these students have been arranged and will be used for the remainder of the school term. School will be dismissed for the summer on June 3.

Allen Gosnell of the Western Region Fire Marshal's Office said in an interview this morning that the cause of the fire remains unknown and that nothing has been ruled out.

"This fire is a little peculiar," Gosnell said. "It doesn't lend itself to the normal fire traits. Here was a room with two cars in it that burned up for some reason. We are working to figure it out. Steve Wendling is leading the investigation, and he's one of our best guys. He has the experience and knowledge for this sort of investigation, and I have great confidence in his abilities."

Tom Powers, who has worked as a teacher in the auto mechanics shop for 15 years, said the fire was at first devastating to him and his students. Some work that has been continued by seniors for three years was destroyed, along with papers, photographs, and personal items. But Powers said Wendling has been very helpful.

"He's been great with the kids," Powers said. "They've had a tough time getting over that first shock. After the initial investigation was completed, Steve let them come into the shop, and he showed them how the fire progressed. He talked with them for a long time, answering their questions and teaching them about fire investigation. He really had their attention. We appreciated his concern."

Powers said the shop area was completely shut off from other hallways, so the fire, which may have started as early as late Friday night or early Saturday morning, finally burned up most of the oxygen in the room. What little oxygen was left allowed the cars to continue smoldering, which resulted in a massive build-up of heat. This heat then melted the computers and diagnostic equipment, as well as tires and other rubber items. This caused a settling of a thick, black residue on every surface. Aerosol cans in the shop exploded from the heat as well.

The fire alarm system and smoke detectors did activate during the fire, but no one was in the school to hear them. The clocks stopped at about 3 a.m. Sunday morning, Powers said, which means that the power went out at that time.

Powers said the outpouring of support from the community has been overwhelming.

"The phone rings constantly, and we're getting e-mails," he said. "People offer their condolences and then their help."

The investigation into the fire is continuing.

COLIN JACOBSEN

CLANCY NEWMAN

ANNA POLONSKY

The Astral Trio will open the 10th season of Music at Penn Alps on June 1 with a classical program of works by Beethoven, Brahms, and Shostakovich. The concert will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall adjacent to Penn Alps Restaurant and Crafts Shop, located in Grantsville.

Composed of three young prize-winning musicians, the trio made its debut in November 2001 at the Los Angeles Chamber Music Festival. Violinist Colin Jacobsen joins cellist Clancy Newman and pianist Anna Polonsky for this performance.

As a student at the Juilliard School, Jacobsen won the grand prize from the New York State and National American String Teachers Association competitions. He first played to critical acclaim at age 14 in a performance with Kurt Masur and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. During this year, he will be on tour with cellist Yo-Yo Ma as part of the Silk Road Project.

A native of Australia, Newman shared the coveted first prize of the Walter W. Naumburg Competition 2001 with cellist Li-Wei Qnin. He has also been the winner of the National Symphony Orchestra Young Soloists Competition, Juilliard School Cello Competition, National Society for Arts and Letters Cello Competition, and the National Federation of Music Clubs Competition.

A former student of Peter Serkin, Polonsky has since established herself as a sought-after chamber musician and duo recitalist in numerous appearances around the world. She made her solo debut in her native Russia at the Special Central Music School, affiliated with the Moscow Conservatory. Polonsky attended Interlochen Arts Academy, received her bachelor's degree from the Curtis Institute, and has a master's degree from the Juilliard School. She is now staff accompanist at Curtis.

This performance is sponsored by First United Bank & Trust. The audience is invited to a post-concert reception with refreshments provided by Penn Alps Restaurant.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by Sincell Publishing Co. Inc., Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop, corporate sponsors, and individuals. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket-holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

Local Artist Designs King's Book Jacket

The recent work of local artist Mark Stutzman can be seen on the cover of Stephen King's new collection of short stories, Everything's Eventual: 14 Dark Tales.

The book cover depicts a tranquil restaurant scene on the front cover with a small trace of blood in one water glass. But as the reader turns the book over, "all hell has broken loose. You can tell this book by its cover," said Janet Maslin of The New York Times.

The idea behind the cover is actually depicting a scene from the short story Gotham Cafe, where a couple meets to discuss their divorce, Stutzman said.

"Because it was a wrap-around cover, I thought it would be interesting to tease the reader with the front and hit the story home on the back cover with a blood-drenched restaurant," said Stutzman.

According to Stutzman, King suggested the phrase "Oh God please help us" written in blood on the napkin resting on the plate. "He's [King] great to work for because his writing is so visual and he thinks in those terms," he added.

Other works of Stutzman's include the OnStar Batman print campaign, Sutter Home Wines "Build a Better Burger" stand-up display, MAD Magazine covers, Sports Illustrated, Entertainment Weekly, Bradford Exchange Pearl Harbor Series, and Coca-Cola series.

He will also be teaching the Young Artist's Workshop July 8-12.

Other work can be seen at cloqui.com.

CCC History Program Set At Swallow Falls

Swallow Falls State Park will host "Travel Back to the Future — the Civilian Conservation Corps in 1936" for its upcoming campfire program at 8:30 p.m. this Saturday, May 25, at the park amphitheater. The living history program will be presented by Garrett County native Offutt Johnson, a retired Department of Natural Resources naturalist and historian.

Johnson's presentation will include a slide program, period costumes, exhibits, artifacts, CCC equipment, and models. "Many of the country's older generation remembers relatives who benefited from the CCC program instituted by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt as a way to put young men to work during the great Depression," Johnson said.

Johnson's own father served for a time as superintendent of one of five CCC camps that were located in Garrett County from 1933 to 1942. Drawn from Maryland and other states, the "CCC boys" of the local camps performed a myriad of work projects to benefit the community, including construction of the park cabins at New Germany State Park. Many of those CCC members went on to distinguish themselves in service to their country during World War II.

In case of rain, the program will take place in the Swallow Falls Nature Center (previously the Camp Office).

Those West Region athletes who placed among the top four in last Friday's regional championships at Williamsport qualified for the state meet.

The Southern boys' team amassed 49 points in the regional event to finish in fifth place among 11 teams. Northern placed 11th with two points. The Southern girls placed eighth as a team with 23 points, while Northern finished 10th among 11 teams with five points.

Among Garrett County's boys, Southern's Matt Stephens placed second in the high jump with a leap of six feet, while Tom Menges of Northern will compete in the state meet, having placed fourth in the shot put with a throw of 42 feet.

The Southern 800 relay team qualified by placing third with a time of 1:36.2.

Southern girls who qualified in individual events were Robbin Gregg, Justine Pagenhardt, and Melissa Durst. # Northern Tennis Team Finishes Year Ranked In Region's Top 10

The season drew to a close for the Northern High School girls' varsity tennis team earlier this week at the Region Tournament as the Huskies, Garrett County's lone representative on the high school tennis circuit, finished tenth in a 16-team field. Four NHS athletes — singles players Heather Lander and Ashley Robinson, and the doubles team of Nicole Sisler and Andrea Green — took to the court in a field of players from Garrett, Allegany, and Washington county schools of all sizes — 1A through 4A.

Lander turned in a fine showing as she advanced to the semifinals of singles play before falling to the eventual region champ. Lander crushed North Hagerstown's Leslie Schoek in the quarterfinal opener, 10-5, before falling 6-0, 6-0 to Tanya Gulnick of Thomas Jefferson in semifinal action. Gulnick went on to claim the singles crown with a hard-fought 7-6 (7-5), 6-3 title win over Urbana's Amber McGolerick.

Northern's Robinson fell in her quarterfinal round match by a 10-4 winning score recorded by Sammie Smiles of Williamsport.

In doubles action, the NHS Sisler Green duo were downed by the Williamsport tandem of Jamie and Jill Pritchett, 10-1, in quarterfinal play.

The regional showing earned NHS a measure of respect from fans and opponents alike, for Maryland's regional tennis competition is not based on school size, as are other sports — therefore, the Husky competitors were matched up against players from some much larger schools that mount much more comprehensive tennis programs. Northern was also hampered by the fact that girls and boys are scored together for their team tallies, and the Huskies were not able to put together a boys' team this season.

Rams Advance To Region Final, Fall To Warriors

The Southern High School baseball program, under Coach Jim Bosley, is probably among the top five most successful in the state of Maryland, at least in terms of total victories and fewest defeats over the past 20 seasons or so. But the one thing that has eluded Bosley and his teams has been a Maryland state championship.

Many thought that surely this would be the year, as the senior-dominated Rams completed the regular season with a perfect 19-0 season, winning another Western Maryland Interscholastic League title and another area title, and earning a spot in the 1A West Region title game for the sixth time in the past seven seasons. But once again it was not to be, as Coach Bosley and his squad went down to a 10-7 defeat to Boonsboro in the West Region championship game on Friday.

The Rams advanced to the title game by shutting out Smithsburg, 8-0, last Thursday, but foul weather conditions ended up taking what may have been a fatal toll on the their quest for a state title this year. Friday's game was the third in three days for the Southern players, decimating the pitching rotation for Bosley by forcing senior hurlers Bryson Meyers and Tobi Stoner to use up most of their eligible innings on Wednesday against Allegany and Thursday against Smithsburg.

Bryan Hauser started on the mound for the Rams and later gave way to Stoner, who had still not fully recovered from his work on Wednesday and Thursday. They allowed a total of 10 hits and issued eight walks.

The Rams were also strong offensively, as they too recorded 10 hits and drew seven walks; however, they left 14 base runners stranded.

Southern had a 2-1 lead at the end of the first inning, the contest was knotted at 3-3 after three innings, Boonsboro scored two runs in the fourth to go up 5-3, Southern rallied for three runs in the fifth to assume a 6-5 lead, and the Warriors finally took the lead for good with two runs in the bottom of the fifth. They added three more in the sixth to take a 10-6 lead, and the Rams' seventh inning rally was limited to one run. Southern had the bases loaded with one out in the bottom of the seventh, but scored just once on a fielder's choice before Boonsboro recorded the final out.

Stoner stroked two singles for two RBI for Southern, Chad Panther also hit two singles, and Meyers provided a double. Meyers also hit what appeared to be a home run, as the ball cleared the fence and hit about two feet to the inside of the baseline, but it was ruled a foul ball by the umpire.

Nathan Hines and Marty Kaetzel each hit three singles for Boonsboro (17-5), and Derrick Metzger contributed two singles.

Another sign of fatigue, upon which the Warriors capitalized, was a total of four errors by the Ram defense, which had committed an average of less than two errors per game through the regular season.

The Rams returned to the region finals with a surprisingly easy win over Smithsburg on Thursday, as they tagged Leopard pitchers Nick Vierra and Brandon Fisher for 11 hits, including three home runs. Meanwhile, Meyers allowed just five hits to earn the victory, with help from reliever Dennis Tressler.

Meyers gave the Rams a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the second when he ripped a three-run homer. Joel Helbig tacked on another one with a solo shot in the fourth. A solo shot by Chad Panther highlighted the Rams' four-run sixth inning.

Meyers and Helbig also each hit a single, Brad Palmer provided a double and a single, and J.J. Bolyard rapped a two-run double.

It was the ninth win against no defeats for Potomac State-bound Meyers, who struck out four.

Wisp Drops VFW, Hobo's In Hot Stove Action

In a sure sign that summer is truly on the way, this week marked the opening action of the Hot Stove Baseball League in western Maryland and the surrounding area. The Wisp squad, Garrett County's lone entry this season, jumped out of the blocks to take two wins in its first two outings with a 6-4 triumph over Ridgeley VFW and a 9-3 thumping of Hobo's Restaurant.

The debut contest against Ridgeley, played last Thursday, May 16, at Northern High School, featured a quick start by the Wisp unit, which jumped out to a 2-0 lead after one inning of play. Ridgeley knotted the score with two runs of its own in the third, then went up by one with a lone score in the fourth.

Wisp roared back with a four-run fifth inning to go up 6-3, before Ridgeley scored once in a last-gasp effort in the final stanza.

Derrick Lowdermilk paced the Wisp's offense with a double and a single to tally a pair of RBI. Preston Sisler tossed the first five full innings en route to claiming the victory on the mound, before giving way in the sixth to Lowdermilk, who was credited with the save. Both teams accumulated six hits apiece.

It didn't take long for the Wisp to assert its dominance Tuesday at Hyndman, as the team scored twice in each of the first two innings, and once in the third, before Hobo's got onto the board with two runs in the fourth. Wisp put two runs across the plate in the top of the fifth to go up 7-2, and Hobo's added a run of its own in the bottom of the stanza. Another Wisp run in the seventh inning accounted for the final six-run margin of victory.

Catcher Michael Wolf helped power the Wisp win with a triple and a single, and Lowdermilk doubled and singled as each player drove in one run. Corey Carr added two singles and one RBI, and John Thorp smacked a run-scoring double. Wisp totaled nine hits during the convincing win, just one more than Hobo's eight-hit tally.

Preston Sisler picked up his second win in as many outings by tossing the first four innings, and Carr, Mark Logsdon, and Lowdermilk each got in some relief duty on the mound.

Wisp is slated to square off against MeadWestvaco this afternoon at Northern High School.

Local Baseball Players Named To All-Star Tourney

Garrett County will be represented by three local high school baseball players who were selected to the West Region Baseball All-Star Tournament team after a recent try-out session. The West Region team is composed of players from Garrett, Allegany, and Washington county high schools.

Northern High School shortstop Greg Whittemore, and Southern High second baseman Tobi Stoner and pitcher Bryson Meyers were among the 20 players culled from the nearly 70 athletes who vied to make the All-Star roster. The West Region squad will be coached by Walkersville High assistant Paul Merrill, who will have NHS head coach Phil Carr on his dugout staff.

Whittemore, Stoner, Meyers and their West Region teammates will be taking to the field this Sunday at Waldorf's Thomas Stone High School for a state tournament contest pitting the West squad against an opponent yet to be named at 12:30 p.m. The West team will play in a second game immediately following that contest as well.

A total of 80 All-Star players will be on hand for Sunday's tournament competition, and from those 80, two teams of 40 players will be selected to play in a state final All-Star game in Baltimore. Twenty players will be picked from that contest to represent the state of Maryland in a national All-Star Tourney that will take place in Oklahoma beginning late next month.

Benefit Softball Tourney Slated

A benefit softball tournament will be held the weekend of June 1-2 at Flynn Field in Cumberland. Proceeds will go toward assisting the South Cumberland Reds Pee Wee football team.

An entry fee is required and cash prizes will be awarded. The tournament is for men only. For more information, persons may contact Mike Allen at 301-724-0038 or 301-729-4488, ext. 3646.

Rams Returning To Big Dance After Downing St. Michael's

The defending state champion Southern High School varsity softball team rolled into the Maryland Class 1A state title contest for the third straight season with convincing playoff wins this week over Allegany, Beall, and St. Michael's. The Rams whipped the Campers last Thursday 10-0, claimed the West Region crown with a 6-2 drubbing of Beall Monday, and bested St. Michael's Tuesday 4-0. SHS (20-1) puts its state crown on the line this evening against Catoctin (20-4), which defeated North East 5-2 in Tuesday's other regional contest.

Senior Southern pitcher Jennifer Bosley appears to be on her way to capping her amazing career in style, as she brings an 18-0 season mark into today's contest, her final outing for the Rams. She struck out 41 batters in 20 total innings of work this week, allowing just two walks and giving up just eight hits. Her no-hit win over Alco was her sixth no-hitter of the season.

Southern wasted no time putting Allegany aside Thursday, as the Rams scored three times in the first inning and twice in the second to stake Bosley to a 5-0 lead. That margin doubled after a five-run SHS sixth inning sparked by Becca Flanagan's bases-loaded, two-run double. That stanza's scoring flurry stopped the game in its tracks as the 10-run mercy rule was invoked.

Bosley paced the Rams at the plate with two doubles, a single, and one RBI, while Flanagan added a single to her two-run RBI. Ashley Liller knocked in two runs with two singles.

In tossing her second consecutive no-hitter, Bosley struck out nine batters and issued just one walk. Two SHS fielding errors put two other Campers aboard the bases, but Ram catcher Gina Reeves gunned all three Alco baserunner down during steal attempts. Allegany's season ended at 10-9.

"Jennifer mixed her pitches real well," Ram coach Dave Bosley said afterward. "She really hit the corners, and we hit very well ourselves today."

Jennifer Bosley, a three-time Area Player of the Year hurler, bade goodbye to area opponents in style Monday as she struck out 16 Beall batters during SHS's 6-2 region championship win. She threw 110 pitches during the contest, an amazing 81 of which were strikes, and gave up just one walk and five hits, while both of the Mounties' scores were unearned runs. She struck out the side in the first and second innings, and recorded four Ks in the fifth when a batter reached base on a passed ball.

The Rams took a 1-0 lead in the second stanza after Bosley singled, was sacrificed to second, and, after a walk and an infield error, scored on a wild pitch by Beall freshman pitcher Katie Rephann.

Southern went up 4-0 with a three-run third inning. Megan Burner's single was followed by a bunt by Liller, who beat the throw to first, and both runners advanced into scoring position as the attempt to get Liller sailed wildly into foul territory. Bosley then smacked an RBI single to center, and Liller scored on a wild pitch. Erica Green reached first base to put runners on both corners, and Bosley scored on an infield error.

Beall scored its first unearned run in the fourth when Whitney Wilson walked, moved to third on two wild pitches, and scored on a throwing error. Southern responded with a run in the bottom of the stanza to go up 5-1, then Beall added a second run in the top of the fifth. Pinchhitter Jenna Rush put the Rams' final run on the board with an RBI single in the bottom of the stanza.

Southern's nine-hit tally was paced by Liller's three singles and a pair of singles by Bosley, who scored twice and had one RBI.

The Rams got another amazing pitching performance from Bosley the following afternoon in the state semifinal battle with St. Michael's, as #8 struck out 16 batters for the second straight game, and gave up just three hits and no walks. She struck out the first six Saints she faced, and the first 10 of 13.

Liller supplied most of the offensive fireworks for her cousin, sparking Southern to the first of its four runs in the leadoff inning when she belted a triple to deep leftfield. As she was coming into third, a relay throw was bobbled, so she got the go-ahead sign from the thirdbase coach and continued speeding on to home for a stand-up score with the help of the one-base error.

"It felt good to get up so quickly," Coach Dave Bosley remarked, "but the Saints are a very good team, so I still wasn't too comfortable after Ashley scored. But with the way Jennifer was mowing them down, I thought we could probably win with a couple of runs."

The coach got his wish in the third inning when the Rams scored their second run. Samantha Skeweris singled, then advanced to second on Autumn Uphold's sacrifice bunt. Skeweris scampered to third on a wild pitch, then scored when Liller whacked a double to left that went off the fielder's glove.

Southern took a 4-0 lead with two fifth inning runs. Amber Bernard singled to get the ball rolling, then Uphold blasted a triple to drive her home. A sacrifice bunt by Skeweris moved Uphold to third, and she scored on pinch hitter Jenna Rush's fielder's choice grounder to the St. Michael's shortstop.

Southern narrowly missed a big sixth inning, as the Rams loaded the bases on Reeves' single, an infield error on Green's grounder, and a walk to Bernard. They were unable to score, however, and it remained to Bosley to gun down the Saints in the top of the seventh to close out for the win.

Today's state title contest against Catoctin will be broadcast on 92.3 FM, the Train, with a 15-minute pregame show preceding the 6 p.m. opening pitch.

RAMS ROLL OVER ST. MICHAEL'S — The Southern High varsity softball team strode into today's Maryland Class 1A softball championship game with a 4-0 shutout win over the St. Michael Saints in the semifinal round Tuesday. In addition to the practically routine superb pitching of Ram ace Jennifer Boaley, SHS got a balanced offensive performance. Junior Samantha Skeweris is shown above sliding into third base on a wild pitch during the third inning; she later scored on a double by Ashley Liller, who had two RBI of her own. Senior catcher Gina Reeves is pictured below rapping out a sixth-inning single, one of the six hits the Saints' Lauren Starkey gave up to the Ram line-up. ## GCC Basketball Camps Slated At McHenry Campus

Dennis Gibson, men's head basketball coach at Garrett Community College, will again hold his annual Laker basketball camps for area boys and girls at the McHenry campus.

Camp for youth in grades 1 through 4 will be held June 10-13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day. Instruction on basic fundamentals in passing, shooting, defensive footwork, and ball handling will be taught, along with concepts of team play. The cost is $30 per camper, each of whom will receive a T-shirt.

The camp for boys and girls in grades 5 through 12 will be held the week of June 17-21, also from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. Advanced instruction in all fundamentals of the game will be provided. There will also be free-throw and one-on-one competition, plus grade and gender team championships. Youth will be divided into separate leagues, based upon age, and double-elimination tournaments will be held on Friday. The cost is $60 per camper.

The coaching staff for both camps will include Laker coaches and players, plus coaches from area high schools.

"Our camp continues to be the best value in the tri-state area," stated Coach Gibson. "We are not just a 'play only' camp. Our goal is to give outstanding instruction to area youth and keep it affordable. We especially want to highlight offensive improvement this year, as well as team defensive play.

"We will also have an excellent group of speakers, who do a great job of imparting their knowledge of hard work and skills needed to be successful at the high school level and beyond."

Persons wishing to register for the camps and/or desiring more information may telephone Gibson at 301-387-3051 and leave name and address to receive a camp brochure.

Boating Safety Equivalency Exam Set In McHenry

The first of the summer offerings of the Maryland boating safety equivalency exam is slated for 9 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, May 24, at the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police, located at the intersection of Friendsville Road and Garrett Highway. One hour will be allotted to complete the exam.

The exam, which will be administered by personnel from the Department of Natural Resources, can be taken in lieu of a certified boating safety course. Successful completion of the exam will result in the issuance of a boating safety certificate of competency.

The exam will be offered sporadically throughout the summer, and additional testing dates will be announced as they are scheduled. A boating safety course will be offered at Garrett Community College this summer, and persons may contact the college at 301-387-3000 for further information on that course.

Pitchers' Duel Likely On Tap For SHS-Catoctin Title Battle

This evening's Maryland Class 1A softball title game between the defending state champion Southern High School Rams (20-1) and the Catoctin Cougars (20-4) could hinge on a lot of ups and downs, as two superb mound aces put their best pitches on the line against their opponents' batting line-ups.

SHS's Jennifer Bosley, arguably the best pitcher at any level in a very long while, will pit her 18-0 record and devastating rising fastball against the plummeting drop-curveball of Catoctin junior Shawna Wilkes, winner of her last 12 consecutive outings.

The Rams have mounted a 62-6 record over the past three seasons, and claimed the state crown last year with a 5-0 win over Bohenna Manor, which had defeated Catoctin in the semifinals. SHS also appeared in the 2000 final, but lost a 2-1 heartbreaker to Rising Sun, which had also bested the Cougars in semifinal play.

In terrorizing opposing batters this season and throughout her four-year varsity career, Bosley has earned three consecutive All-Area Player of the Year awards. She brings an 18-0 record into the showdown with Catoctin along with 256 strikeouts in 116 innings, an ERA of less than 0.20, and has given up just 29 hits and 11 walks. Liller and Bosley have also been the heart of the Rams' balanced batting line-up in the third and fourth slots of the order, respectively, as the cousins have been battling for the team leading batting average in excess of .400.

Top Cougar hurler Wilkes, Bosley's counterpart on the mound, has led Catoctin through a 15-game win streak. She struck out nine batters during her squad's 5-2 win over North East Tuesday, giving up seven hits and four walks. Her 14-strikeout performance against Poolesville Friday sparked the Cougars to a 5-0 win and their third straight appearance in the state tournament, where they have competed over seven of the last eight years, although the school hasn't claimed a state title since 1986. "Wilkes is an excellent pitcher," Ram coach Dave Bosley commented. "She'll be hard to hit. She reminds me a lot of Fort Hill's Becky Vance, who gives us trouble every time we face her."

The Cougars' top batter is catcher Jessica Valentine, who has a batting average of .533 and a superb arm that will challenge the Rams on the basepaths.

First-year Catoctin coach Amy Hunt has been working to prepare her team for Bosley — a seemingly impossible task. She and her players were in the stands to scout the pitcher for a regular season SHS contest and, although admittedly impressed, the Cougars are far from throwing in the towel. "It took the fear out of the unknown," Hunt told The Frederick News-Post. "It's a doable thing for us [today], having seen her play. If you hit somebody [like] Bosley, a lot of times the fielders aren't ready for it or don't have as much experience with it. Put the ball in play, that's our game plan."

Win or lose, the championship game will mark the end of an era in Southern softball, as Bosley and seven other seniors, including standouts Ashley Liller, Autumn Uphold, and Megan Burner, are set to graduate from the nine-player starting lineup of this year's SHS squad. Jennifer won't be the only Bosley slated to hang up her red and gray, as longtime Southern head coach Dave Bosley said that this contest, "just another game" in his own words, will be his last as the Rams' skipper.

Area fans can tune in to the 6 p.m. contest on 92.3 FM, the Train, as Paul Mullan delivers the play-by-play, with SHS athletic director Matt Reidinger providing the color commentary.

Thank You All So Much

Perhaps you sent a lovely card,
Or sat quietly in a chair,
Perhaps you sent a floral piece,
If so we saw it there.
Perhaps you spoke the kindest words,
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you were not there at all,
Just thought of us that day,
Whatever you did to console our hearts,
We thank you so much, whatever the part.

John Grant To Appear On MPT Tonight

Maryland Public Television's Artworks This Week will feature Oakland resident John Grant tonight, May 23, at 8 p.m. Grant will perform with the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums at the 15th annual Highland Festival. The festival will be held at the fairgrounds in McHenry on Saturday, June 1, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

"Piping must have been in my blood because of my Scotch ancestry," said Grant. He began his piping career in 1979 when he signed up for a bagpiping class taught by Charles "Chip" Evans and Fred Thayer at GCC.

The students and their instructors began parading with the Ali Ghan Highlanders in 1980. Within a year, they had organized their own Garrett Highlanders, which has now become the GCC Pipes and Drums. They appear regularly at various events throughout the county and surrounding areas.

Born and reared in Oakland, Grant graduated from Oakland High School in 1940. He has a background in journalism and is editor of The Glades Star — a quarterly publication of the Garrett County Historical Society. He is also author of two published books and has written a number of newspaper and magazine articles about history.

April 6 was officially recognized as Tartan Day by the U.S. Congress in 1998. Events are held in cities around the country to recognize the accomplishments of Scottish Americans. Congress's Resolution 155 proclaiming Tartan Day is on display at the College of William and Mary, Va., founded by Scottish born and educated James Blair.

Commissioners Approve "Adopt-A-Lot" Program

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners this week approved an Adopt-A-Lot Program for the county owned Crellin and Shallmar floodplain properties. Adjacent property owners and community groups will now have the opportunity to "adopt" the county-owned lots.

The purpose of the program is to help the county maintain the properties and project a positive image for the communities. The commissioners were concerned that the lots would become unsightly and costly to clean up.

"I don't want to see [the lots] become illegal dumping grounds," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

The caretakers will be responsible for mowing and trimming the grass and removing all debris from the lots. In exchange, they will be allowed to use the lots for a yard, garden, recreational use, and related activities. They will not, however, be allowed to build structures, erect fences, cut existing trees and shrubs, or impede nearby stream flows.

Allegany County has a similar Adopt-A-Lot Program, said Gary Mullich, General Services Department director. He and Lawrence Dawson, facilities and equipment supervisor, prepared and presented the program to the commissioners. Mullich said some Garrett County flood properties would be suitable for community parks or launch sites for kayakers.

Community groups will be given first priority on the properties. Since the county will still be the owner, it reserves the right to cancel agreements and to decide who may adopt the lots. The program also establishes a 10-year term for adoption of the lot, which may be renewed for additional 10-year periods, if agreeable by the county and the caretaker.

The county acquired the 14 Crellin and 6 Shallmar floodplain properties with funds from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Community Development Block Grant Program, and the Maryland Department of the Environment. FEMA must "formally" approve the county's Adopt-A-Lot Program before it can be implemented, said Mullich.

Commissioner Wendell Beitzel voted against the program, citing concerns about county liability and public access to waterways. "It may create more problems than it will solve," he said.

Adjacent property owners and community groups will be notified by the General Services Department about the program and its guidelines and restrictions. For more information about the Adopt-A-Lot Program, persons and organizations may call Dawson at 301-334-1928.

Possible Attack

lacerations across the front shoulders and neck area, the front right side of the body extending to the ribs, and the lower portion of both rear legs. The lacerations were of varied lengths, with the longest beginning on the left front shoulder crossing the neck and continuing across the right shoulder on to the front of the rib area, and on the right side there were "four distinct claw marks."

Dr. Joyce Colbert, who was on the scene treating the horse upon Lt. Berkebile's arrival, told the deputy that she felt "the horse had been attacked by a bear," and the police report noted Berkebile's opinion that "it was obvious that the horse had been attacked by a large predatory animal."

DNR specialists, who examined the animal and the pasture after being notified of the incident Monday, say they haven't reached a conclusive finding yet but are not convinced of an animal attack theory.

"While one wound to the side of the horse's neck, and another to the rib cage area, look like animal scratches that could have been inflicted by a clawed animal such as a bear or a large cat, the rest of the marks were not consistent with a bear attack," said Mt. Nebo wildlife biologist Terry Dewitt. "The worst wound was in the chest area, and was not a bear-like mark, it was a rip more indicative of the horse running into a post or fence, while the rear legs were injured in what may have been a fall in a rocky area nearby."

Perhaps the most telling piece of evidence, in DNR's eyes, is the victim itself. "That particular horse is a very large animal, and it would have taken an extremely large bear to take it down. It was also pastured overnight with cattle and a calf. It doesn't make sense that a bear or a large cat would attack a large horse when there were smaller animals nearby that would have made for easier prey.

"A bear attack involves a bite at the base of the neck as the bear attempts to sever the spinal cord of its prey. That would involve the bear jumping on the animal from behind, and putting lots of deep claw marks along its ribs" according to DeWitt, as the predator would hold on tight to work its way toward the prey's neck to administer the fatal bite.

The wildlife biologist said that the injuries could have been resulted if a bear or cat had spooked the horse enough to cause it to run into a fence or post at a gallop, causing a fall and additional injuries as the horse flailed on the ground in a panic before regaining its stance.

"We need to point out that all we have to go on is theories at this point," DeWitt stated. "Also, we've been discussing wounds as claw marks possibly caused by a bear or large cat, and it should be noted that while we've had unconfirmed reports of mountain lions in the area, there has been no confirmed proof of their presence."

A year ago DNR investigated a similiar incident on the VanSickle property along Friendsville Road just north of Garrett Highway. A horse had been injured while being pastured overnight, and its wounds were of the same nature. Investigating wildlife biologists expressed an opinion at that time that those wounds were not consistent with a bear attack either.

To Address

mission.

"Repeated illegal tree-cutting incidents have forced us to curtail permit services to property owners on weekends, because our staff has to be dedicated to buffer strip inspections and enforcement. We would rather be proactive than reactive."

The potential penalty for illegally cutting down a tree in the buffer strip without a specific DNR permit can involve a fine ranging up to $300 and the loss of a dock permit.

The same basic requirements and inspections apply to buy-down properties, Durham added. Enforcement responsibility for violations in the buy-down areas falls to the Office of the Maryland Attorney General. Adjoining property owners were given a chance to buy state-owned land, with a conservation easement, to prevent it from becoming public property.

Additional meetings that will address the special permit application process are slated for the Saturdays of June 29, July 27, and Aug. 24. Information about lake permits is also available on the Internet at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake. For more information, persons may call the DCL Management office at 301-387-4111.

Nature Connection

AMERICAN TOAD

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

Have you heard it yet? It's a long, musical trill lasting from 10 to 30 seconds. Is it a bird or insect calling in the night? No, it's a male American toad (Bufo americanus) advertising for a mate and warning other males to stay away.

The American toad is a common sight hopping along Garrett County roads on rainy spring nights. Adults range up to 4" in length, with females being larger than males. Their dry, warty skin varies in color from gray to brown to brick red and they have one or two warts on each of their largest dark spots.

Despite what your mother told you, you won't get warts from touching toads. But be sure to wash your hands before and after you handle them. Wash before so you don't put harmful chemicals from insect repellents or hand creams on their sensitive skin. Wash your hands afterwards to remove any bacteria or possible secretions from the large glands located behind their eyes.

Toad habitat varies from backyards to gardens to swamps and forests — anywhere they have cover, moist soil, and plenty of insects, slugs, and other invertebrates. With a diet like that, smart gardeners are happy to have toads around. Toads also need temporary shallow pools of water to breed — water-filled depressions in a marsh or the edge of a pond, even tire ruts will work (as long as traffic stays out). The female lays thousands of small black eggs in two jelly-like chains. They hatch into tadpoles in just a few days to two weeks time. They transform into miniature adults the size of your fingernail in one to two months. It takes them two to three years to mature.

Like the canary in a coal mine, toads, frogs, and salamanders provide an important indicator of the health of our environment. Sadly, populations of the American toad like other amphibians appear to be declining. The exact cause is uncertain. Possible "suspects" include habitat loss, acid rain, global warming, ultra-violet radiation, fungi, invasive species, or a deadly combination of all of the above. You can help find the solution by monitoring local frog and toad populations through Frogwatch USA. For more information, go to the Patuxent Wildlife Research Center web site: www.mp2-pwrc.usgs.gov/FrogWatch/

Reports from the Field

Barb and George Gaffney of New Germany had a Baltimore oriole, red-eyed vireo, scarlet tanager, wood thrush, american redstart, magnolia warbler, common yellowthroat, and over 20 pine siskins visit their backyard on May 7 and 8.

Ed Thompson reports that most snakes are now out of hibernation in Garrett County. In the last few weeks he has observed garter snakes, ringneck snakes, milk snakes, a black rat snake, and timber rattlesnakes.

Doug Stephens Awarded Eagle Scout Rank

Boy Scout Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/ Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, held an Eagle Scout Court of Honor on May 11 for Douglas Stephens. The event took place at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park.

Stephens, 16, is the son of Bob and Linda Stephens, Oakland. He is a junior at Southern High School.

Wesley Thomas, the senior patrol leader for Troop 22, presided over the court of honor. Brendan Stephens, the honoree's brother, led the flag ceremony, while Ben Peracchio gave the invocation. Eagle Scout Greg Wiltison noted that only 2% of all Scouts attain the Eagle rank, the highest award in Scouting.

Allan Taylor, the Troop Advancement, gave the Eagle Scout Challenge. He was assisted by Eagle Scouts Brian Crabtree (Potomac Council, 2001), Lane Duda (TransAtlantic Council, 1981), Tim Taylor (Mountaineer Council, 1969), Paul Shogren (East Bora's Council, 1945), David Snead (Del-Mar-Va Council, 1989), and Wiltison (Potomac Council, 1999). Taylor, also an Eagle Scout (Potomac Council, 1969), then presented the award.

The honor of pinning the badge on the new Eagle Scout was given to his mother, and his father presented him with the Eagle certificate. The honoree then gave his mother the Eagle mother pin and his father a tie tack.

Tom Gorley, the troop committee chairman, gave the Eagle Scout Charge.

"The Boy Scouts of all nations constitute one of the most wholesome and significant influences in the world's history," Gorley said. "Eagle Scouts are marked men. They are expected to exemplify in daily life the high principles and values expressed in the Scout Oath and the Scout Law. Eagle Scouts have assumed a solemn obligation to duty to God, to country, to fellow Scouts, and to all other human beings."

Gorley challenged Doug to "be among those who dedicate their hearts and hands to the common good, and to build on the solid foundations of clean living, honest work, unselfish citizenship, and reverence to your God. Then, whatever others may do, you will leave behind you a record of which we will all be justly proud."

Stephens was presented with membership to the National Eagle Scout Association by his uncle, Jim Snead, and his cousin, fellow Eagle Scout David Snead. A National Eagle Scout Association neckerchief was placed over his troop neckerchief to symbolize his membership in two groups, his local troop and the fellowship of Eagle Scouts.

Special music, the song "Friends," was provided by Carol Peracchio. The song was requested by Stephens to commemorate all of the help he received from friends to attain the rank of Eagle Scout.

A "portrait" ceremony followed, during which guests highlighted the Scout's special attributes. Participants in that ceremony included Jane Avery, who spoke of Stephens's "love for life," his possession of a "good soul," and his "tremendous sense of fair play."

Dr. Albert Getty spoke of Stephens's Eagle Scout project, Operation Christmas Child, which involved the organization and mobilization of a significant relief effort for children in Third World countries. The Scout spoke to many community groups and congregations to recruit volunteers to fill shoe boxes with hygiene necessities and toys that were then sent to needy children in other parts of the world. Each box contained a gospel message as well.

Getty cited the preparation required to carry out Operation Christmas Child and the dedication it took for Stephens to surpass his goal of 800 and to send 1,501 boxes overseas. Getty also noted the young man's compassion for the children of the world.

A letter sent from David Betz noted Stephens's future plans of being a missionary, and detailed Betz's experiences with the teenager on a mission trip to the Dominican Republic. Bill Thomas, assistant Scoutmaster, and Bob Stephens, Scoutmaster, shared stories about the honoree's many years of Scouting experiences.

In his speech, the new Eagle Scout said he owed a lot to Scouting after spending 63% of his life in the organization. He said met many of his closest friends through Scouting, and that he is proud to be associated with it. He recognized his mother for her support and for giving him the push that he needed to complete the course. He also recognized his father's influence and inspiration.

Several elected officials were present for the ceremony, including Senator John Hafer, who congratulated Stephens and presented him with a Maryland flag. Delegate George Edwards gave the new Eagle an American flag, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg presented a Garrett County flag on behalf of the board of county commissioners.

Pastor David Martin gave the benediction. A reception followed in the church social hall that was organized by Linda Stephens, Tina Harvey, and Susan Savopolous. Assisting in serving were Leslie Warnick, Debbie Georg, Vicki Stephens, Alice Stephens, and Kimi Stephens.

ferred alternative is identified," said PennDOT district engineer Earl Neiderhiser.

PennDOT recently mailed "Intent to Enter" letters to all property owners within the project study area, which informed residents that PennDOT officials and consultant team members may be entering area properties to perform environmental research and other studies for the project. "Receipt of a letter does not mean a property is or will be required for the project," Neiderhiser said. "The studies are being conducted to help determine the best location for improvements."

All team members will be wearing identification badges stating that they are with the project team. If residents or property owners have any questions, they should be directed to PennDOT district liaison engineer Dave Sherman at 814-696-7170.

To complete this project, the team will utilize PennDOT's 10-Step Project Development Process, designed to ensure that transportation projects are developed in an environmentally sensitive manner reflecting community, state, and federal resource agency input. Throughout the process the project team will be collecting public input. "Information sharing and community input throughout project development is important to the success of any transportation project," Neiderhiser commented.

Additional information may be obtained on the project web site www.us219.com, newsletters, information outposts in local communities, educational outreach programs, and public meetings.

Maryland Bay Game Educates, Enlivens Kids

The new 2002 Maryland Bay Game, the first educational tool of its kind in the nation, is now available at county tourism offices across the state and from toll collectors at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge. Designed for children ages 3 and up, the free game helps increase awareness of how our surroundings, including those in the westernmost reaches of the Bay's watershed in a portion of Garrett County, relate to the Chesapeake Bay.

This year's Bay Game features new games, including puzzles, mazes, and bingo, and encourages children to locate 14 sites, some of which are new, that are marked with "Bay Game" highway signs along the drive to Maryland's Eastern Shore beaches via U.S. Route 50 and state Route 404.

The 24-page booklet also introduces two new characters, Cooper and Hanna, a pair of water droplets who meet while traveling through the bay's watershed and tell the story of their journey. The booklet also includes a Walk Smart detachable bookmark, a word search, crossword puzzle, math quiz, secret code message, a stump-the-grownups game, and a full page of color stickers.

The Department of Natural Resources provides thousands of copies of the Bay Game to Maryland teachers each year for use in studies of environmental issues and the Chesapeake Bay. Private and governmental organizations across the nation have expressed interest in developing programs similar to the initiative, and have requested copies for use as models.

For more information about the Bay Game, persons may visit the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/baygame.

Planting Tiny Trees, Inner-City Children Nuture Seeds Of Hope

by David Foster

"As the twig is bent the tree inclines" the Roman poet Virgil wrote a century before Christ's birth. To put down roots with a strong and straight start, a young tree requires fertile ground, clean air and sunlight, and room to grow. The same can be said of children, and although the 20 fourth grade students of LaSalle Elementary School in Washington, D.C., who recently visited Garrett County are not overly blessed with those prerequisites in their inner-city neighborhood, they are still on their way to thriving with the help of many caring hands.

Working in conjunction with staff from the Nature Conservancy and approximately 20 adult volunteers, the children recently spent a day collecting 2,168 red spruce seedlings from the Canaan Valley (Tucker County, W.Va.) area of the Monongahela National Forest. The following day the children replanted the seedlings in the Conservancy-owned Cranesville Swamp. The swamp has one of Maryland's largest red spruce and red spruce/eastern hemlock stands, although today they cover just a fraction of their historical distribution.

The LaSalle students were on a rescue mission of sorts as they collected the tree seedlings from a gas pipeline right-of-way. For a number of years seedlings have been sprouting naturally along the pipeline's path, only to be mowed down by the natural gas company, which must maintain a clear swath through the forest. With the gas company's permission and encouragement, the students harvested the tiny trees, each of which was younger than the children themselves, and transported their collection to the Cranesville Swamp here in Garrett County, where the unique sub-arctic swamp thrives under the Conservancy's protection. There, each seedling was given a new home in the wet, spongy soil.

D.C. KIDS GIVE TREES A CHANCE — A team of 20 fourth graders from LaSalle Elementary School in Washington, D.C., donated their time and toil recently to a Nature Conservancy tree seedling replanting project in the Cranesville Swamp in western Garrett County. The students spent a full day collecting over 2,100 red spruce seedlings by hand in nearby Tucker County, W.Va., then brought the tiny trees north to spend the next day re-planting them in the swamp area. Emmanuel Eboweme, above left, is pictured gently coaxing a seedling from the ground for transport to Garrett County, where the group of students and adult volunteers shown at the above right — from left, Shaquan Moore, David Smallwood, Jasmine Crockett, and Karen Lenz — helped Eboweme and the others plant the little evergreens. The smiles of the young "Johnny Appleseeds" pictured below — Karina Montiel and Myra Miller — sum up the working weekend's true harvest. The children and adult volunteers stayed the night at the Panorama Motel in McHenry during their local visit.

"Red spruce trees were once very common in high-elevation forests throughout western Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia," noted Deborah Landau, a conservation ecologist with the Nature Conservancy, "but turn-of-the-century logging practices reduced their numbers significantly. This is the first of several years of replanting efforts we intend to carry out in order to restore the forest cover to its natural state, and regenerate the numbers of red spruce."

The LaSalle students, many of whom had never before had the opportunity to venture beyond the crowded streets and back alleys of their inner-city neighborhoods, traveled much farther than a five-hour sojourn aboard a schoolbus. Just how far can be gauged by the school they left behind, which has a student body of 330 black, 30 Hispanic, and just four white children.

"The children's parents and grandparents were actually more apprehensive about this trip than the kids were," commented LaSalle teacher David Hilmy, who spearheaded the expedition. "They were worried about their kids leaving the city for the first time, and what could go wrong out in the country. When we had each child call home on the first night out, there were some rather long and heartfelt conversations as the kids, despite being a little homesick, assured their families that everything was going OK."

The children and the trees they rescued actually have a lot in common; both come from areas that can on the surface seem incredibly harsh, but with a lot of care and concern, along with a little luck, can produce a strong youth. "LaSalle is what the D.C. school system calls a 'transformational school,'" Himly explained. "It was rated as one of the very worst in the city, so the entire administration and staff were removed and replaced. Part of our mission now is to inject new ways of learning and thinking into the classroom and our students' lives."

Such new tactics are evidenced in the person of Himly, a native of Scotland whose job description says his position is filled by a teacher of physical education and dance, but would more accurately read "a teacher of all trades." The former British Army soldier, who has traveled the world, is by training a tropical biologist who now helps children flower in the inner city jungle.

"I believe very strongly in the value of hands-on education," Himly said. "It only stands to reason that we are given more than one or two senses, so to limit our teaching to one or two senses — say sight and sound, with students just reading books and listening to teachers talk — misses the larger picture of what kids, and all of us, are made of. The more ways children take information in — not just by hearing and seeing, but also by touching, smelling, and tasting, as well as talking, writing, musing, and dreaming — only serves to help them make that information part of their lives.

"If I could turn the entire school year into hands-on field trips, I would. One of the best things about this trip, apart from the scientific learning, was that the kids got to work side-by-side with adult biologists who are enthusiastic about the environment, and some of that enthusiasm rubbed off on them. It was also important for them to live in close contact together, both working in the field and staying together in McHenry's Panorama Motel. By spending so much time together doing the same things, they learned self-respect, respect for others, teammwork, and conflict resolution — important life skills for anyone, but especially for those growing up in the inner city."

There was no playing of Game Boy over the weekend, or other of the more typical diversions, according to the teacher, who added that the children were at first quite amused, then excited, that he cooked for them in the Panorama's kitchen suite. "It was the first time many of the kids had seen a man working in the kitchen, and many of them mostly eat McDonald's meals for supper. We also brought fixings so they could make their own lunches each morning, which was a new experience for most of them. They learned a great deal about a lot of different things and skills."

The children's work in the Cranesville Swamp is part of the Nature Conservancy's ongoing effort to renew the natural forest life of Garrett County. The organization conducted a similar set of red spruce planting for three years in a row between 1995 and 1998 at the Glades Preserve between Bittinger and McHenry. Approximately 10,000 seedlings were planted in those three years.

"Our Garrett County replanting projects are using local, wild seedlings, which would otherwise be destroyed because they're in a natural gas right-of-way," said the Conservancy's Landau. "That way we're ensuring conservation of any potentially unique genetic material in the region's red spruce."

And, as Himly could have well added, the projects and the adults who are mentoring the LaSalle students, and children anywhere, are also working to preserve unique members of our human family.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I can remember how I struggled with the topic "Youth Responsibility in Their Community" for a 4-H public speaking contest when I was young. I think that I maybe won that year in the girls' senior division in the county contest. I know the boy winner was none other than Bobby Custer. Somewhere I think I have a clipping of Bobby and me from The Republican.

Like many communities in Garrett County, Bittinger expects a lot from our kids. Last weekend was a good example. Many got up early to set up the yard sale for Emmanuel Lutheran Church's Blessing Fund, and worked at it through the dreary morning so blessed with bad weather that many customers kept away. They ended up closing in the late morning.

Other community kids who are members of the Bittinger 4-H took time to hit the road, literally, on Rt. 495 to clean up trash that thoughtless motorists toss out their window, as part of their Adopt-A-Highway project. Sometimes I think people think, why not? They know someone else will clean up their mess. If they keep it in their cars then they would have to deal with it themselves.

I felt pretty bad that my girls were absent from all the activities last weekend, since they had to go to Silver Spring to see their Sussman grandparents and have a late celebration of their Aunt Vicki's birthday. She turned 50 in April, but complex schedules made the celebration wait until May.

The weather in Bittinger recently has been fit for December. We got several small snow flurries, and some really cold nights. Last night I neglected to cover my impatiens that the girls gave me for a Mother's Day gift, and I saw this morning that they had suffered severe frost damage. It was too cold for my girls to finish all the outside plant protection after they got home from Washington Sunday evening. They did work to clear out my little garden spot in front of my house, but they were only good for about a half an hour and then came into the house, saying over and over again, "It is too cold, it is too cold." They did remember that I got some heating oil in the tank last week, so they cranked the thermostat way up, so my house got very hot today after they left. I almost wished there was a window up when I got up.

In spite of the cold weather and all the rain that we have gotten over the last few weeks, spring continues to come here. The ewes in Jimmy Glotfelty's pasture got busy and birthed a new crop of little, shaky, fluffy lambs, both white and black. He also has a small herd of goats. Little baby goats are the one baby animal that I think is even cuter than a lamb. I can't drive past that field without stopping and admiring them.

We have also seen more activity in the working of fields in Garrett County with plowing, disking, etc. Not many are ready for planting yet though. The pastures and hay fields have enjoyed the rain though and are greening up nicely. Whether we will get some nice dry weather in June so necessary to make hay (you know the old saying — Make hay while the sun shines) is still to be seen.

One of the three new

Annual Drinking Water Quality Report for 2001
The Town of Oakland
PWSID # 0110008

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Water Quality Report. This report is designed to inform you about the water quality and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. The Oakland Water System obtains all of its raw water from two separate sources. Source #1 is the Youghiogheny River and it supplies water for the Bradley Lane Water Treatment Plant which is located off Bradley Lane in Oakland. Source #2 is called Broadford Lake, which is located just off Broadford Road and it supplies water for the Broadford Water Treatment Plant. Once the water is treated, it is pumped directly to the customer with excess capacity held in reserve at one of our three water storage tanks to meet daily needs. Water from both sources is blended together at the storage tanks.

I'm pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets federal and state requirements.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Randy Sharpless at the Oakland Water Department at 301-334-3836 or Mayor McCain at 301-334-2691 for additional information regarding the data in this report. The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland holds regularly scheduled meetings on the first Monday of the month at 7:00 PM in the Council Chambers, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland. Please call 301-334-2691 to schedule your topic on the agenda for discussion at any regularly scheduled meeting.

The Town of Oakland routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2001. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes, inorganic and organic chemicals, and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. It's important to remember that the presence of these contaminants does not necessarily pose a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Non-Detects (ND) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - The "Goal" (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

TEST RESULTS

| Contaminant | Violation Y/N | Level Detected | Unit Measurement | MCLG | MCL | Likely Source of Contamination |

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some contaminants have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. These substances can be microbes, inorganic or organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

MCL's are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated contaminants, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

Please call our office at 301-334-3836 if you have questions.

Doug Stephens Awarded Eagle Scout Rank

Boy Scout Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland/ Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, held an Eagle Scout Court of Honor on May 11 for Douglas Stephens. The event took place at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park.

Stephens, 16, is the son of Bob and Linda Stephens, Oakland. He is a junior at Southern High School.

Wesley Thomas, the senior patrol leader for Troop 22, presided over the court of honor. Brendan Stephens, the honoree's brother, led the flag ceremony, while Ben Peracchio gave the invocation. Eagle Scout Greg Wiltison noted that only 2% of all Scouts attain the Eagle rank, the highest award in Scouting.

Allan Taylor, the Troop Advancement, gave the Eagle Scout Challenge. He was assisted by Eagle Scouts Brian Crabtree (Potomac Council, 2001), Lane Duda (TransAtlantic Council, 1981), Tim Taylor (Mountaineer Council, 1969), Paul Shogren (East Bora's Council, 1945), David Snead (Del-Mar-Va Council, 1989), and Wiltison (Potomac Council, 1999). Taylor, also an Eagle Scout (Potomac Council, 1969), then presented the award.

The honor of pinning the badge on the new Eagle Scout was given to his mother, and his father presented him with the Eagle certificate. The honoree then gave his mother the Eagle mother pin and his father a tie tack.

Tom Gorley, the troop committee chairman, gave the Eagle Scout Charge.

"The Boy Scouts of all nations constitute one of the most wholesome and significant influences in the world's history," Gorley said. "Eagle Scouts are marked men. They are expected to exemplify in daily life the high principles and values expressed in the Scout Oath and the Scout Law. Eagle Scouts have assumed a solemn obligation to duty to God, to country, to fellow Scouts, and to all other human beings."

Gorley challenged Doug to "be among those who dedicate their hearts and hands to the common good, and to build on the solid foundations of clean living, honest work, unselfish citizenship, and reverence to your God. Then, whatever others may do, you will leave behind you a record of which we will all be justly proud."

Stephens was presented with membership to the National Eagle Scout Association by his uncle, Jim Snead, and his cousin, fellow Eagle Scout David Snead. A National Eagle Scout Association neckerchief was placed over his troop neckerchief to symbolize his membership in two groups, his local troop and the fellowship of Eagle Scouts.

Special music, the song "Friends," was provided by Carol Peracchio. The song was requested by Stephens to commemorate all of the help he received from friends to attain the rank of Eagle Scout.

A "portrait" ceremony followed, during which guests highlighted the Scout's special attributes. Participants in that ceremony included Jane Avery, who spoke of Stephens's "love for life," his possession of a "good soul," and his "tremendous sense of fair play."

Dr. Albert Getty spoke of Stephens's Eagle Scout project, Operation Christmas Child, which involved the organization and mobilization of a significant relief effort for children in Third World countries. The Scout spoke to many community groups and congregations to recruit volunteers to fill shoe boxes with hygiene necessities and toys that were then sent to needy children in other parts of the world. Each box contained a gospel message as well.

Getty cited the preparation required to carry out Operation Christmas Child and the dedication it took for Stephens to surpass his goal of 800 and to send 1,501 boxes overseas. Getty also noted the young man's compassion for the children of the world.

A letter sent from David Betz noted Stephens's future plans of being a missionary, and detailed Betz's experiences with the teenager on a mission trip to the Dominican Republic. Bill Thomas, assistant Scoutmaster, and Bob Stephens, Scoutmaster, shared stories about the honoree's many years of Scouting experiences.

In his speech, the new Eagle Scout said he owed a lot to Scouting after spending 63% of his life in the organization. He said met many of his closest friends through Scouting, and that he is proud to be associated with it. He recognized his mother for her support and for giving him the push that he needed to complete the course. He also recognized his father's influence and inspiration.

Several elected officials were present for the ceremony, including Senator John Hafer, who congratulated Stephens and presented him with a Maryland flag. Delegate George Edwards gave the new Eagle an American flag, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg presented a Garrett County flag on behalf of the board of county commissioners.

Pastor David Martin gave the benediction. A reception followed in the church social hall that was organized by Linda Stephens, Tina Harvey, and Susan Savopolous. Assisting in serving were Leslie Warnick, Debbie Georg, Vicki Stephens, Alice Stephens, and Kimi Stephens.

ferred alternative is identified," said PennDOT district engineer Earl Neiderhiser.

PennDOT recently mailed "Intent to Enter" letters to all property owners within the project study area, which informed residents that PennDOT officials and consultant team members may be entering area properties to perform environmental research and other studies for the project. "Receipt of a letter does not mean a property is or will be required for the project," Neiderhiser said. "The studies are being conducted to help determine the best location for improvements."

All team members will be wearing identification badges stating that they are with the project team. If residents or property owners have any questions, they should be directed to PennDOT district liaison engineer Dave Sherman at 814-696-7170.

To complete this project, the team will utilize PennDOT's 10-Step Project Development Process, designed to ensure that transportation projects are developed in an environmentally sensitive manner reflecting community, state, and federal resource agency input. Throughout the process the project team will be collecting public input. "Information sharing and community input throughout project development is important to the success of any transportation project," Neiderhiser commented.

Doug Stephens Awarded Eagle Scout Rank

Boy Scout Troop 22, sponsored by the Oakland Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, held an Eagle Scout Court of Honor on May 11 for Douglas Stephens. The event took place at Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park.

Stephens, 16, is the son of Bob and Linda Stephens, Oakland. He is a junior at Southern High School.

Wesley Thomas, the senior patrol leader for Troop 22, presided over the court of honor. Brendan Stephens, the honoree's brother, led the flag ceremony, while Ben Peracchio gave the invocation. Eagle Scout Greg Wiltison noted that only 2% of all Scouts attain the Eagle rank, the highest award in Scouting.

Allan Taylor, the Troop Advancement, gave the Eagle Scout Challenge. He was assisted by Eagle Scouts Brian Crabtree (Potomac Council, 2001), Lane Duda (TransAtlantic Council, 1981), Tim Taylor (Mountaineer Council, 1969), Paul Shogren (East Bora's Council, 1945), David Snead (Del-Mar-Va Council, 1989), and Wiltison (Potomac Council, 1999). Taylor, also an Eagle Scout (Potomac Council, 1969), then presented the award.

The honor of pinning the badge on the new Eagle Scout was given to his mother, and his father presented him with the Eagle certificate. The honoree then gave his mother the Eagle mother pin and his father a tie tack.

Tom Gorley, the troop committee chairman, gave the Eagle Scout Charge.

"The Boy Scouts of all nations constitute one of the most wholesome and significant influences in the world's history," Gorley said. "Eagle Scouts are marked men. They are expected to exemplify in daily life the high principles and values expressed in the Scout Oath and the Scout Law. Eagle Scouts have assumed a solemn obligation to duty to God, to country, to fellow Scouts, and to all other human beings."

Gorley challenged Doug to "be among those who dedicate their hearts and hands to the common good, and to build on the solid foundations of clean living, honest work, unselfish citizenship, and reverence to your God. Then, whatever others may do, you will leave behind you a record of which we will all be justly proud."

Stephens was presented with membership to the National Eagle Scout Association by his uncle, Jim Snead, and his cousin, fellow Eagle Scout David Snead. A National Eagle Scout Association neckerchief was placed over his troop neckerchief to symbolize his membership in two groups, his local troop and the fellowship of Eagle Scouts.

Special music, the song "Friends," was provided by Carol Peracchio. The song was requested by Stephens to commemorate all of the help he received from friends to attain the rank of Eagle Scout.

A "portrait" ceremony followed, during which guests highlighted the Scout's special attributes. Participants in that ceremony included Jane Avery, who spoke of Stephens's "love for life," his possession of a "good soul," and his "tremendous sense of fair play."

Dr. Albert Getty spoke of Stephens's Eagle Scout project, Operation Christmas Child, which involved the organization and mobilization of a significant relief effort for children in Third World countries. The Scout spoke to many community groups and congregations to recruit volunteers to fill shoe boxes with hygiene necessities and toys that were then sent to needy children in other parts of the world. Each box contained a gospel message as well.

Getty cited the preparation required to carry out Operation Christmas Child and the dedication it took for Stephens to surpass his goal of 800 and to send 1,501 boxes overseas. Getty also noted the young man's compassion for the children of the world.

A letter sent from David Betz noted Stephens's future plans of being a missionary, and detailed Betz's experiences with the teenager on a mission trip to the Dominican Republic. Bill Thomas, assistant Scoutmaster, and Bob Stephens, Scoutmaster, shared stories about the honoree's many years of Scouting experiences.

In his speech, the new Eagle Scout said he owed a lot to Scouting after spending 63% of his life in the organization. He said met many of his closest friends through Scouting, and that he is proud to be associated with it. He recognized his mother for her support and for giving him the push that he needed to complete the course. He also recognized his father's influence and inspiration.

Several elected officials were present for the ceremony, including Senator John Hafer, who congratulated Stephens and presented him with a Maryland flag. Delegate George Edwards gave the new Eagle an American flag, and Commissioner Ernie Gregg presented a Garrett County flag on behalf of the board of county commissioners.

Pastor David Martin gave the benediction. A reception followed in the church social hall that was organized by Linda Stephens, Tina Harvey, and Susan Savopolous. Assisting in serving were Leslie Warnick, Debbie Georg, Vicki Stephens, Alice Stephens, and Kimi Stephens.

4-H Club News

BITTINGER
by Darryl Glotfelty

The Bittinger 4-H Club braved the inclement weather to perform Adopt-A-Highway duties on Saturday. A two-mile stretch of Rt. 495, starting at Brenneman's Store, was cleared of motorists' litter. The club gathered eight large bags of trash. Participating members were Trey Brenneman, Robbie and Blakely Glotfelty, Jordan Brenneman, and Charlie and April Hockman. Participating adult volunteers were Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and Maggie Hockman.

This past month, Vicki Teets, leader of the Bittinger 4-H Club, stepped down after 15 years of service. We appreciate her years of devoted service to the club. Marci Glotfelty accepted the role of leader. With the help of parent volunteers, we hope the club will continue to thrive.

District Court

An Oakland woman drew a fine and a suspended sentence after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct and consumption of alcohol to the point of posing a danger to herself and/or others. Judy Lynn Bow, 34, was fined $150, handed a 90-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Bow's March arrest came after Garrett County sheriff's deputies were summoned by Broad Ford Elementary School personnel. An intoxicated Bow had entered the school to pick up her child, and the principal refused to release the youngster into the woman's care because of her condition. Bow refused to comply with deputies' repeated requests to be quiet as they conducted their investigation at the school. An additional charge of failure to obey a lawful order was not prosecuted.

Jamie Lee Shifflett, 19, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to second degree assault and trespassing and was handed a 120-day suspended sentence, fined $300, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service. An array of additional charges — an additional count of second degree assault, DUI, disturbing the peace, and various traffic offenses — were not prosecuted.

Sheriff's deputies jailed Shifflett after apprehending him as he was trying to flee the scene of a party in Mtn. Lake Park. The intoxicated Shifflett had refused to leave the home at the owner's request, fought with some other subjects, then spun his vehicle's wheels in trying to flee the scene upon the deputies' arrival.

Richard Francis Garber, 27, Frostburg (Allegany County), was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) on a charge of driving under the influence (DUI), while two counts of concealing a deadly weapon were not prosecuted.

Garber's January arrest by Maryland state troopers resulted from a traffic stop along Interstate 68. A buck knife was found hidden in his clothing, and a baseball bat was discovered underneath the front seat. In unsolicited remarks, Garber told the investigating trooper that he carried the bat for his own protection. Several additional traffic charges were not prosecuted.

Alma Loucill Aronhalt, 39, Oakland, was handed stet rulings on charges of second degree assault, reckless endangerment, and displaying a knife with the intent of injuring another person. An additional second degree assault charge was not prosecuted.

Aronhalt's February arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from two domestic-related incidents involving fighting with another woman in the residence they share with their respective spouses. Alcohol was a factor in one of the altercations, during which Aronhalt had allegedly made threats while holding a knife in her hand.

Frederick William Holtschneider, 53, Oakland, was handed stet rulings on two counts of second degree assault, while two counts of child abuse were not prosecuted. His March arrest by sheriff's deputies came after accusations that he had pushed a child to the floor of their home and was holding him down, when he pushed away another child that tried to intervene. The mother of both children was in the home at the time of the alleged assaults, and told deputies that she had been aware of the sounds of an altercation, but never came upstairs to check on her family.

EXERCISING 25 MILES OR MORE — Pictured above are students from Suzanne Wilburn's second grade class at Broad Ford Elementary who exercised for 25 miles or more during a four-week program promoting activity by the Garrett County Health Department. Amy Ritchie, registered dietician with the health department, visited the students once a week to exercise with them. The students participated in jumping rope, hula hoop, relay races, and the Chicken Limbo. The students who exercised 25 miles or more were awarded a Walk-A-Weigh T-shirt or sweatshirt. Shown above, from the left, modeling their awards, are Jasper Tasker, Brittany McNal, Damien Patton, Tiara Friend, D.J. Ritchie, Rachel Gorley, and Kody Fike.

FSU's Annual Fund-Raiser Meets Its Goal

The Frostburg State University Annual Fund has met and may exceed its established fund-raising goal for the eighth year in a row. With less than two months left to go in the fiscal year, the 2001-2002 FSU Annual Fund campaign has raised nearly $156,000 in unrestricted funds in support of FSU, which is $36,000 more than last year's goal.

"An aggressive fall and spring telemarketing campaign conducted toward more than 26,000 FSU alumni, as well as 4,500 parents, friends, staff, and numerous organizations, was the key to the fund's success," said an FSU spokesperson. More than 3,200 contributors each donated an average of $49 in support of FSU and its programs.

During fall and spring phonathons, more than 50 student telemarketers phoned alumni and parents to ask for unrestricted gifts to the university. The students' three goals were to update alumni information, thank them for their continued support, and ask for a gift to this year's campaign. Workers also informed alumni of the new initiatives and projects being undertaken by the university and invited alumni and parents to upcoming events.

"FSU students were the key to the success of this year's and previous years' campaigns," said Christopher J. Harmon, director of FSU Annual Giving. "They are professional, dedicated, and hardworking. The students continue to be the driving force in the fund-raising effort here at Frostburg State."

Contributions to the Annual Fund help with student scholarships; student development; student work programs; the Alumni Association; faculty, staff, and university development; university events; community service projects; and the Cultural Events Series.

For more information or to make a contribution to the FSU Annual Fund, persons may call Harmon at 301-687-4758.

NURSES CELEBRATED AT GCMH — Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently honored its nursing staff with the celebration of Nursing Week. All nurses, nursing assistants, and nursing unit secretaries were treated to doughnuts and cookies, and were eligible to win prizes each day throughout the week. Second and third graders from Accident, Aurora (W.Va.), Broad Ford, and Terra Alta elementary schools created posters for the week, which were displayed throughout the hospital. "The goal of GCMH's Nursing Week recognition is to honor our nursing staff for their commitment to saving lives and maintaining the health of our patients," said Toni Glotfelty, GCMH nursing grant support coordinator. Glotfelty noted that Jackie Johnson was "instrumental" in obtaining sponsorships for the weeklong celebration. Several local sponsors helped make the event a success as well, she noted. Sponsors for the event were Wal-Mart, Deep Creek Pharmacy, Proudfoot's Pharmacy, CVS, the GCMH medical staff, Valley Lab, Flowers by Webers, Rob Michael of State Farm Insurance, Brenda's Pizzeria, Dr. David Tuel, Garrett 8 Cinemas, Country Garden Expressions, McHenry Beverage, and R&B Orthopedics. Pictured in front of the students' artwork from left are Denise Liston, GCMH vice president of Clinical Services; Pat Barcus, RN; Linda Paugh, CNA; and Debbie DeWitt, Med/Surg Unit secretary.

Doctor's discovery may end obesity

HILTONHEAD,S.C.–A doctor believes that a natural formula containing the extract of a small Asian fruit can help cause significant weight loss.

Anthony A. Conte, M.D. reported in an American Medical Journal that the formula, now called Bio-Rex 3000®, caused patients to lose more than twice as much weight as those in a control group on the same fat reduced diet. Neither group was instructed to decrease the amount of food they ate or to increase their exercise levels. An article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition says that you don't have to reduce the amount of food you eat to lose weight, provided that you limit the fat.

Dr. Conte says that animal studies suggest the mechanism behind the weight reduction is due to interruption of the "Krebs Cycle", an important step in the body's fat storage process. He says it may work the same way in humans. According to Dr. Conte, "The best part of this unique discovery is that it is not a drug, but a dietary food supplement. The Asian fruit, called garcinia, is similar to citrus fruit found in the United States with one big exception-- it may help some people fight obesity! While Dr. Conte's study may be preliminary, the exclusive North American distributor, Phillips Gulf Corp., is calling the Bio-Rex 3000 supplement "Nature's Ideal Diet Aid."

Suggested retail price for a four week supply of Bio-Rex is just $19.99. Available through pharmacies and nutrition stores or call 1-800-729-8446 www.hcsales.com

NHS Envirothon Team Fares Well At Regionals

Northern High School's "Envirothon" team, the Northern Lights, placed second and fifth at the Allegany County Envirothon competition, held May 9 at Rocky Gap State Park.

A total of 20 teams from five Allegany County schools competed for the right to represent their county at the state championships. Northern was invited to compete at the event, as the school had no opportunity to compete at the county level.

Northern's eight-person team of Trish Beitzel, Danny Gallagher, Will Gallagher, Michael Guard, Mitchell Guard, Jordan Halsig, Margret Mastej, and Vicki Schlosnagle was divided in order to create two equally balanced teams. The purpose was to maximize the competitive experience for team members, a spokesperson said.

The team members wore official team shirts provided by Phenix Technologies and Precision Rafting. The Northern Lights' "R" team finished second with 374 points, just two points away from the first place finish by the Allegany High team. This was a significant achievement since Allegany's team was comprised of five seniors, whereas Northern's four-person team was made up of three juniors and one sophomore. The "R" team also had the top finish in the aquatics category with a score of 88 points.

The Northern Lights' "L" team finished fifth in the competition with a score of 353. They also were one person short of the allowed five-person maximum. The next highest score was another Allegany High team with a difference of only 20 points.

The Envirothon is an international competition for high school students that tests their knowledge of natural resources. Students compete in contests involving soils, forestry, aquatics, wildlife, and a special issue topic.

The Northern Lights will now prepare to compete at the state championship in Harford County in June. The team is coached by Liz McDowell and Ron Boyer.

Northern's eight-person team of Trish Beitzel, Danny Gallagher, Will Gallagher, Michael Guard, Mitchell Guard, Jordan Halsig, Margaret Mastej, and Vicki Schlosnagle was divided in order to create two equally balanced teams. The purpose was to maximize the competitive experience for team members, a spokesperson said.

NORTHERN LIGHTS ENVIROTHON TEAM HEADED TO STATES — Although undermannad and young, the Northern High School Envirothon Team was undaunted in a regional competition last week in which they earned both a second and a fifth place against older Allegany County teams. The group, coached by Liz McDowell and Ron Boyer, will now move on to state competition in June. See story. Pictured from left are Will Gallagher, Vicki Schlosnagle, Michael Guard, Mitchell Guard, Margaret Mastej, Danny Gallagher, Jordan Halsig, and Trish Beitzel.

Plug in. Get smart.
What changes with electric choice and what doesn't?
A. You'll get to choose your electricity supplier, while delivery over poles and wires remains the same.
In the past, your entire electric service was provided by your local electric utility. With electric competition, the three main parts of electric service — generation, transmission and distribution — are separated. As the market develops, you will be able to choose the company that provides the generation of your electricity. This company is called an electricity supplier. Transmission and distribution services include the actual delivery of electricity over poles and wires and will continue to be provided by your local utility. Your utility is now called your electric company. They are the ones to call if the power goes out, just as you always have. Get questions about electric competition? Give us a call or visit our web site!

Brochtrup not faking niceness on 'Blue'

By Taylor Michaels
©Tribune Media Services

Bill Brochtrup

Q: Information, please, on Bill Brochtrup, who plays police public assistant John Irwin on "NYPD Blue." He seems so likable and caring. –Carol Gorman, Surfside Beach, S.C.

A: Brochtrup, a third-generation native Californian, is a talented thespian, but the nice-guy thing is no act; he's just as warm and friendly in real life.

Raised in Tacoma, Wash., Brochtrup attended New York University's Tisch School of the Arts, then racked up a number of stage credits.

His "Blue" character, John Irvin, was scheduled to appear for only a couple of episodes, but he scored with viewers and after a long and winding road through other Steven Bochco shows including "Public Morals" and "Total Security" – he was promoted to regular status on the long-running "Blue."

Like his character, Brochtrup himself is openly gay and says he wasn't really closeted before he landed his current gig. "I did a few interviews where I said, 'I don't talk about my personal life,' because I really just don't like to talk about my personal life," he explains. "But it sounded as if I was trying to dodge the question, so I started saying, 'Yes, I'm gay, but I don't talk about my personal life,' which seems to work for me."

Q: I watch "Mystery Science Theater 3000" each weekend on the Sci-Fi Channel with my teen-age children and just laugh my socks off. Any chance that we will get new episodes anytime soon? –Jan P., Fairfax, Mo.

A: Sadly, "Mystery Science Theater 3000" wrapped up its first run in August 1999 on the Sci-Fi Channel in the face of declining ratings.

The series finale found Mike Nelson, Crow T. Robot and Tom Servo escaping from the Satellite of Love and, as the episode ended, immediately settling into their new living room to watch "The Crawling Eye," one of the first bad movies to which they ever had been subjected.

Kevin Murphy, the voice of Tom Servo and others on the show, tells me any prospective future via syndicated reruns is tricky because it requires renegotiating rights to the movies that are being sliced and diced. Several "MST3K" titles are available on VHS and DVD via Amazon.com. I could mention that other titles are "unofficially" available on VHS via online fan trading, but (watch my eyebrows carefully here) that would be wrong.

Garrett Students Accepted Into Regional Center

MICHAEL MOYER

Three Garrett County students were recently accepted into the Regional Math/Science Center, an Upward Bound program based at Frostburg State University.

Michael Moyer and Brian Uphold, ninth-grade students at Northern High School, and Kathleen Pritts, a tenth-grade student at Southern High School, will stay on the FSU campus for six weeks this summer developing skills needed for entering and succeeding in post-secondary education, primarily in the fields of math and science.

Moyer and Uphold, both of Accident, and Pritts, Oakland, will live and work with a diverse group of students from West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Maryland to complete a scientific investigation about renewable energy. The students will have a rigorous academic schedule during the week, taking math, writing, Latin, literature, and SAT preparation classes, in addition to the science project.

They will also have the opportunity to attend educational workshops and meet professional scientists and mathematicians to learn what it takes to accomplish individual career goals. Field trips are scheduled on the weekends to reward the students with enriching cultural experiences.

Throughout the academic year, the RMSC staff provides participants with support and assistance as they prepare for college. Students remain in the program until they graduate from high school, returning each summer to FSU.

The programs at the Regional Math/Science Center are free to all participants. The center is still accepting applications. For more information, persons may call 1-800-646-6004 or 301-687-4295.

"I GOT A STRIKE!" — Parents and children from Friendsville Elementary School recently completed a 10-week "Dare to Be You" program. Participants attended 2½-hour sessions from Feb. 28 through May 1. The program was developed at Colorado State University with the purpose of fostering positive parenting through the development of skills in the areas of self-concept, self-responsibility, communication, and decision-making. As a culminating activity, the group took a family trip to LaVale, where they enjoyed a Chinese dinner and bowling. Tyler Garlitz is shown above after just bowling a strike. Other participants in the program were Debi and Noel Fearer; Jeanne, Melissa, and Bethany Meyers; Patty Atwood; Marlene, Jenny, Rodney, Lacie, and Justin Schroyer; Sally Fowler; Evan, Rachel, Diann, and Dillon Frazee; and Geni and Megan Sines.

Stopped For Speeding Leads To DWI Charge

A Bel Air man, who was stopped for speeding and crossing the center line early Sunday morning near Will O' the Wisp, was arrested and faces drunk driving charges, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Martin Anthony Mezydlo, 44, was arrested and charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), failure to drive right of center, and speed greater than reasonable.

He was later released on his own recognizance.

In another incident, a vehicle driving by Elizabeth Early Russell was stopped for crossing the center line Saturday around 5:45 p.m. along George Washington Highway near Route 50, police said.

A K-9 scan of the Honda Accord revealed suspected marijuana. James David Cotter Jr., 26, Remington, Va., was charged with possession of marijuana. Cotter was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $500 bond.

More Volunteer Hosts Sought For NYC Youth

Since 1877, more than 1.7 million disadvantaged New York City children have experienced free summer vacations in suburban and small town communities. The Fresh Air Fund is seeking more families in Garrett County to give inner-city children a two-week vacation this summer.

"We think this is one of the best experiences our son has ever had. In my estimation, we get more out of it than we give," stated one Fresh Air host. Last summer, 23 Fresh Air children visited volunteer hosts in the Grantsville area.

The Fund needs more host families this summer to carry on its 125-year summertime tradition. There are no financial requirements for hosting a Fresh Air child. Hosts can select the gender and approximate age of their visitor. First-time visitors are 6 to 12 years old, and reinvited youngsters may participate in the Friendly Town program through age 18. In 2002, the Fund continues to celebrate its 125th anniversary of serving children with a wide variety of special events and volunteer opportunities.

To learn more about hosting a Fresh Air child this summer, local residents may contact Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326, or call the Fresh Air Fund at 800-367-0003. Persons can also visit the Fund's web site at www.freshair.org.

Participants Sought For Coverts Project

Woodland owners and others who want to learn more about forests and the wildlife that live in them — in exchange for a commitment to share that knowledge with others — are invited to apply for training as "Coverts (pronounced kuh'-verts) Cooperators."

Named for thickets that provide shelter for wildlife, the Coverts Project is a woodland and wildlife management program sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension and the Ruffed Grouse Society. Since 1991, nearly 300 Maryland residents have been trained and taught thousands of other woodland owners about sound forest stewardship practices that can make wildlife healthier, more diverse, and more abundant.

Thirty more Coverts Cooperators will be trained this year. They will attend a free, comprehensive, three-day seminar from September 26 to 30 in Washington County. The seminar will feature indoor and outdoor instruction in general forestry and wildlife management principles. In return for the training, reference materials, and follow-up seminars, the new Coverts Cooperators will develop or improve a forest stewardship plan for their woodlands and commit a year to sharing information with neighbors and others in their communities.

Applications are due by June 21. For information or an application, persons may write to the Coverts Project, 18330 Keedysville Road, Keedysville, MD 21756, or call 301-432-2767, ext. 301. Information and an application form are also available on the Web at http://www.naturalresource es.umd.edu/Covert_Project. html.

EXPERIENCING THE PAST — Local Girl Scout Brownie Troops 5013 and 5004 recently traveled together to Fort Necessity National Park near Farmington, Pa., to learn about how their ancestors lived, dressed, and did chores. The park staff did several activities with the girls, who earned their "Listening to the Past," "Travel Right," and "Write Away" try-its during the trip. Shown above are the Brownies at Fort Necessity learning that it took team work to aim, load, and fire a cannon. The girls participating in the re-enactment are, left to right, Rosemary Rosser, Kendra Hardesty, Claire Wilkinson, Sierra Sines, Heather Hardesty, and Hannah Newcomb. The Brownies also tried on outfits from the 1800s and made butter by shaking heavy cream in baby food jars. Other girls who participated in the activities were Sabrina Spiker, Kelsey Perando, Nicole Walsh, Carrie Herman, Lara Shad, Kristen Yant, Rachel Staley, Jillian Yant, and Emily Huxford.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Older phonograph records are difficult to sell for a very simple reason. It is getting almost impossible to find turntables that will play the vintage 78 rpm recordings. Many liquidate collections by placing ads in DISCoveries, P.O. Box 1050, Dubuque, Iowa 52004. The ads are inexpensive and are read by thousands of motivated collectors throughout the country.

Robert Hess collects LPs issued between 1948 and 1965, including pop, rock and Latin albums. His address is 155 W. 72nd Street, Suite 404, New York, NY 10023. Douglas Allen is the manager of Bananas Records, a 7,000 square-foot warehouse crammed to the rafters with LPs, 45s and 78s. The address is 2226 16th Ave. North, St. Petersburg, FL 33713.

Pets and Kids

Q. I recently purchased two German shepherd puppies for my children, who are ages 5 and 8. I think it will teach them responsibility, but so far neither of them will care for the puppies properly. I'm doing it all myself. Is there any way to get them to participate in the puppies' training and care? — *Dolores M., Kissimmee, Fla.

A. Normally, when a parent asks whether a pet will teach a child responsibility, I follow my vet's recommendation and advise him or her to start small — with a fish or a hamster. Dogs are bigger responsibilities — and with German shepherds, you may find two gigantic responsibilities on your hands, soon.

However, since you've already got two bundles of joy in your home, it's time to partition out the training and feeding chores.

Review any bargains you made with your children prior to getting the dogs. Were they purchased as a reward for good grades or for taking good care of a smaller pet? Did you work out any stipulations as to who would feed and care for the dogs at certain times?

Now, ask yourself if the assigned responsibility — training, feeding or brushing the dogs — can be carried out by both children. A 5-year-old may not be able to properly train his puppy, while the 8-year-old should be able to teach basic commands.

For now, you should be responsible for properly training the puppies, including housetraining. However, the children should accompany you during training times, so they know how to speak to their dogs, when they should be taken out and so on. Assign easier tasks, like feeding, bathing and brushing, to the children on a fair basis, and enforce the rules.

Consider hiring an obedience trainer to teach the children — and you — how to train the puppies effectively. This way, you'll have less of a handful to deal with, as well as happier dogs and children.

"He Set My Feet Upon A Rock"

It was June 6, 1944... D-Day... on a beach In Normandy, France. Countless lives were stopped prematurely in their tracks on that infamous stretch of bloody beach. More were lost on the vertical cliffs that were scaled with the utmost courage. Yet, as for those brave souls who remained, they continued to conquer the cliffs, their eyes fixed skyward and their faith firmly grounded in God and Old Glory.

The psalmist David referred to God similarly... "He drew me up from the desolate pit, out of the miry bog, and set my feet upon a rock, making my steps secure." (Psalm 40:2).

From the Revolutionary War to Desert Storm and on to the present, wise men and heroes have lived and died looking to our Heavenly Father for courage and wisdom even in the worst of circumstances. As you worship this week, remember those who fought and gave their lives in the ongoing struggle for freedom, and know that God can make your steps secure no matter how desolate your plight.

THE MARKS OF JESUS

May 26, 2002

Background Scripture: Galatians 5:16 through 6:18.
Devotional Reading: Colossians 3:5-17

Some years ago, when we visited the shrine of San Giovanni Rotondo in Italy, one of the monks there placed in my hands two of the gloves with which Padre Pio had tried to hide the wounds of Christ that marked his hands. Padre Pio, a remarkable and mystical monk of the 20th century, is currently in the process of canonization as a Roman Catholic saint. Pio was one of a number of Christians who have borne the stigmata or wounds of Christ on their bodies. St. Francis of Assisi, I believe, was the first bearer of the mystical, yet physiologically evident stigmata.

The term stigmata has come to indicate this spiritual/physical phenomenon. But, at the very end of his letter to the Galatians, Paul uses the word stigmata when he says: "Henceforth let no man trauble me; for I bear on my body the marks of Jesus" (6:17). Translated into English, the term stigmata is rendered as "marks."

In the Old Testament, the word "mark" was used to indicate a physical sign. So, the "mark of Cain" (Gen. 4:15) was a physical mark that was to brand Cain as both a murderer and a repentant sinner. Circumcision was regarded as the mark of an Israelite (Gen. 17:13). Hebrew prophets sometimes were marked by a distinctive scar (1 Kings 20:35-43). In Paul's world slaves were branded with a stigmata that indicated the master who owned them and soldiers bore a mark that signifying the leader whom they served.

Stigmata, Anyone?

When Paul speaks of the "marks of Jesus" to the Galatians," he is implying a rich meaning for these stigmata. In one sense, these "marks" are probably scars from the various beatings and stonings Paul has had to suffer as an apostle. Also, I believe Paul is intending these scars as the physical evidence that he serves as a slave to Christ and, like the soldier, acknowledges that he is one of Christ's men. If he were to be challenged as to the authenticity of his apostleship, Paul could point to his scars as the marks of it.

You and I are not likely to be beaten or stoned as disciples of Jesus, but Paul gives us some impressive "marks." Christians do not wear distinctive clothing, but there are definite marks that should identify us: ". . . the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control" and I love when he adds, "against such there is no law" (5:23b). The Spirit does not live in and through us just because we say so, but because our lives bear fruit of the Spirit's presence in us.

Paul also suggests some other "marks" of Christian discipleship: "If we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit. Let us have na self-conceit, no provoking of one another, no envy of one another" (5:25,26). Paul is not finished: "And let us not grow weary in well-doing...So then, as we have opportunity, let us do good to all men, and especially to those wha are of the household of faith" (16:9,10). Note that Paul doesn't say that we are to "do good unto" just those who do good unto us, but even to those outside the household of faith.

Walking With Jesus

Note also that Paul's "marks" here are not which church we attend, what denomination we follow, or whether when baptizing we dip, sprinkle or pour. It has nothing to do with whether we use grape juice or sacramental wine for communion, whether we recite the Apostles' or Korean Creed, or call our clergy "Father", "Pastor," or "Preacher." The marks of Jesus that Paul bore on his body are the signs that he has met and walks with Jesus in his life, the same ones we are to bear in our lives, too.

Think for a moment what we could do for the cause of Christ right now if, in the next week before us, all of us, the writer and readers of this piece, were to pledge that we would bear in our lives each of the marks that Paul enumerates: "love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control"—just for starters!

I'm willing; are you?

CO-NECTING AT BROAD FORD — Broad Ford teachers, Jenny Neville, on the left, and Deb Hinebaugh were recently named Co-nect facilitators for Broad Ford Elementary School. Pictured below is Principal Doug Gaither who recently attended the Principal's Summit for Co-nect in Atlanta. The school recently was awarded a competitive grant of $256,000 from the Maryland State Department to implement this school-wide improvement effort. See story for more details.

Broad Ford Joins Co-nect Network, Receives Grants

Broad Ford Elementary School has joined a growing network of schools across the country in working with Co-nect, which is a company that helps schools dramatically improve student achievement by effectively integrating technology and projects into teaching and learning. This innovative approach to learning strengthens students' skills in the core subject areas — reading, writing, mathematics, history, and social studies — and gives them skills they will need in the working world. Broad Ford was awarded a competitive grant from the Maryland State Department of Education of $256,000 to implement this school-wide improvement effort.

"We have made a choice here at Broad Ford to create a new kind of school by incorporating this bold new approach to learning," said Doug Gaither, principal. "Research has shown that students learn more effectively when they are confronted with challenges that spark their curiosity. With the help of Co-nect, we hope to create an environment where students are always challenged and excited about learning. This initiative will give students practical, hands-on experience, while at the same time helping them meet state standards and achieve academic success."

The Design/School Improvement Team to lead this school-wide effort has members from each grade level and teaching area. The team will meet monthly with the Co-nect school consultant assigned to Broad Ford. Susan Ezzell is Broad Ford's school consultant. She is from Tennessee, and has a number of teaching experiences. She now lives in Owings Mills.

Deb Hinebaugh and Jenny Neville, both teachers at Broad Ford, are serving as the facilitators for this initiative. They have participated in extensive training in Atlanta to move the Co-nect model along at Broad Ford. Hinebaugh, Neville, and Karen Gilpin spent a week in San Francisco attending a conference on project-based learning. This conference focused on how to implement this approach to learning in the classroom.

Co-nect provides K-12 schools with the resources, a road map, and professional development to effectively integrate technology into the teaching and learning. Focusing on project-based learning, where students address state standards in the context of engaging activities, Co-nect helps schools dramatically improve student performance, said a spokesperson. Currently Co-nect provides customized support, on-line tools, and content to 200 schools in 30 states.

Maust Is Named National Honor Roll Student

The United States Achievement Academy recently announced that Andrea Maust, Grantsville, has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner. Maust, who attends Northern Middle School, will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, USAA winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, executive director of the USAA.

The student is the daughter of David Maust and Karen Miller, Grantsville. Her grandparents are Ira and Mary Miller, Dry Fork, W.Va., and Ida Maust, Accident.

AAL/LB Honors Local Resident At Conference

John Strider, FIC, Accident, recently was honored at a national sales conference held by Aid Association for Lutherans/Lutheran Brotherhood (AAL/LB). Strider qualified for the conference in Orlando, Fla., in recognition of his outstanding business performance in 2001. Financial associates were also honored for support of local volunteer groups, which are called branches.

Strider has been a financial associate for 13 years and has been honored by the organization 10 times for outstanding sales and member services. He serves Lutherans and their family members in Grantsville, Accident, Oakland, Cumberland, Frostburg, LaVale, Westernport, and Keyser, W.Va.

AAL/LB is a financial services organization that was recently formed through the merger of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) of Appleton, Wis., and Lutheran Brotherhood (LB) of Minneapolis, Minn.

The new organization is the largest fraternal benefit society in the U.S., according to a spokesperson for the group. Composed of nearly 3 million members, the organization offers a broad array of financial products and services, as well as charitable programs, to Lutherans, their families, and their communities.

Tichnell To Run For Office Of GC Sheriff

Harland Tichnell recently announced his candidacy for the office of Garrett County sheriff on the Republican ballot.

Tichnell graduated from Southern High School in 1969. He began his career with the sheriff's office in 1976, after graduating from the Western Maryland Police Academy. He has attended numerous specialized law enforcement schools, including the Harvard Associates of Police Science, and has the distinction of graduating from the FBI National Academy in Quantico, Va.

Tichnell has performed investigative and supervisory duties, serving as chief deputy for nine years.

"With my training, experience, and education in the law enforcement field, I want to ensure the citizens of Garrett County receive the best possible service for their tax dollars. One way to accomplish this would be to combine emergency management (911) with the sheriff's office dispatchers. This would eliminate unnecessary transference of police calls and provide more manpower during peak call hours," Tichnell said.

There is also a need to bring the patrol deputy back into all the communities in Garrett County. More cooperation and communication with the state police will provide coverage on the main arteries when needed, allowing the deputies to patrol the communities, he added.

Drugs, domestic violence, and child/sexual abuse are issues that have always been a concern, Tichnell said. "By keeping open communication with the public and working closely with each respective agency involved, we can reduce and hopefully eliminate some of these concerns," he said.

"Having served the citizens of Garrett County for 19 years, I have the qualifications and the desire to be your next sheriff of Garrett County. Your support will be greatly appreciated."

Tichnell lives in the Hoyes area of Garrett County with his wife Linda. His son R.C. lives in Mtn. Lake Park.

Youth Graduate From New Baby-Sitting Program

Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., Garrett County Health Department, and the A Star! AmeriCorps Program recently provided a Baby-Sitting Program for youths between the ages of 12-14.

A Safe Sitters Class was taught by Deana Clester, wellness coordinator. Three baby-sitting training sessions and workshops were taught by Kelly DeWitt, Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., Community & Emergency Services AmeriCorps coordinator Melissa Green, and Amanda Cassidy, Garrett County Health Department AmeriCorps member.

The following youth graduated from the program and received a Safe Sitter certificate and certificate of completion of training and workshops: Kaylan Grimm, Sondra Sharpless, Jessica Petrella, Michelle Holler, Rachel Hanlin, Tausha Herman, Siobhan Wilcock, Kimberly Stephens, Tiffany Bernard, and Amy Davis.

Upon completion of the Safe Sitter class, training, and workshops, the participates received games, craft supplies, books, a puppet, first aid kits, a snack cookbook, craft book, and a song book.

The Safe Sitters class included success on the job, baby-sitting as a business, child care essentials, rescue breathing infant/child, choking infant/child rescue, preventing problem behavior, Intro. To Behavior Aid chart, help sheet practice, first aid/behavior game, safety for the sitter, and practice of rescue skills on CPR mannequins.

The training and workshop provided valuable ideas for crafts, snacks, and safety that are helpful to both the child care provider and the children they baby-sat. The first workshop component was craft/activity. The participants made bean bags, peanut butter dough, pop bottle water globes, puzzle games, door knobs hangers, and smell-good bags, and they received incentives of chalk/paper, magic noodles, sticker art, pins, and puzzle games.

The second workshop was on snack. Each participant made snacks with such names as ants on a log, dirt pudding, peanut butter fruit dip/fruit, spiders, chocolate banana space blast, Monty's nilla thrill, and orange slush.

The third workshop component was on safety. This workshop was taught by Sam Moon of the Garrett County Health Department and was coordinated by Melissa Green, health department AmeriCorps member. Moon taught first aid, CPR, and fire safety.

After each training and workshop, participants were given incentives to take with them when they baby-sit.

Oakland Wal-Mart Honored By Goodwill

Horizon Goodwill Industries (HGI) has recognized the Oakland Wal-Mart Supercenter as its Employer of the Year during Goodwill's 47th awards dinner, which was held recently in Hagerstown. The annual dinner marked National Goodwill Industries Week, and the awards recognize Goodwill clients for personal achievements, businesses or organizations that have been instrumental in helping the agency carry out its mission, and retiring board members who have served their full terms.

The Oakland Wal-Mart was presented with the Employer of the Year award for demonstrating outstanding concern for people with disabilities and other special needs, and for taking affirmative action in providing opportunities for vocational rehabilitation and employment through Goodwill Industries. Nominations were received from throughout the four-state, 17-county region served by HGI.

OAKLAND WAL-MART IS GOODWILL'S EMPLOYER OF YEAR — The Oakland Wal-Mart Supercenter has been named Employer of the Year by Horizon Goodwill Industries (HGI). The award was announced during the human service agency's 47th annual awards dinner, held recently in Hagerstown. The local Wal-Mart employs three Goodwill program participants, each of whom have been with the store since before it officially opened. Shown at the award presentation, from the left, are Wal-Mart employee Steve Eyler, store Training and Community Involvement coordinator Carol Bonds, HGI Cumberland Branch Job developer Miranda Fitzwater, and store employee Alicia Powell. Not available for photo was Wal-Mart employee Freddie Beckman.

The local store currently employs three Goodwill program participants — Freddie Beckman, Steve Eyler, and Alicia Powell — each of whom joined the store prior to its official opening. In presenting the award to Oakland Wal-Mart training coordinator Carol Bonds, HGI Cumberland branch job developer Miranda Fitzwater, praised the Oakland retailer for its "open-mindedness in hiring," and said that the store "did not hire based on the absence of barriers to employment, but instead based its hiring on the reality that everyone has certain barriers to employment."

HGI is part of a network of 215 local, autonomous Goodwill Industries in the U.S, Canada, and 24 other countries. Each organization serves people with disabilities and/or disadvantaging conditions that serve as barriers to employment by providing job training and vocational rehabilitation programs, as well as job placement opportunities and post-employment support.

In addition to its job development and other programming in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia, HGI operates several retail stores, including one in Grantsville.

Police Agencies To Mount Holiday Safety Campaign

Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack, along with Garrett County sheriff's deputies and Oakland Police Department officers, will undertake the annual Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) traffic safety campaign over the upcoming Memorial Day weekend, Friday thorough Monday, May 24-27.

Operation CARE is a national program which began more than 20 years ago as an effort to reduce automobile collisions. The program originally covered the states in the Interstate 95 corridor from Florida to Maine; however, the success of the program has lead to its expansion nationwide.

Law enforcement officers will be utilizing RADAR, VASCAR, and unmarked patrol vehicles for speed enforcement on the highways throughout Garrett County. In addition to speed, officers will be particularly attentive to violations contributing to motor vehicle collisions, especially those involving aggressive and intoxicated drivers. In a further effort to reduce the possibility of injuries related to motor vehicle collisions, seatbelt and child-safety-seat requirements will be strictly enforced.

"The Maryland State Police of the McHenry barrack have committed extensive resources in an effort to provide a safe highway and travel environment for use by the citizens," local barrack commander Lt. Randy Resh commented. "We ask for the public's help in this effort by voluntarily refraining from overindulgence when operating a motor vehicle, using seatbelts and child safety seats, and exercising cautious and courteous driving habits."

SHS GRADUATE RETURNS TO SPEAK TO ACCOUNTING CLASS — Dr. Bonnie White Morris recently returned to Southern High School to speak to Athena Wilson's accounting classes concerning the accounting field and to discuss career opportunities for accounting majors. Dr. Morris, a 1970 SHS graduate, is associate professor of accounting at West Virginia University. She holds an MBA and PhD in business, is a CPA, and is also the director of the Center of Electronic Commerce at the university. Her visit was sponsored by the Southern Garrett High School Alumni Association. Dr. Morris has made presentations at national and international meetings, and has been published in academic and professional journals. The students introduced Dr. Morris to the Stock Market Game and displayed their portfolios and answered questions about their investments. Dr. Morris was able to meet with prospective business students and answer questions from the students about WVU in general and the business department as well. "Dr. Morris was very informative and helped further my interest in accounting," said Matt Stephens. According to Wanda Steyer, "Dr. Morris convinced me that accounting is the career I should follow." Accounting II students involved in the discussion were Megan Bernard, Jennifer Biser, Holly Blamble, James Carpenter, Amy Fike, Brian Fike, Erica Green, Erika Hummel, Amanda King, Matthew Stephens, Wanda Steyer, and Darrin Wildesen. Shown above is Amy Fike as she shows Dr. Morris, on the left, and Rob Sharps of Primevest her Stock Market Game Portfolio.

Maryland Relay Program Topic Of Wisp Event

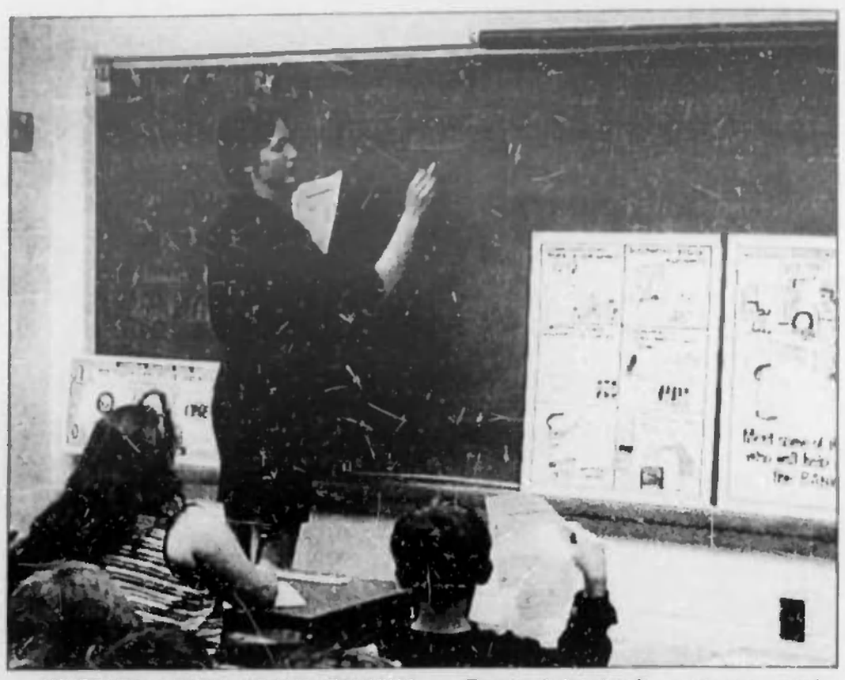
The year's first statewide meeting of the Maryland Governor's Advisory Board for Telecommunications Relay (GABTR) is set for 9 a.m. Saturday, June 1, at the Wisp Mountain Resort in McHenry. The event is open to the public.

The meeting will focus on the Maryland Relay, a state-provided public service that enables persons who are deaf, deaf and blind, hard of hearing, or speech or mobility disabled to communicate via TTY (text telephone) with any standard phone user.

The program will feature updates on Maryland Relay's new $24.5 million contract with AT&T, the new provider of Relay services, and will also provide information on new services available to Relay users. Business owners will be provided with information on how to become a Relay Partner, and educators will be able to sign up to receive "Kids Keeping in Touch," Maryland Relay's new educational kit for children.

The 12-member GABTR is appointed by the governor, and advises the governor and the Maryland Department of Budget and Management and the Telecommunications Access of Maryland on issues related to quality of and level of access to Maryland Relay. The GABTR meets several times throughout the year around the state. For more information, persons may contact Willis Mann at 1-800-522-7724 (voice/TTY) or via e-mail at mann@dbm .state.md.us.



STUDENTS LEARN ABOUT BANKING — Tonya Schoolcraft, customer service officer at First United Bank, recently visited third graders at Broad Ford Elementary School for a lesson in banking and how to begin saving for the future. Schoolcraft and the students spent the afternoon learning about the history of money, how to write a check, and where the money goes after making a deposit. Schoolcraft is pictured above teaching the class.

Election Results Announced By Chamber Board

Incumbents Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler and Robert Browning have reclaimed their seats on the board of directors of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and will be joined by new board members Judy Devlin, Denny Glotfelty, and Jimmy Railey. According to an announcement by the chamber, these new board members will begin their three-year terms at the June 13 directors meeting. Jim Murray, Brenda McDonnell, and Sandy Major did not seek re-election.

With a record 231 votes cast, each person selected had the support of a substantial number of business owners, chamber president Ken Wishnick said. "We received 50 more votes year to year, which shows more chamber members are taking an active interest in the leadership of their organization. Greater involvement can only result in greater benefit to all," he said.

Those currently holding seats on the board include Len Eiswert, Jerry Geisler, Steve Green, Asa McCain, Jeff McCauley, Bill Meagher, Karen Myers, Marta Schroyer, Dave Thomas, and Hugh Umbel.

Nominations for officers and executive committee members for fiscal year 2003 will be made and voted on at the June 13 board of directors meeting. Chamber chairman Kessler has announced he will not seek re-election to his current post.

Zion Lutheran Women Convene

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church on May 18.

The study, "Power and Glory," was led by Leota Baker. The goals of the lesson were to review the certainty at the basis of the Lord's Prayer, and to examine the meanings of power and glory as seen in the biblical picture of Mary in the Magnificat. This session concluded the study of the Lord's Prayer.

Devotions closed with the hymn "Thine Is The Glory," and the group praying the Lord's Prayer.

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

A letter of thanks was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation, Box Elder, Mont., upon receipt of the package of sewing material and sweaters sent by Zion's unit.

The highlights of the district assembly held at St. Johannes Lutheran Church in New Milton, W.Va., were reported.

A birthday offering was presented by Judy Stanton.

Tribute to the memory of Mrs. Norman Baker was made through a gift offering. This offering is being forwarded to Women of the ELCA-Churchwide for the specific ministry, Reaching Out With the Gospel.

We are thinking of you today
Thinking of the past
Time unfolds a year gone by
That brings a tear to our eye
Picturing you in our memories
Just as we saw you last
Thinking of you is easy
We do it every day
Missing you is a heartache
That never goes away
But those we love don't go away
They walk beside us everyday
Unseen, unheard, but always near Still loved, still missed, still very dear
In our hearts are many memories
From earth to heaven above
It keeps you always near us
It's a bridge called Love.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS
The mental health needs of older Americans are too often overlooked.
Many of our nation's senior citizens struggle with the stress of social isolation, physical health problems or caregiving, which can complicate their ability to feel happy and maintain their mental health. And because research shows that our state of mind affects our physical well-being, a positive attitude can help stave off disease and keep us physically healthy and active.
Sadly, late-life depression affects about 6 million adults, and the suicide rate among older adults is higher than it is for any other age group. In addition, older adults who have lived through tragedies and trauma may be at a greater risk for experiencing symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder, depression or anxiety since September 11.
During Mental Health Month and all through the year spend time with the older adults in your life to improve their mental health and to recognize when they may need to get help.

GCC Slates Meat Goat Judging School, Conference, Show/Sale

The Alternative Agriculture Center at Garrett Community College will host a meat goat judging school on Friday, May 31. The judging school will be a hands-on, practical approach to the selection of meat goats. Meat goat producers will learn about selecting breeding stock and market animals.

The school will be held in conjunction with the 5th annual Meat Goat Conference, also sponsored by the Ag Center. The conference will begin at 3 p.m. at GCC. The 3rd annual Mtn. Top Boer Goat Show and Sale is also slated at the fairgrounds on Saturday, June 1.

The judging school will include classes on judging market wethers, commercial does and doelings, and Boer bucks. The school will held from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Garrett County fairgrounds, McHenry.

Meat goats are one of the fastest growing livestock species at fairs and festivals, according to Willie Lantz, of the Ag Center. "Many fair officials are forced to use dairy goat or other livestock judges for meat goat shows because trained meat goat judges are not available," said Lantz. "This is an excellent opportunity for extension agents, dairy goat judges and other livestock judges to learn more about judging meat goats."

Dr. Alan Fires and Susan Schoenian will conduct the school. Fires has been involved in raising and showing meat goats for more than 20 years. He is an official judge with the International Boer Goat Association (IBGA), a member of the Herd Improvement Committee, and a member of the Official Judges and Shows Committee of the IBGA.

Fires and his family have a herd of purebred Boer goats and are in the commercial and pureblood buck production business on his ranch in Kermit, Texas. Fires has judged many major Boer goat shows, including the Fort Worth Stockshow, the Dixie National Stockshow, the Hattiesburg (Miss.) Show, and the IBGA National Show.

Fires has also conducted major selection and herd management seminars in four states, including the Kika De La Garza Institute for meat goat research in Oklahoma. He has developed a program to utilize goats to work with special education students, which was voted the "Most Outstanding New and Innovative Program in Texas" by the Texas Association of Special Education Directors.

Schoenian is an area extension agent for sheep and goats with the University of Maryland. She has experience in raising meat goats and hair sheep. Schoenian has been very involved with the Lower Shore Goat Producers Association and has traveled to many Caribbean countries in her extension roles. For the past two years, Schoenian served as the judge for the National Sheep and Goat Show in Santo Domingo, the capital city of the Dominican Republic. In her new role, she is stationed at the Western Maryland Research and Education Center, Keedysville.

The 5th annual Meat Goat Conference will feature speakers on meat goat topics such as health, production performance, scrapie, and research projects in feeding goats. The conference will be followed by the meeting of the Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia (MPWV) chapter of the Mid West Meat Goat Producers Association. The annual meeting will feature a banquet dinner with goat meat. The public is invited to attend the meeting and the banquet. For more information and to register for the school and conference, persons may call Lantz at 301-387-3331.

The MPWV chapter will also host the 3rd annual Mtn. Top Boer Goat Show and Sale on Saturday, June 1, at the Garrett County fairgrounds. The event will be held in conjunction with the Highland Festival, with the goat show beginning at noon. Classes will include fullblood and purebred Boer does and bucks, percentage Boer does, and meat goat classes (bucks, wethers, or does). The Boer goat production sale will begin at 6:30 p.m. The sale will feature approximately 50 animals. Animals will be consigned by members only and will feature the best members have to offer. They will also be selling percentage does and fullblood/purebred does and bucks.

For more information about the goat show and sale, persons may call Lantz or log on to www.gcc.cc.md.us/agriculture.

USDA Launches Web Site About New Farm Bill

Just one day after President Bush signed the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 into law, the U.S. Department of Agriculture launched a new web site aimed at helping farmers, ranchers, and the general public learn the latest information about this bill.

"The new farm bill is very broad and contains many new programs to assist America's farmers and ranchers," said Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman. "This web site will serve as a repository of information on the new farm bill as we begin vigorously implementing its provisions."

The web site can be directly accessed from USDA's official web site at http://www.usda.gov/farmbill or by simply clicking on the 2002 Farm Bill icon on USDA's main web site at http://www.usda.gov/. The 2002 Farm Bill icon will also appear on USDA agency web sites.

The new web site will include farm bill program details, questions and answers, program applications, and sign-up forms, as well as other important materials from USDA agencies on farm bill implementation. The web site will also contain advanced electronic applications to help program applicants receive program benefits faster and more efficiently.

The web site will help farmers, ranchers, and others locate information through one site rather than searching through web pages of the many agencies that make up USDA. Information will be indexed by farm bill title and by agency. Users will be able to access specific agency information through the site and easily return to the home page by clicking on the Farm Bill 2002 logo located throughout USDA agencies' web pages.

Information to be posted on the site over the next several weeks includes:

- a comparison of 1996 Farm Bill provisions and 2002 provisions prepared by the Economic Research Service;
- fact sheets in English and Spanish that cover the changes in conservation programs administered by the Natural Resources Conservation Service;
- information from the Farm Service Agency on program details and instructions on how to calculate new yields; and
- on-line applications and electronic forms to help make processing time more efficient.

The web site will be updated regularly as new information and program announcements become available. The "What's New" link will alert users to updates and added information.

President Bush signed the Farm Security and Rural Investment Act of 2002 into law on May 13, immediately following the Congress sending it to him for signature. At the signing ceremony, the president said, "The farm bill will strengthen the farm economy, and that's important. It will promote farmer independence, and preserve the farm way of life for generations. It helps America's farmers, and therefore it helps America."

The new farm bill provides rebalanced loan rates, lives within the congressional budget resolution agreed to last year and is consistent with international trade obligations. The farm bill also contains record-level support for environmental stewardship, a renewed commitment to renewable fuels programs, additional investments to help expand international markets, rural community programs, and food stamp assistance for low-income Americans.

Secretary Veneman added, "This legislation will now provide certainty and support for America's farmers and ranchers in the coming years."

Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
300 Tunnelton St., Kingwood, WV 26537

USDA TEAM DEVELOPS FARM BILL IMPLEMENTATION PLAN

Preston County Farm Service Agency (FSA) County Executive Director Eric M. McCartney said that the new Farm Bill recently signed into law by President Bush will require new procedures and policies to be developed.

"FSA is committed to a timely and efficient implementation of the new programs and procedures," McCartney said. "Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman recently assured employees of the department's commitment to helping us move forward as quickly as possible. The secretary told us of the formation of a Farm Bill Working Group, consisting of USDA's Chief Economist, Budget Director, and Sub-cabinet officials that will insure appropriate planning, coordination, and implementation.

"While we don't know the details of the programs yet, we do know that producers will have the option of updating historical crop acreage yields for 1998, 1999, 2000, and 2001 to determine benefits under the commodity programs," he said. The farm bill contains new programs that are wide-spread and impact many sectors, including farm services, natural resources, conservation, rural development, nutrition, food safety, research, pests and diseases, as well as international trade. The measure establishes new authorities and additional rules, regulations, and procedures.

"We anticipate a great deal of activity in the next few months as we execute these new programs and procedures," said McCartney.

"As the USDA secretary told us, the president signed the farm bill almost immediately upon receiving it from the Congress so USDA could begin with the important task of implementation," McCartney said. "Now the hard work begins; our goal is to cut red tape and get the job done."

The USDA secretary wants farmers to know that the USDA team is "working hard" to implement the new programs and outlined several measures already under way, including: the creation of a farm bill web site http://www.usda.gov/farmbill; implementing eGovernment, which will soon allow producers to complete and submit some forms on-line; developing and sending to county offices new software to aid in updating producer information; meeting with representatives of farm and commodity organizations; and developing informational materials about new programs.

"While the farm bill provides certainty and a strong safety net for farmers over the next six years, it contains new programs that are widespread and impact many sectors, not just farm services," McCartney explained. "It provides record-level support for conservation programs to preserve wetlands and improve soil and water quality on working farms. It helps expand trade for U.S. food and agriculture products overseas. It contains an energy title to help examine new uses for agriculture as an energy source, and it invests more in research, value-added programs, animal and plant disease protections, food safety, and rural development.

"As the president said, it may not be a perfect bill, but the new measure provides certainty, a strong safety net for farmers and complies with other international trade obligations, said McCartney. "It also provides investments in important areas such as conservation, trade, nutrition, research, rural development, and energy."

Other farm bill issues the secretary noted was that USDA has been administering the last year of the 1996 Farm Bill while the new farm bill was being developed, which has provided nearly $4 billion in direct payments to producers this year. The new law provides some additional direct payments for 2002, and these will be made in the fall using updated acreage bases. The new law also provides for a first installment of 2003 direct payments in December 2002. The first advance counter-cyclical payments for 2002 will be made in October, with a second advance in February 2003. The final payment will be made at the end of each marketing year for each commodity, once the final season average price is known.

The marketing loan program continues to operate largely as before, but with readjusted loan rates for most crops. The new loan rates are applicable immediately to the 2002 harvested crops, beginning with wheat soon to be harvested.

Additional information is being provided immediately upon development on the USDA web site http://www.usda.gov/ which also has links to other USDA agencies involved with farm bill implementation. For local information on programs and procedures, persons may telephone the Preston County FSA office at 304-329-1923, FAX 304-329-3056, or visit the FSA office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza.

Maryland Gains National Organic Program Nod

Confirming the high quality of Maryland's organic certification process, the U.S. Department of Agriculture authorized the state program to certify organic production and handling operations under new federal standards. Matyland was one of only 10 state programs and 32 private or foreign agents accredited. The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will undergo a verification audit in the next 120 days to finalize the accreditation.

"We are pleased to be among the first to receive federal accreditation," said state Agriculture Secretary Hagner R. Mister. "Our organic producers are depending upon this approval to market their products in other states and to assure consumers that ptoducts they buy meet specific criteria for organic labeling."

The national standard relies heavily on record keeping and documentation of approved organic production processes to obtain the USDA Certified Organic label.

"We are a small program in a small state and are working very hard to support our producers," said Valerie Frances, director of the Maryland Organic Certification Program. "I encourage farmers to use the required record-keeping to learn more about their own operations and to determine what practices are most effective and profitable year after year."

The establishment of a national standard for organic certification verifies the market demand for organic products and assures consumers that all certified organic products meet the same, high standard. The uniformity also makes it easier for Maryland organic producers to sell their products in other states.

The announcement of Maryland's accreditation came just days after Governor Parris N. Glendening signed HB 994 into law, requiring MDA to meet the requirements of the federal law and allowing a certification fee of up to $500 to defray the cost of conducting field inspections and laboratory analysis.

A week after USDA's accreditation announcement, state, national, and international organic food and production professionals met for annual meetings of the National Association of State Organic Programs, the National Organic Standards Board, and the Organic Trade Association in Austin, Texas. Discussions there centered on clarification of some of the most difficult regulatory topics such as documenting compost temperature and finding adequate sources of certified organic seed.

"The meetings were productive," said Frances. "For example, the NOSB accepted prescriptive recommendations from a task force working on the compost issue. In general, we were able to share a lot of information and see how others are addressing similar topics. This is an exciting time for organic producers and the industries that support them."

In support of organic agriculture, the University of Maryland has set aside acreage on seven of its eight research farms to become certified. With certified organic acreage, the university research farms will be poised to benefit from a $15 million federal farm bill allocation for organic production research. The funding — included for the first time in a farm bill — is expected to be spread out over five years among many states.

Maryland's organic certification program was established in 1991. There are 72 farms producing certified organic livestock and products on 4,000 acres. MDA has received 13 new applications for certification so far this year, reflecting growth in the marketplace.

Rain, Extremely Cool Temperatures Delay Fieldwork

Cool and wet conditions last week allowed Maryland farmers only 4.6 days suitable for fieldwork. Rain in Garrett and Allegany counties allowed farmers less than one full day of fieldwork, which hindered planting activities. The weekend showers received in the other northern counties has assured that topsoil moisture will be adequate for spring crop establishment. Precipitation in these counties has been slightly above average for May, so far. The southern counties, however, remain about ½ inch below average for the month. Temperatures to end the week were about 15 degrees cooler than the average.

Farmers in many areas are hoping for warm, dry weather so they can harvest hay. Twenty-nine percent of other hay, first cutting, has been harvested, 1 percent behind last year, and 3 percent ahead of the five-year average. Alfalfa hay, first cutting, is 34 percent harvested, 1 percent behind last year, and 5 percent ahead of average.

Row crop planting continues slightly ahead of schedule. Corn planting is now 80 percent complete, 3 percent behind last year and 3 percent ahead of the five-year average. Soybeans are 19 percent planted, 2 percent ahead of last year, and 6 percent ahead of average.

Spray Weeds With Vinegar?

Some home gardeners already use vinegar as a herbicide, and some garden stores sell vinegar pesticides. But no one has tested it scientifically until now. Agricultural Research Service scientists offer the first scientific evidence that it may be a potent weed killer that is inexpensive and environmentally safe — perfect for organic farmers.

ARS researchers Jay Radhakrishnan, John R. Teasdale and Ben Coffman in Beltsville, Md., tested vinegar on major weeds — common lamb's-quarters, giant foxtail, velvetleaf, smooth pigweed and Canada thistle — in greenhouse and field studies.

They hand-sprayed the weeds with various solutions of vinegar, uniformly coating the leaves. The researchers found that 5- and 10-percent concentrations killed the weeds during their first two weeks of life. Older plants required higher concentrations of vinegar to kill them. At the higher concentrations, vinegar had an 85- to 100-percent kill rate at all growth stages. A bottle of household vinegar is about a 5-percent concentration.

Canada thistle, one of the most tenacious weeds in the world, proved the most susceptible; the 5-percent concentration had a 100-percent kill rate of the perennial's top growth. The 20-percent concentration can do this in about 2 hours.

Spot spraying of cornfields with 20 percent vinegar killed 80 to 100 percent of weeds without harming the corn, but the scientists stress the need for more research. If the vinegar were sprayed over an entire field, it would cost about $65 per acre. If applied to local weed infestations only, such as may occur in the crop row after cultivation, it may only cost about $20 to $30.

The researchers use only vinegar made from fruits or grains, to conform to organic farming standards. ARS is the U.S. Department of Agriculture's chief scientific research agency.

The Birth of a Corn Plant

When corn kernels are planted in moist soil, they absorb moisture and swell, which activates enzymes which digest and move nutrients to the developing embryo. These nutrients are found in the mass of stored food called the endosperm. The endosperm is about 90 percent starch and 10 percent proteins, oils, minerals, etc. The embryo is actually a miniature plant within the kernel. It has a plumule (5 to 6 leaves) and a radicle (root). Growth begins with the emergence of the radicle from the kernel. The emergence of the radicle is followed shortly by the emergence of the plumule. A layer of cells called the coleoptile, commonly called the "spike," covers the plumule. The coleoptile protects the plumule as it elongates toward the soil surface. Once the coleoptile emerges from the soil, sunlight causes it to split open, revealing the first leaves of the corn plant.

No Corn Plants??

Did you happened to plant your corn between the raindrops and now wonder where are the corn plants? Some mysterious things can happen under the soil.

Normal Seed Appearance, Swelled but Not Sprouted — When a soluble fertilizer is in contact with the seed, fertilizer burn (salt effect) may occur. The fertilizer acts as a desiccant (drying agent) and draws moisture from the seed. Seeds may fail to germinate or seedlings may be stunted.

Seeds Hollowed Out — Several insects including seed corn maggots, wireworms and seed corn beetles feed on swollen but ungerminated seed and may destroy the ability of the seed to produce a vigorous plant. Dig up unhealthy plants or apparent skips, and examine the seed and soil for the presence of these insects.

Seeds Dead or Rotting — When conditions are unfavorable for germination and seedling growth (cold, wet weather), many species of fungi and bacteria can cause seed rots or seedling blights. Although seed treatments protect the seed, they do not protect the seedling. When germination is delayed, the kernel is subjected to lengthier exposure to these pathogens.

Sprouts Twisted or Leaves Expanded Below Ground — Crusted, cold or cloddy soil conditions can interfere with seedling emergence. A cloddy surface allows light to penetrate into the soil. This light can cause the coleoptile to rupture, allowing the first leaves to expand below the surface. If crusting inhibits emergence, rotary hoeing can be beneficial. However, be careful; the spike is tender and easily damaged by high-speed hoeing. Deep planting can also cause the leaves to expand underground. The first internode may not be capable of elongating enough to push the coleoptile to the surface.

Fields should be monitored closely following planting. This does not mean a "drive by" review. It means digging kernels to evaluate germination and emergence progress. The earlier problems are identified, the better.

Side-dressing Potatoes and Leafy Vegetables

Recent heavy rains in our area may have leached preplant fertilizers from the root zone of many cool-season vegetable plants. These crops are growing rapidly now, and require adequate fertilizer to complete their growth cycle early. If you notice that foliage color is slightly pale and plants are not growing as fast as you'd expect, a side-dressing of fertilizer may be in order. Use a general-use fertilizer or one high in nitrogen. Organic fertilizers such as blood meal contain good levels of nitrogen and work well as a side-dressing. Apply fertilizers along the crop row and lightly cultivate or hoe to make sure the fertilizer is incorporated lightly to quickly dissolve. With rainfall, the fertilizer nitrogen dissolves and is carried into the plant root zone.

Tips for Home Gardeners

Apple trees often produce excess fruit (providing the frost didn't get the blossom). Removing some of these extra fruits during the next three weeks is important. There can be two major benefits from fruit thinning. The first is to help ensure a return bloom for a good fruit crop next year. Apples produce fruit buds for next year's crop during June, the same time this year's fruit is starting to mature. Too many fruit this year leads to a lack of fruit bud development and a small crop next year. This leads to biennial bearing in which an apple tree produces a large crop one year and very few fruit the next. Thinning helps ensure that apples are produced each year.

Mix in a handful of either finely ground calcitic or hydrated lime, with the planting soil of each pepper and tomato transplant to help prevent blossom-end rot. Then, be sure to water pepper and tomato plants deeply and regularly. Be sure to offer proper support to growing tomato plants. Pepper and eggplant also benefit from being supported by a low trellis or wire cage. The suckers or succulent shoots that develop from the tomato plants at the soil line should be removed throughout the season.

ARTISAN VISITS SWAN MEADOW — Artist-in-residence Ginny Tyson-Barnes, shown above, was a guest at Swan Meadow School recently, working with the students for one week. Each day three groups of children met with the artisan to learn about working together to create art, to felt and spin wool, to make spindles with sticks and potatoes, and to use wooden drop spindles. An exhibit of their creations and of photographs of the week was displayed in the media center. Funding from Maryland State and Garrett County arts councils, the local board of education's School Enrichment Program, and the school's P.T.O. provided this opportunity for the Swan Meadows students. The project helped relieve the stress of that week's state testing, a spokesperson said. Local residents Mary Jane Berry, Robert Ulino, and Allson Ulino hosted Tyson-Barnes in their home, which reduced project costs. The students and staff of Swan Meadow School appreciated the high-quality experience with Tyson-Barnes, the spokesperson said, and plan to continue learning about these traditional arts.

Oakland Man's Assault Charge On Stet Docket

A charge of second-degree assault against John William Hinebaugh, 34, Oakland, was placed on the stet docket in Garrett County Circuit Court Friday. A female who was acting as a caregiver in Hinebaugh's home last spring alleged he had shoved her during an argument at his home.

"The stet docket essentially placed the case on an inactive status for one year," said Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney. "If the defendant has no violations of the law, the case will never be prosecuted. In this case, the stet disposition was determined to be appropriate because the alleged victim has moved far from the area, the defendant has no prior convictions, and he has certain physical conditions that have to be considered."

Seminar Offered At No Charge To Family Caregivers

A free seminar for family caregivers is scheduled for Thursday, June 6, at Cornish Manor, Oakland, from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

A continental breakfast and lunch are also provided. Speakers will address several topics including communicating with Alzheimer's patients, financial planning, legal issues impacting caregivers, and using humor to cope with the stresses that accompany caregiving.

Additionally, health and human services providers will be available to discuss various resources available to caregivers at the local level. The seminar is sponsored by Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging in partnership with the Western Maryland Alzheimer's Association. Cooperating agencies include Garrett County Health Department, Department of Social Services, and Tressler Lutheran's Mt. Glade Adult Day Services.

"This is an excellent opportunity for caregivers to receive a wealth of information from very knowledgeable presenters," said an agency spokesperson. "The seminar is funded by the National Family Caregiver Support Program of the Older Americans Act. It was developed to reach out to family caregivers in the community and provide them with the tools they need to lessen the burden of caregiving."

Space is limited; therefore, caregivers are encouraged to make reservations immediately. To make reservations or for additional information, persons may call 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403, ext. 143.

Employee Of Heartland Gets $500 HCR Grant

Bertha A. Moser, director of environmental services at Heartland of Preston County, has been awarded an HCR Manor Care Foundation $500 volunteer grant to the American Cancer Society of Preston Co., based on her hours of volunteer service and leadership role in fund-raising for the ACS.

Heartland administrator Catherine Chiovaro surprised the ACS Relay for Life captains with the announcement at their May 11 fund-raising meeting. "It is such a special honor to be able to present a grant in recognition of a Heartland employee," Chiovaro said. "Bertha Moser has worked very hard in leading the Heartland employees in their fund-raising efforts, raising more than 30% of the total county goal last year. I am pleased that the HCR Manor Care Foundation has made it possible to give even a little more back to our community through this grant."

The HCR Manor Care Foundation's Volunteer Grant Program was designed to give back to the communities where HCR Manor Care employees live and work. Heartland of Preston County, Kingwood, is owned and operated by Toledo-based HCR Manor Care, an integrated health care provider with over 400 centers specializing in long-term care, assisted living, specialty, Alzheimer's care, subacute, and home health services.

HEILIG'S HEATING, PLUMBING AND ELECTRICAL LLC

Heilig's Plumbing, Heating, and Electrical LLC recently passed a major milestone in its history when it celebrated its 10th anniversary.

The company is licensed to do business in both Maryland and West Virginia. Services offered include new installations of residential and commercial plumbing and electrical, service work, and radon mitigation installations.

Over the years, the company has focused its efforts on offering quality plumbing and electrical service, and currently refers all of its HVAC inquiries to other local companies.

Heilig's Plumbing, Heating, and Electrical, a sole proprietorship, was formed in April 1992. The company operated out of a residential garage with a work force of the owner, Rob Heilig, and one employee. The first Heilig truck was purchased that same year, and a second truck was added in 1993.

Thanks to the continued supports of its many loyal customers and numerous local contractors, the company has continued to grow, and the Heilig "fleet" currently consists of 13 fully equipped trucks.

In July 1999, the company relocated to the current 2,800 square foot facility along Route 219 at Builder's Way. The company reorganized at that time and became Heilig's Plumbing, Heating, and Electrical LLC.

Foreman positions for the plumbing and electrical crews were created. Bobby Wilt and Bob Gatto currently fill those two positions. The company employs 24 full-time employees that make up five plumbing crews, four electrical crews, two service crews, and a full-time office staff.

In an effort to attract the highest quality employees, Heilig's offers its employees specialized training as well as a wide array of benefits including bonuses, comp time, vacation/holiday pay, retirement, and health insurance.

Rob Heilig started as an apprentice plumber in 1978, and quickly became a licensed master plumber in Maryland and West Virginia, a master electrician, and a certified radon mitigation provider.

"It is due to Rob's leadership, work ethic, and business philosophy that the business continues to have steady growth," said an employee.

According to Rob, his philosophy is "Treat people the way you want to be treated, do your job once — do it right and do it in a reasonable amount of time and have the best trained people working for you."

Rob's dedication to teaching is apparent. He began promoting Association of Builders and Contractors (ABC) classes in 1989, and became a certified instructor in 1997.

He wants to provide his employees the opportunities to become the best in their trade, Rob said.

Classes are not limited to Heilig's employees and are open to anyone interested in becoming trained in the plumbing and electrical trades. Twelve students have successfully completed the four-year apprentice program. Upon completion, the student become eligible to take the exam required to be a journeyman plumber. ABC instructor Richard Morris is currently teaching the electrical classes. Persons interested in these classes may contact ABC at 301-739-1190.

Rob also supports the VICA program at both high schools. He currently has two Southern High School students finishing their first year of the apprentice program with his business.

He and the business supports the students and community through many avenues, including sports and school, a spokesperson said.

Persons interested in the services provided by Heilig's may call 301-533-0048 for more information.

AMELIE

Rated R - Running Time: 2:02 - Released 11/2/01

A fun and energetic frolic through the city of light, Le Fabuleux Destin d'Amélie Poulain is a delightful film about romance, poetic justice, and the satisfaction one receives in the act of helping others, all seen through the big, brown eyes of a quirky young girl with an irrepressibly optimistic disposition and a penchant for subterfuge. The only other film I've seen directed by Jean-Pierre Jeunet was 1997's Alien: Resurrection; this film couldn't be more different in tone, style, or subject matter. Jeunet and his co-writer, Guillaume Laurant, have created a story as light and fluffy as a souffle, and just as satisfying, and their fortune at finding actress Audrey Tautou (especially since their first choice was Emily Watson) couldn't have been more apropos. Tautou captures the innocence, joie-de-vivre, and even the delightful naiveté of ..do you notice me using all these French words?

Amélie is in French, of course; the delight of that language was re-awakened in me as I read the subtitles and fitted them to the dialogue, making ancient connections in my mind recalling the days when I used to study it. The story begins with the birth (actually, the conception) of Amelie Poulain, first played by 6-year-old Flora Guiet, whose joyful charm nicely presages what the character will come to be. Through a voiceover narration by Andre Dussollier (which continues throughout the film), we learn of Amelie's strange and solitary upbringing "between an iceberg and a neurotic," referring to her emotionless father, played by Rufus, and twitchy mother (Lorella Cravotta), respectively. Largely denied of friends and family interaction, Amelie learns to rely on her imagination for entertainment, and develops a whimsical sense of adventure that will be put to use on an important day in her young adult life, August 30, 1997, the day Lady Di was killed. Amelie finds a 40-year-old box of toys hidden inside the wall of her apartment, and decides to search out its owner. If the result is positive, she will dedicate herself to helping others, like a Parisian superheroine in a size 6 dress. If not, she says, "too bad."

After some rather amusing misunderstandings and much searching, she finds Dominique Bretodeau, the toy owner (Maurice Benichou). His reunion with his childhood mementos is indeed an emotional and rewarding experience for Amelie, and so she begins her quest. Devising all sorts of clever ruses and secretive experiments, she helps a co-worker (Isabelle Nanty) and a customer (Dominique Pinon) find love at the cafe where she works, gives her reclusive, art-loving neighbor (Serge Merlin) a new lease on life, introduces a sense of wanderlust to her aging and widowed father, and helps a sweet but slow-witted grocer's boy (Jamel Debbouze) avenge the abuses of his unpleasant employer (Urbain Cancelier). But her commitment to helping others also takes her life in an unexpected direction when she meets a young man named Nino Quincampoix (Mathieu Kassovitz), who, despite the fact that he works in a porn shop, intrigues her with his habit of collecting discarded photo-booth pictures. When Nino leaves his album full of anonymous head shots behind one day, Amélie follows him, not knowing that this selfless act will change her life forever.

Although I am a great fan of Emily Watson, I have to admit I'm glad her deal to play Amélie fell through, because I daresay Audrey Tautou is perfect for the role. Her black, piercing, Audrey Hepburn eyes and whimsical delivery bring Amélie to life in a way I can't imagine from anyone else. Director Jeunet successfully showcases the romance of Paris while being unafraid to show its darker sides as well. His use of fast- and slow-motion, along with his ability to blend humor with tenderness, provides an exquisite testament to the unpredictable but ultimately deep, loving character Amélie is. Très bien. ★★★★½

UNFAITHFUL

Rated R - Running Time: 2:04 - Released 5/10/02

I get the feeling that Adrian Lyne's treatment of Unfaithful, a remake of Calude Chabrol's 1969 film La Femme Infidele, updated by writers Alvin Sargent and William Broyles Jr., betrays an attempt to re-create the sexy tautness of Fatal Attraction, director Lyne's most famous and award-nominated film. Although this movie features the kind of sexual tension Lyne achieved in that and several other of his films (Nine 1/2 Weeks, Indecent Proposal...), this one generally lacks the fire generated by the others. It moves at a dreadfully slow pace and seems more depressing than sexy. In Fatal Attraction, even though you knew what Michael Douglas and Glenn Close were doing was wrong, you couldn't fault them for it when it was going on; the sex was just too hot to resist. In this film, you just think, "Why are they doing this."

Unfaithful involves a married couple played by Richard Gere and Diane Lane (pairing up again for the first time since 1984's The Cotton Club), and Olivier Martinez as the dashing young man who comes between them. One ridiculously windy day in New York City, when Connie Sumner (Lane) is trying to collect some supplies for her son's (Erik Per Sullivan, Malcolm In The Middle) birthday party, she is literally blown into Soho bookseller Paul Martel (Martinez), knocking him over (along with the cartoonishly huge pile of books he's carrying) and injuring her knee. Looking like Steve Perry during Journey's heyday and warbling his sexiest French accent, Paul invites her into his apartment for tea and a Band-Aid. When she gets herself taken care of, he offers a book of poetry from his huge collection (his apartment looks like a section of the NYU library stacks). She takes the book, thanks him, and goes home, but Connie can't get the charming mystery man out of her mind. She calls him back and makes an excuse to come and share coffee, and before you know it, they're horizontal.

Although Connie and Paul continue their affair for several weeks, my favorite scene of the movie is her train ride home following their first encounter. Lane's tormented behavior is priceless; she wavers uncontrollably between laughing, crying, and sweating, as she sits alone on the train recalling their passion and realizing the magnitude of her transgression. Needless to say, Edward (Gere) begins to suspect something and has her followed, with disasterous results.

I can't decide whether I like this film or not. Although it's about adultery, suspicion, and ultimately murder, it tries to exist without a villain. We are supposed to like all the characters, and yet in some way, we can't like any of them. Though the sex is passionate between Connie and Paul (at least one scene borders on porn), we don't learn enough about their emotional relationship. Connie is obviously happy when she's with him; she keeps coming back at the risk of damaging her home and family, but apart from one flirtatious scene in a coffee shop, which exists for a different reason, we aren't made to see what makes him so special to her. We can understand why she might become infatuated with another; Lane's relationship with Gere is static and uninteresting, but Edward Is not portrayed as a bad guy or even as an insensitive husband, and they don't appear to be estranged in any way. Moreover, although Fatal Attraction ended almost like a horror film with Close wielding that butcher knife (at one point in this film director Lyne even makes a loving reference to that), Paul is never seen, even by Edward, as anything other than a nice guy. There are numerous red herrings and hints that things may turn out another way, which is a nice device, but it never really commits to one or another. The film's final message is unclear; its upbeat resolution is its most unlikely aspect, but even the last scene gives a subtle hint of an alternate ending. It suffers from mixed messages (which are apparently intentional) and a slow, depressing pace (unintentional), so its outcome is muddled and unsatisfying. But man, those two really get it on. ★★★½

HOLLYWOOD ENDING

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:54 - Released 5/3/02

If there's anyone who knows about the disparity in filmmaking between Hollywood and New York, it would be Woody Allen. Choosing to address the subject directly, writer/director Allen produces a satire of the movie industry that, while it shows occasional creative strain, contains the biting humor to which we have become accustomed from him, including a fair amount of self-deprecation. In this film, he's not only neurotic and hyphochondriac as usual, he's also a movie director.

The film opens with a brainstorming session among Hollywood producers Ellie (Téa Leoni) and her fiance Hal (Treat Williams), along with their friend and co-producer Ed (George Hamilton) about who should direct their company's upcoming picture, The City That Never Sleeps. Although Ellie has reservations about Val Waxman (Allen), not only because, in her husband's words, "he's a raving, incompetent psychotic," but because she used to be married to him, she can't deny that he'd be perfect for this picture. "Manhattan is in his marrow," she says, and also, she knows this chance would revive his flagging career. Against their protests, she convinces Hal and Ed to give him a chance, and they offer him the picture. Val, of course, has mixed feelings—on the one hand, he knows this film is perfect for him and could save his reputation, but being offered a job by his ex-wife and the man with whom she had an adulterous affair is not a comfortable idea. Nonetheless, he accepts, and pre-production begins. Val chooses a Chinese cinematographer (Yu Lu) who doesn't speak English, and makes the usual outlandish demands regarding set, lighting, and talent, including casting his current lover (Will & Grace's Debra Messing) in a small role despite her awful acting technique, and sets the date to start production.

Unfortunately, however, on the first day of shooting, Val has a crisis: he goes blind. Whether it's the stress of working on a film with his ex-wife and her millionaire fiancé, or the pressure of having to produce a success to reestablish his position as a sought-after director, he doesn't know. But eye exams, CAT scans, and psychological analysis all confirm that he's perfectly fine from a physical standpoint; his loss of sight is psycho-somatic. Although Val at first feels he must abandon production, his agent Al (Mark Rydell) convinces him this is too big an opportunity to pass up. They devise a plan whereby he'll continue to work on the picture, blind, with the help of the Chinese cameraman's translator (Barney Cheng) acting as his eyes. The plan goes as well as could be expected, with Val constantly tripping over things and never looking anyone in the eye, until the translator is fired and Ellie is forced to become the inside person, which requires that she hide from her fiancé that his $60 million investment is being directed by a blind man. Meanwhile, Val is constantly being dogged by Esquire journalist Andrea Ford (Jodie Markell), whose sharklike investigative skills may lead her to the true story behind this unorthodox production at any moment.

This film is stock Woody comedy, of course, featuring a ridiculous, outlandish situation with him at the center and interjecting various social commentary here and there if one is interested in picking it up. I especially like the line, "Send Haley Joel Osment some flowers congratulating him on his Lifetime Achievement Award." As usual, its supporting cast is adequate (Leoni is especially good), but the talent is somewhat spotty in the smaller roles. Surprisingly, the ending of Hollywood Ending is not very Hollywood, nor very satisfying; it just sort of peters out with an upbeat and entirely unrealistic twist tacked on. But even if this isn't Woody's best, it provides generally solid entertainment, which is something of a rarity these days from Tinseltown. ★★★★

LARRY SCHENK

I had come to know and love a man so full of charm, humor and thoughtfulness. Larry, you filled my life with so much happiness, and I know that I had done the same for you.
I will never forget our first dinner out together and the last dinner I prepared for you; and us acting silly and dancing in the living room. It's those memories that will stay in my heart forever.
No one can take away what we shared together and the words we spoke. I will never forget the words you so often said to me, "you spoil me" "look me in the eye", and "I'm only teasin."
Most of all I will remember the last words you spoke to me.

Food Allergy Awareness

Allergies related to certain foods can be life threatening. In the US, life-threatening emergencies related to food allergy result in approximately 30,000 emergency room visits and as many as 200 deaths.

Mild allergic reactions to food may cause tingling and/or swelling of the tongue, as well as hives, and upset stomach. More serious anaphylaxis type reactions are associated with breathing difficulty, a drop in blood pressure, and unconsciousness. Most individuals tend to "out-grow" food related allergies. But reactions brought on by peanuts, tree nuts, fish, or shellfish sometimes occur throughout one's life.

Epinephrine (an injectable drug also known as adrenaline) is used to treat food related anaphylaxis type reactions. This medicine helps reverse symptoms, especially when given as soon as they are noticed. Antihistamines such as diphenhydramine and steroids such as methylprednisolone usually do not reverse allergy symptoms. But they may help speed up recovery from an attack. The best way to prevent food related allergies is to avoid those foods that are known to cause problems.

Garrett Community College Graduates Take Walk Down Commencement Aisle

"LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, TURN YOUR TASSELS ..." — Many months of classwork, research, and study culminated Saturday when GCC's 2002 graduates performed the time-honored ritual of turning their tassels, symbolizing a new turn in each of their lives. The commencement, which had gotten under way with the academic procession led by the Pipes and Drums, was drawn to a close as the bagpipers and drummers played the alma mater for Garrett Community College. The Scottish music group is shown below playing the alma mater, an original composition by pipe major Jerry McGee.

by Joan Crawford

The 30th — and technically the last — commencement of Garrett Community College last Saturday followed traditions of other commencement ceremonies with some special activities to commemorate the anniversary. To the strains of "Crags of the Mountains," performed by the GCC Pipes and Drums, the academic procession of honored guests, students, administrators, and faculty entered the gymnasium.

As president Dr. Steve Herman welcomed the graduates, their families and guests, he introduced the platform guests, among them two members of the college's first board of trustees, Herbert Harman and Robert F. Diehl. Each family received a booklet outlining GCC's 30-year history in photos and narrative to commemorate the anniversary.

Herman then introduced keynote speaker Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, former superintendent of Garrett County schools and current resident of North Carolina, who urged the graduates to "keep on learning." Rob Michael, chairman of the board of trustees, presented the award for Outstanding Contributions to GCC posthumously to F. David Slagle, former professor of chemistry and coordinator of management information systems, for his 28 years of service to the college. Carol Slagle accepted the award in memory of her late husband, with her son Michael at her side. The anniversary booklet was also dedicated to David Slagle.

The names of graduates were read by Dr. Nancy Priselac, math department chairperson, and presented to Michael, who conferred the degrees and certificates. A total of 83 degrees were awarded, 37 in transfer programs and 46 in career advancement programs. Programs having the highest number of graduates were General Studies, with 12; Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology, with 11; and Adventure Sports, with 10. Twelve certificates were awarded.

The names of students who were nominated to Who's Who Among American College Students were read. Priselac then announced recipients of the graduate awards. Two members of Phi Theta Kappa, Sharon Elliott and Lauren Stillwagon, were named to the All-Maryland Academic Team. Graduate awards to scholar-athletes were presented to Lauren Stillwagon and Joseph Carper. The faculty's award to the Outstanding Transfer Student also was presented to Lauren Stillwagon. Eric Preston was named Outstanding Career Student. Lauren Stillwagon received the Leadership Award.

The award for the highest GPA and the Inspiration Award were presented to Mary Evans. Three graduates were recognized for having completed the Honors Program. They were Mary Evans, Lisa Jones, and Lauren Stillwagon. Four students from the Republic of Estonia, the first to graduate from GCC, were recognized. They were Reeda Tuula, Terje Kaur, Haiku Sikka, and Ava Kikas.

Following the presentations Herman recognized and thanked the anniversary booklet committee, composed of Patsy Baker, Deloris Edgar, Linda Fike, and Joan Crawford. To close the commencement ceremony, the Pipes and Drums presented the alma mater for Garrett College, an original musical composition by pipe major Jerry McGee.

During the ceremony, two banners hung on the stage. One displayed high about the podium showed the Garrett Community College seal designed by Ava Stanton 30 years ago with three mountains to represent the threefold mission of the college, and the other displayed lower and to the rear was a 21st century version of the original with the name of the college that is yet to be — Garrett College.

GCC Foundation-Seeking Fund Drive Donations

The annual fund drive of the Garrett Community College Foundation is under way and will conclude by June 30, as the college celebrates its 30th year of service to the people of Garrett County and the surrounding area.

Individuals and businesses are encouraged to make a gift to help GCC in this time of rising costs in higher education, said GCCF executive director Bretta Reinhard. Six categories of giving have been established: Friend — $25; Professor's Circle — $50; Dean's Circle — $100; President's Circle — $250; College Circle — $500; and Legacy Leader — $1,000. All levels of financial support are welcome, and donors will receive public recognition for their gifts.

Donors who are affiliated with or retired from a company with a matching gifts program are requested to obtain their matching gift form from the personnel office and return it with their gift. Categories are based on total dollars received from personal and corporate matching gifts. All gifts are tax deductible.

The significant contributions GCC has made to the quality of life in Garrett County during its first 30 years were underscored by GCCF president Ann M. Smith, who noted, "GCC has provided high quality education to thousands of our citizens. The record shows that its graduates excel when they transfer to four-year colleges, and employers are very satisfied with the graduates they hire. The price of this excellence is more than a rural community with a limited tax base can be expected to support from public funding. The mission of the foundation is to provide the resources needed to achieve excellence."

Major endowments of the foundation are used to provide scholarships and to acquire new technology equipment. During the past academic year, GCCF scholarships were awarded to one of every eight students.

Persons wishing to make a gift before the closing of this year's annual fund drive may send their contribution to the Garrett Community College Foundation Inc., 687 Mosser Road, Mcllenry, MD 21541-1254. Further information may be obtained by calling Reinhard at 301-387-3100.

"Make Learning Lifelong," Ryscavage Urges Graduates

A LIFETIME LEARNER HIMSELF, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage encouraged GCC's graduates, staff, and their families to keep on learning throughout their own lives. In his address to the commencement gathering, the former Garrett County school superintendent challenged his audience to "continue to read; don't be afraid to do something different; and don't be too busy to maintain an open mind." Ryscavage also praised the 30 years of service GCC has provided to the local and regional community.

In his address to the 2002 graduates at Garrett Community College's commencement last Saturday, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, former superintendent of Garrett County Schools, spoke of the need to keep on learning.

Referring to a familiar TV commercial that shows children in the back seat of a family car who ask the typical question, "Are we there yet?" Ryscavage asked the graduates, "Are you there yet?" He then told them that commencement is neither an end nor a beginning because they will continue to develop as individuals, and he pointed to the three-fold mission of GCC indicated in the college seal, one point of which is the self-fullillment.

"Educators are caught up with self-fulfillment," he said. "In this age of specialization, do not narrow your perspective." With reference to the 100th anniversary of powered flight at Kitty Hawk, he said that greater specialization in aviation has led to the complex planes of today and credited the Wright brothers for recognizing the learning opportunities in their lives. "Life is like the pitching, rolling and yawing of an aircraft, and the basic lessons of flight are with us today. Learning is a life- long activity."

Ryscavage also credited GCC for serving the Garrett County community in many ways during its 30 years of existence and for providing never-ending learning opportunities to its constituents. He praised especially members of the first board of trustees, who had the vision to set the course for the college that helped it become the learning opportunity for the community.

In closing, Ryscavage had three-part advice for the graduates: "Continue to read; don't be afraid to do something different, like working with your hands; and don't be too busy to maintain an open mind."

Since his retirement, Ryscavage and his wife Mary are living on the Outer Banks of North Carolina.

Maryland Bay Game Educates, Enlivens Kids

The new 2002 Maryland Bay Game, the first educational tool of its kind in the nation, is now available at county tourism offices across the state and from toll collectors at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge. Designed for children ages 3 and up, the free game helps increase awareness of how our surroundings, including those in the westernmost reaches of the Bay's watershed in a portion of Garrett County, relate to the Chesapeake Bay.

This year's Bay Game features new games, including puzzles, mazes, and bingo, and encourages children to locate 14 sites, some of which are new, that are marked with "Bay Game" highway signs along the drive to Maryland's Eastern Shore beaches via U.S. Route 50 and state Route 404.

The 24-page booklet also introduces two new characters, Cooper and Hanna, a pair of water droplets who meet while traveling through the bay's watershed and tell the story of their journey. The booklet also includes a Walk Smart detachable bookmark, a word search, crossword puzzle, math quiz, secret code message, a stump-the-grownups game, and a full page of color stickers.

The Department of Natural Resources provides thousands of copies of the Bay Game to Maryland teachers each year for use in studies of environmental issues and the Chesapeake Bay. Private and governmental organizations across the nation have expressed interest in developing programs similar to the initiative, and have requested copies for use as models.

For more information about the Bay Game, persons may visit the DNR web site at www.dnr.state.md.us/baygame.

Planting Tiny Trees, Inner-City Children Nuture Seeds Of Hope

by David Foster

"As the twig is bent the tree inclines," the Roman poet Virgil wrote a century before Christ's birth. To put down roots with a strong and straight start, a young tree requires fertile ground, clean air and sunlight, and room to grow. The same can be said of children, and although the 20 fourth grade students of LaSalle Elementary School in Washington, D.C., who recently visited Garrett County are not overly blessed with those prerequisites in their inner-city neighborhood, they are still on their way to thriving with the help of many caring hands.

Working in conjunction with staff from the Nature Conservancy and approximately 20 adult volunteers, the children recently spent a day collecting 2,168 red spruce seedlings from the Canaan Valley (Tucker County, W.Va.) area of the Monongahela National Forest. The following day the children replanted the seedlings in the Conservancy-owned Cranesville Swamp. The swamp has one of Maryland's largest red spruce and red spruce/eastern hemlock stands, although today they cover just a fraction of their historical distribution.

The LaSalle students were on a rescue mission of sorts as they collected the tree seedlings from a gas pipeline right-of-way. For a number of years seedlings have been sprouting naturally along the pipeline's path, only to be mowed down by the natural gas company, which must maintain a clear swath through the forest. With the gas company's permission and encouragement, the students harvested the tiny trees, each of which was younger than the children themselves, and transported their collection to the Cranesville Swamp here in Garrett County, where the unique sub-arctic swamp thrives under the Conservancy's protection. There, each seedling was given a new home in the wet, spongy soil.

D.C. KIDS GIVE TREES A CHANCE — A team of 20 fourth graders from LaSalle Elementary School in Washington, D.C., donated their time and toil recently to a Nature Conservancy tree seedling replanting project in the Cranesville Swamp in western Garrett County. The students spent a full day collecting over 2,100 red spruce seedlings by hand in nearby Tucker County, W.Va., then brought the tiny trees north to spend the next day re-planting them in the swamp area. Emmanuel Ebowame, above left, is pictured gently coaxing a seedling from the ground for transport to Garrett County, where the group of students and adult volunteers shown at the above right — from left, Shaquan Moore, David Smallwood, Jasmine Crockett, and Karen Lanz — helped Ebowame and the others plant the little evergreens. The smiles of the young "Johnny Appleseeds" pictured below — Karina Montiel and Myra Miller — sum up the working weekend's true harvest. The children and adult volunteers stayed the night at the Panorama Motel in McHenry during their local visit.

"Red spruce trees were once very common in high-elevation forests throughout western Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia," noted Deborah Landau, a conservation ecologist with the Nature Conservancy, "but turn-of-the-century logging practices reduced their numbers significantly. This is the first of several years of replanting efforts we intend to carry out in order to restore the forest cover to its natural state, and regenerate the numbers of red spruce."

The LaSalle students, many of whom had never before had the opportunity to venture beyond the crowded streets and back alleys of their inner-city neighborhoods, traveled much farther than a five-hour sojourn aboard a schoolbus. Just how far can be gauged by the school they left behind, which has a student body of 330 black, 30 Hispanic, and just four white children.

"The children's parents and grandparents were actually more apprehensive about this trip than the kids were," commented LaSalle teacher David Hilmy, who spearheaded the expedition. "They were worried about their kids leaving the city for the first time, and what could go wrong out in the country. When we had each child call home on the first night out, there were some rather long and heartfelt conversations as the kids, despite being a little homesick, assured their families that everything was going OK."

The children and the trees they rescued actually have a lot in common; both come from areas that can on the surface seem incredibly harsh, but with a lot of care and concern, along with a little luck, can produce a strong youth. "LaSalle is what the D.C. school system calls a 'transformational school,'" Hilmy explained. "It was rated as one of the very worst in the city, so the entire administration and staff were removed and replaced. Part of our mission now is to inject new ways of learning and thinking into the classroom and our students' lives."

Such new tactics are evidenced in the person of Himly, a native of Scotland whose job description says his position is filled by a teacher of physical education and dance, but would more accurately read "a teacher of all trades." The former British Army soldier, who has traveled the world, is by training a tropical biologist who now helps children flower in the inner city jungle.

"I believe very strongly in the value of hands-on education," Himly said. "It only stands to reason that we are given more than one or two senses, so to limit our teaching to one or two senses — say sight and sound, with students just reading books and listening to teachers talk — misses the larger picture of what kids, and all of us, are made of. The more ways children take information in — not just by hearing and seeing, but also by touching, smelling, and tasting, as well as talking, writing, musing, and dreaming — only serves to help them make that information part of their lives.

"If I could turn the entire school year into hands-on field trips, I would. One of the best things about this trip, apart from the scientific learning, was that the kids got to work side-by-side with adult biologists who are enthusiastic about the environment, and some of that enthusiasm rubbed off on them. It was also important for them to live in close contact together, both working in the field and staying together in McHenry's Panorama Motel. By spending so much time together doing the same things, they learned self-respect, respect for others, teamwork, and conflict resolution — important life skills for anyone, but especially for those growing up in the inner city."

There was no playing of Game Boy over the weekend, or other of the more typical diversions, according to the teacher, who added that the children were at first quite amused, then excited, that he cooked for them in the Panorama's kitchen suite. "It was the first time many of the kids had seen a man working in the kitchen, and many of them mostly eat McDonald's meals for supper. We also brought fixings so they could make their own lunches each morning, which was a new experience for most of them. They learned a great deal about a lot of different things and skills."

The children's work in the Cranesville Swamp is part of the Nature Conservancy's ongoing effort to renew the natural forest life of Garrett County. The organization conducted a similar set of red spruce planting for three years in a row between 1995 and 1998 at the Glades Preserve between Bittinger and McHenry. Approximately 10,000 seedlings were planted in those three years.

"Our Garrett County replanting projects are using local, wild seedlings, which would otherwise be destroyed because they're in a natural gas right-of-way," said the Conservancy's Landau. "That way we're ensuring conservation of any potentially unique genetic material in the region's red spruce."

And, as Himly could have well added, the projects and the adults who are mentoring the LaSalle students, and children anywhere, are also working to preserve unique members of our human family.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

I can remember how I struggled with the topic "Youth Responsibility in Their Community" for a 4-H public speaking contest when I was young. I think that I maybe won that year in the girls' senior division in the county contest. I know the boy winner was none other than Bobby Custer. Somewhere I think I have a clipping of Bobby and me from The Republican.

Like many communities in Garrett County, Bittinger expects a lot from our kids. Last weekend was a good example. Many got up early to set up the yard sale for Emmanuel Lutheran Church's Blessing Fund, and worked at it through the dreary morning so blessed with bad weather that many customers kept away. They ended up closing in the late morning.

Other community kids who are members of the Bittinger 4-H took time to hit the road, literally, on Rt. 495 to clean up trash that thoughtless motorists toss out their window, as part of their Adopt-A-Highway project. Sometimes I think people think, why not? They know someone else will clean up their mess. If they keep it in their cars then they would have to deal with it themselves.

I felt pretty bad that my girls were absent from all the activities last weekend, since they had to go to Silver Spring to see their Sussman grandparents and have a late celebration of their Aunt Vicki's birthday. She turned 50 in April, but complex schedules made the celebration wait until May.

The weather in Bittinger recently has been fit for December. We got several small snow flurries, and some really cold nights. Last night I neglected to cover my impatiens that the girls gave me for a Mother's Day gift, and I saw this morning that they had suffered severe frost damage. It was too cold for my girls to finish all the outside plant protection after they got home from Washington Sunday evening. They did work to clear out my little garden spot in front of my house, but they were only good for about a half an hour and then came into the house, saying over and over again, "It is too cold, it is too cold." They did remember that I got some heating oil in the tank last week, so they cranked the thermostat way up, so my house got very hot today after they left. I almost wished there was a window up when I got up.

In spite of the cold weather and all the rain that we have gotten over the last few weeks, spring continues to come here. The ewes in Jimmy Glotfelty's pasture got busy and birthed a new crop of little, shaky, fluffy lambs, both white and black. He also has a small herd of goats. Little baby goats are the one baby animal that I think is even cuter than a lamb. I can't drive past that field without stopping and admiring them.

We have also seen more activity in the working of fields in Garrett County with plowing, disking, etc. Not many are ready for planting yet though. The pastures and hay fields have enjoyed the rain though and are greening up nicely. Whether we will get some nice dry weather in June so necessary to make hay (you know the old saying — Make hay while the sun shines) is still to be seen.

One of the three new

PWSID # 0110008

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Water Quality Report. This report is designed to inform you about the water quality and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. The Oakland Water System obtains all of its raw water from two separate sources. Source #1 is the Youghiogheny River and it supplies water for the Bradley Lane Water Treatment Plant which is located off Bradley Lane in Oakland. Source #2 is called Broadford Lake, which is located just off Broadford Road and it supplies water for the Broadford Water Treatment Plant. Once the water is treated, it is pumped directly to the customer with excess capacity held in reserve at one of our three water storage tanks to meet daily needs. Water from both sources is blended together at the storage tanks.

I'm pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets federal and state requirements.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other Immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Randy Sharpless at the Oakland Water Department at 301-334-3836 or Mayor McCain at 301-334-2691 for additional information regarding the data in this report. The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland holds regularly scheduled meetings on the first Monday of the month at 7:00 PM in the Council Chambers, 15 South Third Street, Oakland, Maryland. Please call 301-334-2691 to schedule your topic on the agenda for discussion at any regularly scheduled meeting.

The Town of Oakland routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2001. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes, inorganic and organic chemicals, and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. It's important to remember that the presence of these contaminants does not necessarily pose a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Non-Detects (ND) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - The "Goal" (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

TEST RESULTS

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some contaminants have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. These substances can be microbes, inorganic or organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

MCL's are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated contaminants, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

Please call our office at 301-334-3836 if you have questions.

paintings which I sent to the Art Council's Gallery on Alder Street is of a freshly mown field of hay under a threatening grey sky. This sight is enough to give a headache to any farmer — a picture of rich promise overshadowed by potential trouble ahead. Another is just a pretty May day, and the other is of a goldenrod field in late summer. I am not sure when they will open the summer show, but I urge everyone to go check out the wonderful art of so many great local artists after Memorial Day.

I can't believe that Memorial Day is just around the corner. What a relief to me that I am not expecting a farm full of visitors here for the weekend. My cousin Courtney will host our downstate friends who crave country life for a picnic and some bird and star watching.

This is to remind folks that the Bittinger Cemetery Lot Owners will meet on Monday, May 26, at 1:30 p.m. at the fire hall. I have always been a little curious about what goes on at that meeting, but not enough to attend it. I do have what I think is a nice idea for them to consider. I think a bed of transplanted daffodils from all of the many old beds around our community would be great. Imagine all the many varieties from family beds from around the community. I love to think of all the varieties together in one place, because so many families have slightly different types, and a long history of bulbs which were transplanted to a new home when kids started a new household. For example, some of the plants from my grandmother Emma Glotfelty's bed at the old house have made their way to my house, Pappy Dale's house, and into the house of my sister, Carol Bass. They have a white outer petal with a pale yellow bell. I have noticed the same type at the old Stephens place. I wish I knew where their original home was. I know it was common to also share with your neighbors. Imagine a wife visiting her neighbors and admiring the daffodils. The woman of that house, of course, offered a few bulbs as a gift. It's wonderful to check out the beds growing around old homes throughout Bittinger.

A few really old cemeteries around here have a good variety of daffodils. The old Glades Amish Church on Foxtown Road (where my great-grandparents are buried) has some of the same kinds that my grandmother had. I wonder if she moved some from her homeplace to there in memory of those Brenneman relatives. The old Beachy graveyard between Sally's and Cindy's houses have some that I remember spread like wildfire.

You could say many of the same things about the many varieties of lilacs around Bittinger. I hear they are pretty easy to start, just by using a root shoot which grow around the base of old healthy bushes. The bush outside my kitchen window is pure Bittinger. My other bush was transplanted from a strain from Swanton, brought to me by Dennis Friend, who is an old friend of mine. He brought me some from his mother's bush, which after 15 years in my yard is as big as any around here. It has a deeper purple flower with redder hues than my family bush has. Its blossoms are more pale lilac with a pale blue in it, the same as Pappy Dale's bush.

I am not happy with the cold weather in terms of added expense in the form of heating oil needs. Why, oh why, does one have to buy fuel oil in May? On the other hand, I was glad to get a few sugar snap peas in before this morning, since the old timers would tell you that you need to have some snow on your peas to have a good crop. This morning we did have a tiny bit of snow, which was not the first time in recent weeks.

I happened to chat with Jack Beitzel, the new owner of the Peat Moss business, who also does business in landscaping services and carries an excellent stock of mason stone, apparently from some kind of special sandstone from the area. Brother Barry recently brought one of his colleagues to see the stone quarry because of some interest in groundwater that I didn't totally understand. Anyway, I asked him if he had a garden in yet. He said yes, some peas, lettuce, and even some potatoes, which are up. He was pretty sure that the freeze got them last night.

I want to bring attention to all anglers that my nephews, Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty, have a thriving business of selling night crawlers. They live next door down the road toward Bittinger. Maybe this is not the best time to push their business, since their night crawlers go back into the ground to escape the cold conditions in the open air. Maybe things will look up for them soon, as today, we have a little weak sunshine.

Sometimes it seems like we have only two seasons — three months of summer, and about nine months of winter. This might be a slight exaggeration, but in thinking more, there is nowhere that compares with those three months of summer here. I think the first families that decided to settle here came in June, July, or August. The only downside of summer in this neck of the woods, according to Sheila Southerly, is the deerfly. They are the most evil insect of all. They can draw more blood than a lab technician. The bite itches like crazy and the fresh bite stings as bad as a bee sting. I can remember trying to outrun them when I rode my horse Joey in the woods. If we failed, we could sometimes plunge into the beaver dams. My guess is that we might still have another month before deerfly season hits.

Even if it isn't yet summer, one family already took their summer vacation. Gary and Sharon Buckel took a long trip to Maine. In spite of Gary being absent, I still got curb service at the store from Mrs. Opel, who is holding down the fort for Gary. She didn't even mind bringing out a large bag of dog and cat food to my car. "It's no trouble." That was real good, old-fashioned service, delivered with a smile.

Ruth DiPaolo spent the week with her friends, Betty and Ellis Sacra, in Virginia.

SPRINGS FARMERS MARKET, MUSEUM SET TO OPEN — The Springs Historical Society has announced that the Springs Farmers Market and Springs Museum will begin the 2002 season on Saturday, May 25. Fresh-picked produce, home-baked pies, breads, plants, antiques, and flea market items will line the tables of more than 80 vendors. Funnel cakes, fresh fruit, and sandwiches will be available at the lunch stand. Proceeds from the market will support the Springs Museum, located adjacent to the market. The museum is full of history, folklore, and traditions of the early settlers of the Casselman Valley with more than 2,500 artifacts on display, including replicas of an early store, kitchen, and school room. This year a new addition has been added which houses a Conestoga wagon and early farm implements. Forty years of journals portraying history and genealogical information of settlers of this area are available on site. The market and museum are located along Springs Road, three miles north of Grantsville. Both will be open until Sept. 21. The museum is open Wednesday through Friday from 1 until 5 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. The market is open every Saturday from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. Standing in the center of the photo is Jean Maust as she serves customers at the refreshment stand.

BROAD FORD KIDS TAKE FIELD TRIP AFLOAT — The rain did not keep kindergarten students at the Broad Ford Elementary School from taking a field trip to the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center, an outing that included a boat ride on the lake. The children learned about wildlife and nature, both on land and on the water. Pictured in the front row, from the left, are Kristie Swearengen, Emily Martin, Lucas Muenchow, Tyler DeWitt, Brian Longacre, and Destinee Jones. In the middle row are David Kitzmiller and Harley Glotfelty, and in the back row are Nature Lake Tours owner Steve Stallings, Ryan Wilburn, Reese Haskell, and DNR park naturalist Todd Metz.

RAMS SENIORS SAVOR STATE TITLE — The Southern High School varsity softball team took its second consecutive Maryland Class 1A championship this past Thursday evening with a 2-0 win over the Catoctin Cougars at Randazzo Park in Severn. The all-around team effort of this year's 21-1 SHS squad was especially sweet for the team's six graduating seniors, all starters, who are shown above. From the left are first baseman Erica Green, outfielder Megan Burner, third baseman Autumn Uphold, pitcher Jennifer Bosley, and shortstop Ashley Liller. The title game marked the final appearance for these student-athletes, four of whom are honor roll students, and the SHS softball coaching staff of Dave Bosley and Christy Eyler. The Rams' accomplishment will be reported on newsstands across the nation in this coming Tuesday's issue of USA Today. See sports pages for details and more photographs. Photo by Doug Oxford.

Oakland Man Dies In Single-Vehicle Mishap

An Oakland man died as the result of injuries he suffered in a single-vehicle accident Sunday around 2:30 p.m. on Route 50 near the bottom of Cheat Mountain, according to the Preston County's Sheriff's Department.

Colin Wheeler Sanders, 48, was traveling east on Route 50 in his 1987 Ford pickup when he ran off the road to the right, striking the end of a guard rail, which forced the vehicle to run off the road and strike a group of trees broadside on the driver's side.

Sanders was the only passenger in the vehicle and was reportedly not wearing a seatbelt. According to police, it took more than 30 minutes for members of the Aurora and Rowlesburg fire departments to extricate him from the vehicle.

Also assisting at the scene were members of the Rowlesburg Ambulance Service, as well as a local paramedic.

According to the police, the vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed, which did play a role in the accident.

Sanders' obituary is on page A-6.

Westminster Man Sentenced For Sex Offense

Two men were sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court on unrelated sex offense charges.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced David Wayne Shugars, 21, Westminster, to two years in the Department of Corrections for a third-degree sex offense. Sherbin then suspended the sentence and placed Shugars on two years of supervised probation. Shugars will be registered as a child sex offender, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney.

Officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation charged Shugars last September after learning that he had engaged in illegal activities with a 14-year-old female.

In an unrelated case heard last week, Lawrence Edward Owsiany, 40, pleaded guilty to third-degree sex offense and child abuse. Sherbin sentenced Owsiany to five years in the Department of Corrections for each charge, to run consecutively.

Owsiany, no address given, was arrested by officers with the GBI in August after investigation revealed he had engaged in sexual conduct with a juvenile in various Garrett County locations over a period of several years. Since his arrest, Owsiany had been incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail. Upon his release, Owsiany will have to register as child sex offender wherever he resides, according to Thayer Welch.

Overlook, Outreach Centers Set Open Houses; DP Water Project Progressing

The Garrett County commissioners held their monthly staff meeting this week, hearing reports from 15 various departments and agencies. Among the issues discussed this month were open houses for Community Action projects, the Deer Park water project, the Accident sewage project, computers for the Ruth Enlow Library, and the natural gas rights bill.

Community Action

Duane Yoder, president of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., reported that a ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house for the Overlook Early Child Development Center would be held on Friday, June 7, at noon. The Overlook Center is located at 41 Highland Drive in Oakland. Also slated for that day is the dedication of the Grantsville Outreach Center and the groundbreaking ceremony for Cassel Ridge East. The ceremonies will begin at 3 p.m. at the Outreach Center, which is located along Hershberger Lane. Cassel Ridge, a 36-unit housing complex, is slated to open early next spring, said Yoder.

Yoder also reported that renovations to Pine Woods East, a housing complex in

Garrett-Calvert Vacation Package "Swap" Arranged

Garrett County has joined forces with Calvert County on the Chesapeake Bay in southern Maryland to create a vacation package swap with the goal of promoting tourism within each other's jurisdictions, according to a spokesperson for the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

An example of this venture is a "getaway weekend" to Solomon's Island that will be offered as a door prize at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner next week. The prize includes certificates for a two-night stay at the Holiday Inn Select, situated on the waterfront of Solomon's Harbor, dinner for two at Lighthouse Inn, a cruise on the William B. Tennison around Solomon's Harbor and the Patuxent River lighthouses, plus admission to the Calvert Marine Museum.

"This unique approach to promoting tourism and advertising local businesses resulted from a discussion with Calvert County's chamber president Carolyn McHugh during a meeting of the Maryland Association of Chamber of Commerce

Plans Finalized For Saturday's Highland Fest

Plans have been finalized for the 15th Highland Festival, to be held this Saturday, June 1, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. A variety of performers, bagpipe bands, Celtic vendors, and crafters will be featured. (See photos and more festival details on page A-17.)

Performers will include world renowned Scottish fiddler Bonnie Rideout, folk singer Carl Peterson, Celtic band Sang Run, Scotch Mist featuring Lynne Barnes on harp and Roger Dale on recorder, Sweet Briar, and the pub band Shanty Irish.

Garrett Community College To Have New Name, Added Focus

by Joan Crawford

With a new name — Garrett College — and a new logo for Garrett Community College, director of enrollment development Crystal Roberson expects to see more students attracted to the college's transfer programs than in years past.

During the past decade most enrollment growth has occurred in the career advancement programs that lead to an associate in Applied Science degree (A.A.S.). Graduates of transfer programs receive an Associate in Arts degree (A.A.).

"Now that Garrett will be a college instead of a community college, we think that more students will consider starting here and then transferring to a four-year college," Roberson said. "We are revising our promotion literature and planning recruiting trips to make students aware of the many advantages of coming to a small college like Garrett, where they receive personal attention from a caring faculty and staff. Students will also be ahead financially because our in-county tuition will not increase next year and they will be eligible for more scholarships when they are ready to transfer."

Roberson was referring to the Maryland Community College Transfer Scholar-

Wishnick Resigns As President Of County Chamber

Ken Wishnick, who has been the president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for the past three-plus years, announced his resignation from that position this week.

In a letter to the chamber board of directors, Wishnick said that he has accepted the position of executive manager of Umbel Enterprises, McHenry, and that his resignation will be effective at the close of business on July 12.

"My decision was made with mixed emotions," Wishnick said in his letter. "In just over three years of working together, we have built the chamber into a streamlined, performance-driven organization that consistently achieves outstanding results. We have increased our membership by over 50% and initiated highly successful marketing campaigns that formed the cornerstone of the 60% growth in tourism that occurred during my tenure."

The letter noted "significant improvements" that were made to the Autumn Glory Festival, and that the chamber "now has a well-earned positive image for both our achievements and our open communications."

Wishnick, who was hired in February 1999, told the

PG County Youths Get 12 Years In DOC

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced two 17-year-old males from Prince George's County in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to 12 years in the Department of Corrections for a variety of crimes. Devon Lorenzo Adams and Andrew Elverton McLean were 16-year-olds committed to the Backbone Mountain Youth facility when they escaped with a third youth last April.

The three were captured late the next day in the Deer Park area after they attempted to carjack an area woman, who successfully thwarted their efforts and contacted authorities. The woman reported that the three youths had been in her garage, assaulted her, and attempted to take her EXCITED TO "ZOOM" ON MPT — Accident Elementary School children are shown above as they tape their segments to be shown on the PBS show Zoom, which will air on Maryland Public Television Friday, June 7. These students were also featured on the May 17 episode. Several students from each grade were selected for the taping of the show, which airs every weekday at 5:30 p.m. Sixth grade students from Southern Middle School were also seen on the May 24 show and will be seen on tomorrow's show, May 31. The show consists of various segments such as: Introduction, Whatzup, Zoom, good-bye, and the credits. The SMS students were pictured in last week's edition of The Republican.

YOU CAN TAKE THE "COMMUNITY" OUT OF GCC, but you can't take the college out of the community. Garrett Community College will be changing its name to Garrett College on July 1, a change that reflects the ever-expanding services and involvement of the educational institution that serves a community much larger than this county alone. Shown above are Dean of Academic Affairs Dr. Lillian Mitchell and college president Dr. Steve Herman with the new logo of Garrett College, which features the statement "Small college — big results."

Domestic Call Leads To Arrest Of Oakland Man

An Oakland man faces numerous charges after he allegedly pointed a shotgun at a juvenile during a domestic disturbance Thursday evening at a residence along West Liberty Street, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Timothy James Storey, 40, was charged with first-degree assault, second-degree assault, reckless endangerment, child abuse, and disorderly intoxication, police said.

The arrest occurred after deputies investigated the incident in which Storey allegedly argued with the youth and then pointed a shotgun at the juvenile.

Storey remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on $200,000 bond.

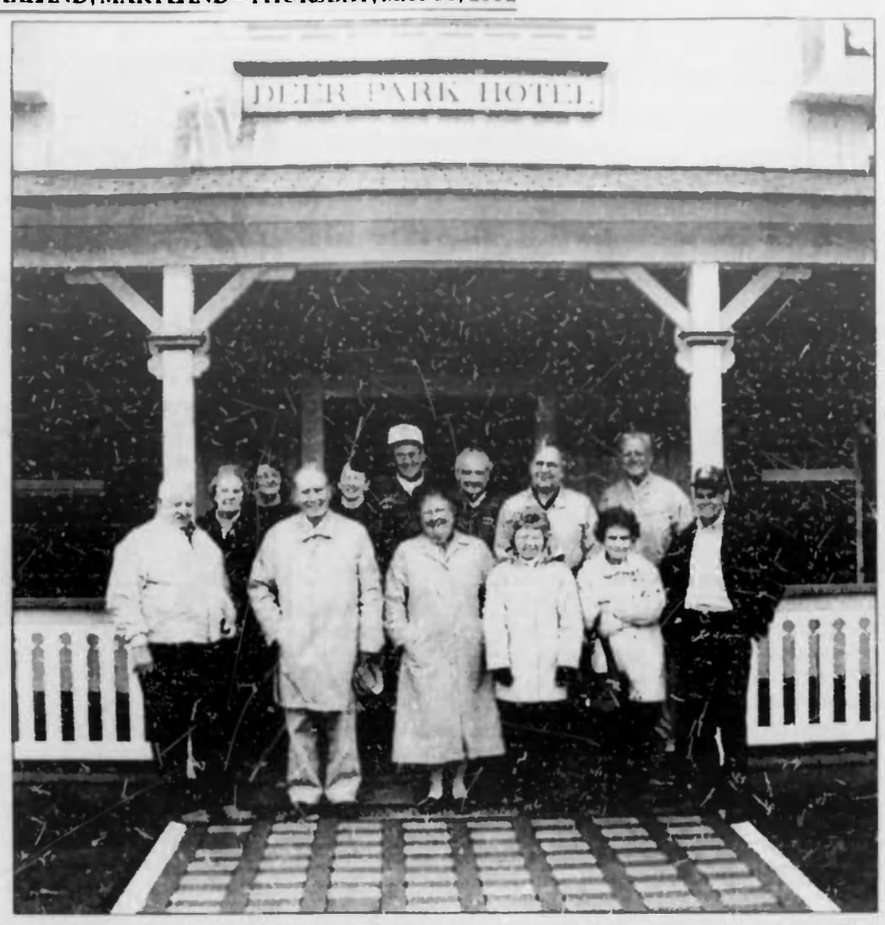
Accident Man Jailed On DUI, Drug Charges

An early Monday morning traffic stop in McHenry resulted in the arrest of an Accident man on driving under the influence (DUI) and drug possession charges by Maryland State Police assigned to the McHenry barrack.

Daniel Dean Sarver, 37, was stopped at approximately 12:48 a.m. on Garrett Highway south of Mosser Road for traffic and vehicle safety equipment violations. He was initially arrested for DUI, and a subsequent search conducted on the scene located a bag of suspected marijuana in his pocket.

Sarver was transported to the McHenry MSP barrack, where an intoximeter test was administered, and a drug recognition expert evaluated him for allegedly driving under the influence of marijuana. He was then transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for a blood test.

Sarver's list of charges are: possession of marijuana; driving while impaired by drugs or drugs and alcohol; consuming an alcoholic beverage while driving a motor vehicle; negligent driving; and failure to drive right of center. He was released from jail after posting a $1,000 bond as set by a District Court commissioner.



STILL SELLING BRICKS Is the Garrett County Historical Society for its various sidewalks in Dailey Park in downtown Oakland, although the response for bricks from Deer Park residents and natives has been excellent, according to Robert Boal, society president. One of the two remaining sidewalks to be completed was designated for "Deer Park bricks," to be placed in memory or honor of persons who reside(d) in the town. Pictured above are various Deer Park residents who have supported the project. From left, front, are: Carl W. Thrasher, Rev. John A. Grant, Barbara G. Madigan, Mary Lee Moore, Virginia Clary, and Dwight Clary. In the back are: Helena Thrasher, Dixie Moore, Janet Browning, Jerry Browning, Mason Madigan, Sam Moore, and William Clary. The other sidewalk segment has been designated for sponsorship by members of the society and their families and friends, for which many bricks remain unsold. See story for details.

Bricks Still For Sale By Garrett Historical Soc.

The replica of the Victorian porch of the Deer Park Hotel, located along the north wall of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum building in downtown Oakland, was completed last fall, but there remained the problem of connecting the porch's two entrances to the nearby sidewalks in Dailey Park. After studying the problem, it was determined that two additional sidewalks were needed, one from the hotel gazebo to the main entrance of the porch, and another from Second Street to the side entrance of the porch.

"Since the structures in the park are of the Deer Park Hotel era, it was suggested that the main entrance sidewalk could be installed via the exclusive sponsorship of Deer Park residents," stated Robert Boal, president of the society. "Sidewalk bricks could be donated, bearing the names of past and present Deer Park residents and families."

Boal said that Deer Park residents Bob and Dixie Moore were enthusiastic about the proposed project and undertook the job of contacting people who might wish to have names inscribed on available "Deer Park bricks." As of May 20, only a few of these bricks remain to be sold.

Although the sidewalk has already been installed, Boal explained that the contractor who did the work is able to remove blank bricks and replace them with ones which have been engraved.

The other sidewalk, which includes a ramp connecting the porch to the Second Street sidewalk, was set aside for sponsorship by members of the society and their families and friends. This sidewalk is also installed, Boal said, but there are many "blank" bricks that are available for sale and engraving.

Inscribed bricks may be purchased at the museum office. The price is $25 for one line of type, $30 for two lines, and $35 for three lines. Proceeds will help defray the various expenses of the Dailey Park projects.

Garrett Hwy. Crash Injures Two In Oakland

Two drivers were injured slightly Sunday night in Oakland when their vehicles collided along Garrett Highway near the Taco Bell restaurant. Both were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and one was charged in the mishap by officers with the Oakland Police Department.

At approximately 8:40 p.m., Amanda Melissa Jenkins, 17, Oakland, who had been stopped at the intersection of Fourth Street at Garrett Highway, pulled her 1994 Plymouth sedan into the path of a northbound 1993 Mercury Topaz operated by Jeyneen Mae Keller, 29, Tunnelton, W.Va.

The collision injured both drivers, who were transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad for treatment of minor injuries. Three passengers in Keller's vehicle escaped injury. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Jenkins was charged with failure to yield right of way.

DUI Arrest

Oakland police officers jailed Robert L. Lycliter, 38, Aurora, W.Va., Saturday afternoon on a charge of attempting to drive a vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Man Charged After Alleged Assault On MSP

An Oakland man faces charges including second degree assault on two police officers following his arrest early Saturday morning after a driving while under the influence (DUI) traffic stop in McHenry.

David Erik Riley, 27, had been initially stopped along Garrett Highway at Deep Creek Drive and charged with DUI at approximately 1:40 a.m. After being transported to the MSP's McHenry barrack, he allegedly assaulted two troopers while being processed. He was charged with two counts of second degree assault, and one count each of destruction of property, DUI, and miscellaneous traffic charges.

Riley was later released from police custody when he posted a $1,000 bond as set by a District Court commissioner.

DUI Arrest

State troopers filed DUI and various related traffic charges this week against Amanda Beth Adams, 22, Johnstown, Pa. She was subsequently released on

GCCAC Housing Program Adds First United

The Garrett County Community Action Committee and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Housing Services program have added First United Bank and Trust as a partner in the nationally recognized Rural Home Loan Program. This first-time homeownership program is targeted to the low- and moderate-income families of rural areas.

The partnership is based upon the National Homeownership Initiative. The Local Initiatives Support Corporation announced in 1995 that it would spearhead this program nationally and selected Garrett County as one of the nine original national partnership locations. The local partnership has produced 53 loans and over $3.3 million in mortgages to first time home buyers in the county. Community Action's total homeownership initiative has resulted in 164 home buyers, totaling $10,461,313 in mortgage funds to Garrett County's low-income working families.

The new partnership between GCCAC, USDA RHS, and First United has already produced three applications for the Leveraged Program, according to GCCAC homeownership coordinator Deb Swiger. "Activity like this will enable the partnership to obtain their goals and sustain the funding commitment from USDA," Swiger stated.

Rural Housing Services has been working with First United, offering the USDA guarantee loan program and welcomes the opportunity to add another low-interest rate mortgage program for the home buyers of Garrett County with the bank, according to local RHS community development manager Tim Taylor.

By leveraging available public and private funds, the partnership can provide low-interest rate mortgages to more low income working families in Garrett County, GCCAC president Duane Yoder pointed out. "By joining this partnership, First United is reinforcing its commitment to the lower wage earners of Garrett County," said Yoder.

For further information on the Leverage Program, persons may contact Jerry Merrick of First United at 301-533-2281, Tim Taylor of the local USDA RHS office at 301-334-6972, or Deb Swiger of Community Action at 301-334-9431, ext. 150.

FIRST UNITED JOINS LOCAL HOME BUYERS PROGRAM — The Rural Home Loan Program of the Garrett County Community Action Committee and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Home Services program has added First United Bank and Trust as a partner in the loan program. Shown above, from the left in the first row, are GCCAC Housing director Loring Young, GCCAC Homeownership Program coordinator Deb Swiger, and local USDA RHS community development manager Tim Taylor. In the back row, representing First United Bank, are senior vice president and senior lending officer Steve Lantz, vice president and director of Residential Mortgage Services Ken Witte, and mortgage consultant Jerry Merrick.

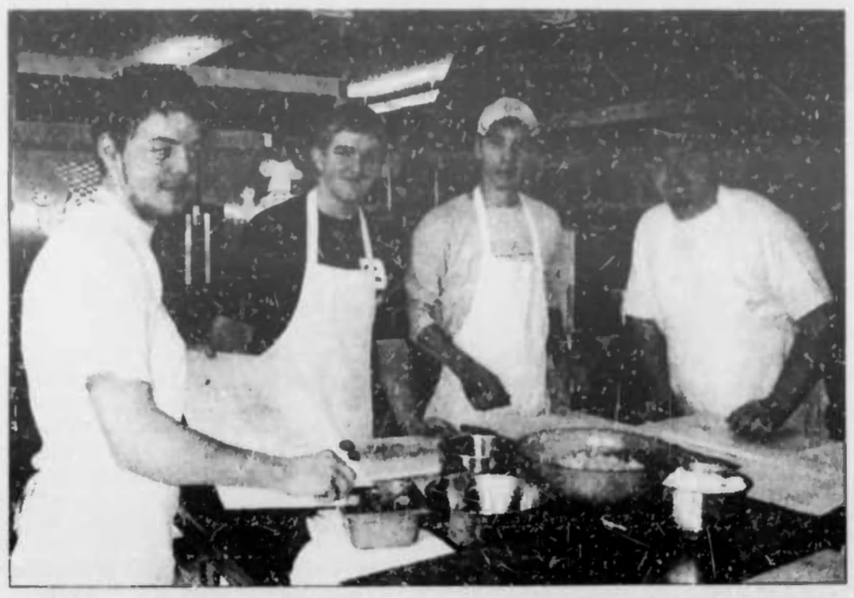
RV Driver Faces Charges After Interstate Crash

Three people were injured Friday evening when a Coachman motor home struck the back of a tractor-trailer rig along Interstate 68. McHenry barrack Maryland State Police troopers investigating the mishap filed charges against the motor home's driver.

At approximately 9:24 p.m., Charles Franklin McMillen, 77, Baltimore, was driving his 1979 Coachman west on I-68 when he attempted to change lanes near the Friendsville exit for Route 42. The heavy traffic volume precluded his lane-change attempt, however, and the motor home struck the back of a 2000 International rig being operated by Darrell Steven Thomas Sr., 44, St. Louis, Mo.

McMillen and a passenger in his vehicle, Rachel D. McMillen, 17, of Edgewater, and Thomas each sustained injuries. The two McMillens were transported to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where they were treated and subsequently released, while Thomas was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene with state troopers, who charged the elder McMillen with driving at a speed greater than reasonable.



WHEN LIFE HANDS YOU LEMONS . . . In the wake of last week's fire that destroyed the auto shop at Southern High School, Tom Powers's students were moved to the foods lab for some new learning experiences. Powers kept the teenagers busy with the help of Mary Ann Shipe, the foods teacher. Would-be mechanics mastered the culinary art of slicing strawberries and making fruit pizza. They reportedly didn't mind the change at all. In the photo above, from left, are students Jason Thomas, Keith Louie, Rex Hoalcraft, and Josh Lipscomb. ## Three Arrested After Saturday Traffic Stop

A traffic stop stemming from minor traffic violations resulted in the arrest of an adult and her two juvenile passengers on various charges early Saturday morning near Deep Creek Lake, according to Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

At approximately 12:33 a.m., a 1994 Ford truck was stopped on Garrett Highway at Glendale Road. The investigating trooper detected the odor of alcohol and suspected burnt marijuana as he was speaking with the operator, Lisa Dawn DeWitt, 25, Friendsville. A search of the truck uncovered a bag of suspected marijuana and a quantity of rolling papers.

DeWitt was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and the juveniles were charged with underage possession of alcohol. The trio were transported to the McHenry barrack where the juveniles, both Oakland residents, were processed and released to their parents. DeWitt was then taken before a District Court commissioner, who set a $500 bond that DeWitt posted to secure her release.

Motorcyclist Charged After Monday Mishap

Maryland State Police assigned to the McHenry barrack report that a Monday afternoon collision south of Deep Creek Lake slightly injured a Lonaconing motorcyclist, who was charged in the accident.

Timmy Jan Cooper, 45, was driving his 1998 Suzuki motorcycle north on Garrett Highway at approximately 3:22 p.m. when he came upon another northbound vehicle north of Water Wheel Road that was attempting to make a left-hand turn. Cooper attempted to pass the 1991 Jeep Cherokee, operated by Maria Kay Van Hagel, 41, Oakland, but his motorcycle struck the Jeep in its driver's side.

Cooper was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene. Cooper was charged with failure to drive to the right of the center line.

Three-Vehicle Crash On Garrett Hwy. Injures One

A local woman was injured slightly Tuesday afternoon during a three-vehicle pile-up along Garrett Highway near Johnny's Baithouse. One of the other drivers, a Mtn. Lake Park man, was charged by Maryland State Police troopers who investigated the mishap.

Eric Robison, 42, was driving his 1988 Chevrolet truck on the highway south of Fox Den Road when he came upon two stopped vehicles in his traffic lane. The lead vehicle, a 1989 Ford Mustang, was waiting to make a letthand turn, while the second stopped vehicle, a 2001 Ford Focus, waited for the lane to clear.

Police reported that Robison failed to reduce his speed to avoid a collision, and his truck struck the back of the Focus, operated by Joyce R. Andrews, 67, MLP, which in turn was forced into the rear of the Mustang operated by Marcia Collins, 28, Friendsville.

Andrews sustained minor injuries and was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

Robison was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

MLP, Rockville Men Plead Guilty To DWI

Two men pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated in unrelated cases heard recently in Garrett County Circuit Court. A Mtn. Lake Park man pleaded guilty last week to driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving while revoked. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Mark Edward Whitacre, 33, to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail for the DWI charge and to 12 months, to run concurrently, for driving while revoked. A fine of $500 was also imposed.

Whitacre was charged by a Garrett County Sheriff's Office deputy last May after the officer observed him driving "substantially" below the speed limit on Maryland Highway and continued to drive erratically on several side streets in Mtn. Lake Park, according to Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney. A second driving revoked charge and a charge of failing to drive right of center were dismissed upon Whitacre's plea.

In another unrelated case, Phillip Andrew Och, 32, Rockville, also pleaded guilty in Circuit Court last week to DWI. Sherbin sentenced him to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail, which was then suspended. Och was placed on six months of supervised probation and has to pay a fine of $1,000.

Deputies Make Weekend Drunk Driving Arrests

Garrett County sheriff's deputies made numerous arrests this Memorial Day weekend for drunk driving charges, among others.

Kenneth Richard Reidenhour, 35, Kempton, Pa., was arrested after he failed field sobriety tests early Saturday morning during a traffic stop at the KHJ Radio Station, Loch Lynn.

Reidenhour was arrested and charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired by alcohol (DWI), driving on a suspended out-of-state license, failure to drive right of center, negligent driving, following a vehicle too closely, and failure to display license on demand.

He was released from the Garrett County Jail on $5,000 bond.

In another incident, an Oakland man was arrested after deputies observed his 1996 Jeep exit Uno's parking lot onto Garrett Highway, nearly causing a collision Saturday, police said.

The driver, Richard Bevan Orr II, 23, failed field sobriety tests and was charged with DUI, DWI, failure to yield the right-of-way, and violation of a court ordered alcohol restriction.

Orr is currently being held in the jail on $5,000 bond.

Another Oakland man was also arrested on drunk driving charges early Sunday morning.

Randy Michael Mayles, 42, was charged with DUI, DWI, driving on a revoked driver's license, and failure to stop at a stop sign.

Mayles was later released from the jail after posting $3,000 bond.

In another incident, Karen Nazelrod, Oakland, was arrested when she failed sobriety tests after she was stopped for an equipment violation along Gorman Road near Baker Farm Road.

Nazelrod was charged with DUI and DWI.

An Ending, A Beginning...

Today is the official end to recovery work at the site in New York City now known as Ground Zero, as the final steel I-beam that has stood almost as a centurion for the rescuers is being ceremoniously removed. Plans are still not finalized for what will ultimately be constructed on the site, but no matter what, this will remain the graveyard for hundreds of people whose remains were never found.

In a sense, today's ceremony represents an ending and a beginning. The recovery effort itself comes to an end for the many workers who have toiled there for the past 37 weeks, 24 hours a day, and it will be a difficult day for many of them. The word "closure," so over used these days, is not really appropriate, because the wounds of the survivors of the victims will never totally heal. But it is hoped that today will also be a new beginning, a moving on, a return to some form of normalcy, for the recovery workers and survivors, as well as the general population of this nation.

Ceremonial events of this Sunday, June 2, will also mark an ending and a beginning for over 300 of Garrett County's young people, who will be awarded diplomas in commencements at Northern and Southern high schools. Ended will be 13 years of work in the public school system. Beginning will be the next, and quite different, chapter in their lives, whether they move on to a higher institution of learning, into the military, or into the workforce.

There is something unique about every high school graduating class, and one of the things that distinguishes the class of 2002 is that it is the first graduating class following the events of September 11, 2001. No doubt commencement speakers all over the country are using the attack on America as the focal point of their speeches.

The lessons to be learned from such a tragedy could literally fill books, or make a commencement speech last way, way too long. But of all of those lessons, there are two, in the opinion of this writer, that stand above all the others, and which we wish to pass along to Sunday's graduates.

The first of them, so painfully demonstrated by the events of 9/11, is that life is so fleeting and vulnerable. It can be snuffed out in an instant in so many ways, with absolutely no warning. It often happens in an automobile, but it can also happen while sitting at one's desk at work. Thus, life should never be taken for granted, should be appreciated each and every day, and should be lived to the fullest.

The second, and the most important of the two, which was also made so vividly clear on September 11, 2001, is that the single most important thing in life is our relationships with other people. Nothing else — not our jobs, our material possessions, our opinions, our talents, our physical attributes — can hold a candle, in terms of importance, to our relationships with others. So with that in mind, the logical thing to do above all else is to value other people and to capitalize upon every advantage to foster and nurture our associations with them. It is truly the one and only key to lasting contentment.

So, to our newest grads, we say congratulations, good luck, and work hard at whatever endeavors you wish to pursue, but also take to heart the aforementioned realities as you travel this incredible journey we call life.

"I DO"

by Mary Sincell McEwen

I was given roses this week. Yay. I love roses. They are perfect little miracles. Layers and layers of petals that gradually curl outward, changing the flower's appearance every day. The scent is gentle, and it evokes memories of so many places and times. They have been given as gifts for ages, literally. Our ancestors gave them to each other. Those people so long ago surely breathed in their fragrance and felt nearly the same as we do about their beauty.

The roses came from my husband on May 28 because that is the date of our wedding 13 years ago. Thirteen. Is there something unlucky about the 13th? So far, it doesn't seem so. I'm glad we've made it this far. And it isn't easy. I've come to the conclusion that someone ought to tell newlyweds about that. And I mean really tell them. Picture the receiving line at a wedding — everyone's hugging the bride and groom, gushing about the ceremony and the gowns and the tuxes with tails. What someone really ought to say is, "Yes, it was lovely, you're lovely today — it's all wonderful. BUT. It's not always like this — in fact, it's not usually like this. There will be days when you will wonder why you did this. There will be days when you're not sure it's going to last. There will be days when you are not sure he or she wants it to last. And you will fight. You'll yell and cry and slam doors. And your heart will hurt. There, now, happy wedding day to you both."

Wouldn't that go over well? But really, someone ought to say it, because in this country we are duped into believing that it should be a fairy tale from beginning to end. We go to movies and read books about the perfect romances that never lose their spark. So when we get up in the mornings and pass our spouse in the hallway and grunt some form of salutation, we begin to wonder where Richard Gere and Julia Roberts got off to. Then we start questioning the durability of our relationship. Maybe we made a mistake. Maybe there's something better out there. Those thoughts in turn make us worry, too, because it's never all that apparent that Rob and Laura Petrie had those concerns. There must be something wrong.

Unfortunately, many many couples decide that these instincts are right and that there surely must be something better out there. So they part ways, leaving any children they might have in the wake of it all. Of course divorce can certainly be the right answer in many cases, but I'm afraid too many people jump to that conclusion too quickly, and then it's too late. I certainly do not presume to know all the answers, or even a small portion of them, and I don't want to assume that I will stay married forever, either — one just doesn't know these things. But I will work at it. And I know John will. Through all the trials and tribulations, we've always managed to come back to each other and once again enjoy each other's existence.

That's really all it is, anyhow. You've chosen the married life, and that's because this other person is there for you. You're friends, lovers, and confidantes. You better make sure you are all these things to each other before you hike down that aisle in the first place. Don't have a wedding because you need a new toaster and some rad kitchen towel sets, or because you really want to tick off a former squeeze. Don't plan the whole deal without thinking about the morning after. The month after. The decade after. Think it through, get counseling, and make sure your lover knows you can't stand to have the lid left off the toothpaste. Respect the institution of marriage long before you sign that dotted line. The wedding dress will get lost in your closet and the roses will drop their petals. What you will have left after all is said and done is . . . each other. And if you've done it anywhere near right, that alone will be a good thing.

It is a roller coaster, for sure, as is life. For whatever reason, my mind always goes to the ocean. Sometimes I see John and me clinging to a raft as it's yanked underwater in a violent riptide. Other times I see us drifting lazily along, soaking in the sun, content beyond words. Either way, we're always on that raft together. And I hope it stays that way. Happy anniversary, John, my soul mate, and to all you rafters out there, together one year or 50+, riding the surf for better or worse.

NEIGHBORS AND ATTICS

A neighbor and I were riding in his pickup on the way to the car service and repair business we both use. He was dropping off his truck, and I was picking up my car.

Nobody had to sit and wait. No one had to make an extra round-trip to pick up someone. There is a certain efficiency in neighborliness.

We were chewing the fat in general, working through the variety of current issues, from the war against terrorism to his son's nursery school and my son's volleyball games. We also covered the various and sundry projects which demand attention. We both have old houses that we are renewing for continuing family use and pleasure.

He and his wife have made the decision to have central air conditioning installed, which necessitated cleaning out the attic. The exciting news of his week was the discovery of papers belonging to his grandfather, who was the first of this family to live in the house, dating back to the early 1920s.

My neighbor had a new window onto his own heritage. He learned where relatives lived, some of them unknown to him until then, and how family connections were maintained. It is an extraordinary thing to open a dust-covered box, to pull out a letter that has been forgotten by the world (in truth, the world never cared much about it), and to know something of what a family member had been thinking 80 years earlier.

His story became all the more interesting when he used the Internet to investigate a piece of information that emerged from going through a box of old stuff. Here was something the larger world did care about, and enough to have pages of information. Through the attic my neighbor had not only crawled into his grandfather's life of 80 years ago but also into the larger world of manufacturing and extraordinary optimism, undaunted by the recent world war.

With such a story, simple and yet almost otherworldly, my neighbor regaled me as we made our way to drop off his truck, and pick up my car.

As an historian I appreciate his tale from another point of view. Such a discovery as he made would constitute a treasure trove to a researcher in 500 years doing work on life in 20th century America. Most civilizations leave behind, at least, some records of important institutions, but the opportunity to glimpse the life of ordinary people in any age is rarer.

An irony of the computer and Internet age in which we are now living is that so much is a virtual reality and not expressed in any durable form. We know as much as we do about ancient Egypt, in part, because they inscribed so much in stone. The manuscripts and even fragments from other ages can keep busy universities full of graduate students sorting out the evidence left us by the people in the past.

Today I have received or sent communications through the Internet which, unless someone prints them out, will disappear at the mere click of the "delete" button. Much of life in the 21st century will not be available to store in attics for generations, even by the people who still have attics or the even fewer number of people who go on living in family houses.

I have a guess about this age of ours, about how it will look in the larger historical landscape centuries from now. It is a guess I have maintained for going on 25 years. For all the activity and prosperity of this present time, I think we are on the verge of a dark age, darker than that period of 1,500 years ago which many call "the Dark Ages."

There are many signs of an impending dark age, but none clearer than our culture's intentional forgetfulness of things past. There is plenty of nostalgia in our time, but far too little memory. That is the difference between projecting an idea onto the past and remembering the past as it was.

Fifteen hundred years ago one response to the collapse of civilization was the formation of monasteries, Christian communities which had as a major work the copying of books. They were, in a way, neighbors who got together to create an attic. They sometimes did not understand much of the books that they copied, but they knew that it was important for those books to continue to exist.

Some things must be thrown away. Every e-mail is not worth saving. At the same, the clutter of my attic looks good to me. It is filled with the makings of Ph.D. dissertations galore a thousand years from now. Perhaps beneath the dust there is some vital link from the past now being forgotten to a future not yet known.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I wish to express my deepest thanks to the many firefighters who helped control the fire that nearly destroyed my home in Grantsville. No one ever fully realizes the significance of the volunteer fire departments until a disaster touches your life. Forty firemen risked their lives trying to control the fire that swept through my home. The many volunteers managed to save some of my furniture and possessions, which would have otherwise been destroyed by water. All residents should extend their generosity to their local fire departments.

I am also deeply grateful that the Lord spared my son, who tried unsuccessfully to contain the spread of the fire. Finally, I thank the many friends who have supported and assisted me in a difficult aftermath.

In sincere gratitude,
Marian Rodeheaver

To the Editor:

Take note, residents of Garrett County. Like it or not, the new adventure complex being built will bring much money to the county. In fact, if it works as I'm sure it is planned, this county will be second to Ocean City as a draw for tourists. This should help the tax base, local business, employment, and pay back any tax dollars used to help this project along.

I believe in it so much that I built a home near the lake to enjoy the things that this county has to offer now and in the future. I do not consider myself a "casual tourist" either. Besides myself, my family and other siblings enjoy this county, so we vacation or "weekend" here as often as we can. I have more than a passing interest in what happens here. (Evidenced by the taxes I pay here.)

I think this will be good for the county and all its residents, no matter what they may think of the concept now. I can only hope the local government can be as progressive in its thinking and help this county move forward to the future. There have been and will continue to be some stumbling blocks, but overall I think it will go on to be one of the nicest places to visit on the East Coast when it is finished.

I wish those responsible the best of luck with this project.

To the Editor:

Last week was an important one for anyone who works in injury prevention, Emergency Medical Services (EMS), or law enforcement. Overlapping within the same week were Buckle Up America Week, Operation ABC Mobilization, and National Emergency Medical Services Week. Although they each have their own emphasis, their combined goal is the same — to reduce injury and save lives.

Each May, Buckle Up America Week marks a high point in the push for greater seat belt and child safety seat use. This year, in conjunction with Operation ABC Mobilization, police focused on one of the most at-risk populations: teenagers. Due in part to low seat belt use, fatality rates for teen drivers are four times higher than for older drivers. In addition, Maryland has also started a Click It or Ticket seat belt campaign.

This year's theme of EMS Week is "EMS: Help is a Heartbeat Away." It emphasizes the responsiveness of EMS around the country, while underscoring the importance of the national 9-1-1 emergency number system. It also addresses the commitment and dedication of the 750,000 EMS providers who serve their communities.

In my duel role as injury prevention coordinator and highway safety coordinator at the Garrett County Health Department, I want to commend our law enforcement and EMS communities on their efforts to reduce injury and death in Garrett County.

All three local police agencies — Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and Oakland Police Department — have committed themselves to saving lives through the strict enforcement of safety belt and child safety seat laws as a part of the Chief's Challenge program of the Maryland Committee for Safety Belt Use and the Maryland Highway Safety Office. The McHenry Barrack of Maryland State Police currently has eight troopers who are child passenger safety (CPS) technicians, having successfully completed a tough 32-hour class. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office has two CPS technician officers on staff. The Sheriff's Office and Oakland Police Department each anticipate adding two more CPS technician officers to their forces as their new recruits graduate from the academy in June.

In addition to the efforts of the police agencies, the EMS community is always ready to respond to motor vehicle crashes, as well as any emergency. Their commitment to continuing education and updated training prepares them to give the best possible care to the sick and injured, increasing the patients' chance of a favorable outcome.

What better time to thank both police and EMS for a job well done.

Sincerely,
Diane Lee

To the Editor:

Business news these days often highlights America's slow recovery from recession. Unfortunately, much of the coverage overlooks a problem that hinders the pace of economic improvement and threatens thousands of jobs. Simply put, the U.S. dollar is overvalued versus currencies of other nations, unfairly taking business away from many industries, including MeadWestvaco. We are losing sales not just in other countries, but here at home as well.

MeadWestvaco, formed by the recent merger of Mead and Westvaco, has operations in 33 countries and customers in about 100 nations. We are a leading global supplier of packaging, coated and specialty papers, consumer and office products, and specialty chemicals. Many of our operations, however, are right here in the United States, including the Luke mill with its 1,400 employees.

Almost every part of our business is disadvantaged by the high value of the U.S. dollar. Since 1995 the dollar has increased in value relative to other currencies by 30 percent. That is as devastating as a 30 percent tax on just about every product we make, no matter where we sell it. When it takes more euros or Japanese yen to purchase a dollar, it makes U.S. products more expensive in foreign countries, and foreign products become much cheaper in the United States.

The National Association of Manufacturers estimates that the overvalued U.S. dollar has caused the loss of at least 500,000 U.S. manufacturing jobs since 1998. In the paper industry, we have seen 60 mills close, resulting in the loss of more than 30,000 jobs, including some job losses at the Luke mill. Since 1999, the Luke mill has shut down two paper machines, resulting in the loss of 125 jobs. The increased foreign competition, primarily resulting from the overvalued U.S. dollar,

IT LOOKED LIKE A MINI DISASTER, but fortunately it was all just a staged drill in the parking lot beside the Oakland fire hall last week, as members of the Oakland VFD and Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad participated in an auto extrication training exercise. The mock, multi-vehicle crash included four cars and a number of "patients" whose removal from some of the vehicles required air bag technology, hydraulic extrication tools, and a lot of ingenuity on the part of rescuers. Instructors were Sam Wilson and Dr. Richard Prather. "This training has proved to be invaluable," stated Mark Phillips, a member of both the OVFD and SGCRS, who provided these photos. "It was a controlled environment, which allowed rescuers to get acquainted with new rescue techniques, and to just re-familiarize themselves with other equipment. This drill, along with the mock crash in front of Southern High School, not only helped rescuers with training, but also reminded the public of just what can happen." Donating the vehicles for the exercise were Martin's Auto Salvage and Ours Auto Salvage, both of Oakland.

Cycle Across Md. To Begin In Garrett Co.

A small team of bicyclists will ride across Maryland to promote cycling as a legitimate mode of transportation and a valuable recreational activity. The group will begin its journey on Saturday, June 1, in Garrett State Forest at the West Virginia border.

The riders will then travel relay style on to Frostburg, the suburbs of Washington, D.C., Annapolis, and Baltimore, eventually making their way to Ocean City on June 3.

"The availability of safe roads for biking is critical to many Americans," said Bob Chauncey, ride director, "Bureau of Transportation statistics [indicate] that 40 percent of Americans believe the availability of bikeways, walking paths, and sidewalks for getting to work, shopping, and recreation is very important in choosing where to live. Many of us claim we would ride our bikes more regularly if we had a more bike-friendly system of roads."

To demonstrate the ability to get around the state by bike, the team will ride the 500-mile journey in 36 hours, all on public roads. At least one rider will be cycling at all times. The others will be speaking at various venues along the way on topics relating to bicycling and working with state and local officials to improve conditions for cyclists and pedestrians, according to Chauncey.

The riders range in age from 15 to 70 something. No Garrett County residents will be participating in the event.

Burglary Probe Culminates In Four Arrests

The Maryland State Police concluded a two-month burglary investigation this week by arresting four Oakland area suspects, two 18-year-old adults and two 17-year-old juveniles. Each faces charges of first degree burglary and felony theft stemming from two Easter weekend burglaries of a Marsh Hill Road residence in McHenry.

One of the adults charged in the crime, Bryan Chad Hinebaugh, was arrested at his residence shortly after the incident. Police report that property taken from the burglarized home was found at Hinebaugh's residence at the time of his arrest.

As leads continued to be developed over subsequent weeks, three additional suspects, including the second adult, Kody Shellman Morfoot, were implicated in a second but related burglary of the same residence that had also occurred over Easter weekend. Morfoot was jailed earlier this month, as were the two 17-year-olds. Numerous items of property belonging to the victims have been recovered at two pawn shops, one located near Deep Creek Lake and the other in Ridgeley, W.Va.

Hinebaugh and Morfoot were released when each posted a $5,000 bond as set by a District Court commissioner. The juveniles have been referred to the Department of Juvenile Justice, and petitions have been requested.

Tfc. J.B. Schlossnagle served as the lead investigator in the case.

Man Accused Of Child Abuse, Incest, Rape

A Frostburg (Garrett Co.) man turned himself in to police last week to face sexual offense charges, according to a report from the C3I (a criminal investigation unit of Allegany County) and the Maryland State Police in Cumberland.

Jackie Lee Burner III, 25, is charged with second degree rape, second degree sex offense, third degree sex offense, perverted practice, incest, child abuse, and contributing to the condition of a child.

According to the C31 report, an investigation was initiated in March into allegations of rape and child abuse. Information obtained during the investigation reportedly warranted criminal charges to be issued against Burner.

The suspect turned himself in on May 23 without incident. He was charged and later released on his own recognizance, according to the report.

"Swap" Arranged

executives," said Ken Wishnick, president of the local chamber.

Several Garrett County businesses agreed to participate in a vacation package to be auctioned in Calvert County as a fund-raiser.

"We were able to put together a very attractive package. Railey Mountain Lake Vacations donated a two-night stay in a lakefront townhome, Deep Creek Brewery provided a certificate for dinner, drinks, or apparel worth $50, Deep Creek Outfitters donated a cruise for two aboard the Evening Star, and High Mountain Sports contributed a flat water kayak rental for two," Wishnick said.

The promotional package swap may be repeated in the future with Calvert County or other jurisdictions offering vacation amenities, Wishnick noted. "It is a program where everyone benefits," he said.

To obtain tickets to the annual chamber dinner with guest speak Rob Clements, president of ClosetMaid, persons may call 301-387-4386.

played a significant role in the shutdown of those two machines.

What should we do? Our company has already done a great deal. The merger of Mead and Westvaco has given us opportunities to make our manufacturing facilities more efficient, and we are continually working to create new and improved products. However, we are still at a tremendous disadvantage competing with the lower wage rates overseas, in combination with the additional burden of the currency imbalance.

Far from embracing trade protection, we relish competition and open markets. However, competition can only be fair when currencies are fairly valued.

Please join me in urging the Bush Administration to acknowledge the overvalued dollar and to work closely with the G-8 nations to solve the problem. Economic coordination on currency and trade imbalances works--as the U.S. and the other leading major industrialized nations demonstrated in 1985 when they agreed to the Plaza Accord, which resulted in a concerted action to lower the value of the dollar and to reduce the burgeoning U.S. trade deficit. Returning the dollar to a proper value versus other currencies will speed U.S. economic recovery and assure that all industries have ample opportunities to grow at home and around the world.

Please help save U.S. manufacturing jobs by writing or calling your federal, elected officials today. Members of Congress realize the importance of preserving jobs in the U.S. We need to remind them the overvaluation of the U.S. dollar will force manufacturing out of this country if it is not brought back in balance.

Sincerely,
Roger A. Dandridge

In Loving Memory of our precious little man, Jaron Michael Fulmer, who would have turned 6 years old on May 29, (if Jesus wouldn't have needed him).

A Letter From Heaven

To my dearest family, some things I'd like to say.
But first of all, to let you know, that I arrived okay.
I'm writing this from heaven. Here I dwell with God above.
Here, there's no more tears of sadness. Here is just eternal love.
Please do not be unhappy just because I'm out of sight.
Remember that I'm with you every morning, noon and night.
That day I had to leave you when my life on earth was through,
God picked me up and hugged me and He said, "I welcome you."
It's good to have you back again; you were missed while you were gone.
As for your dearest family, they'll be here later on.
I need you here so badly, you're part of my plan.
There's so much that we have to do, to help our mortal man.
God gave me a list of things that he wished for me to do.
And foremost on the list was to watch and care for you.
And when you lie in bed at night, the day's chores put to flight,
God and I are closest to you...in the middle of the night.
When you think of my life on earth, and those few precious years,
Because you are only human, they are bound to bring you tears.
But do not be afraid to cry; it does relieve the pain.
Remember there would be no flowers unless there was some rain.
I wish that I could tell you all that God has planned.
If I were to tell you, you wouldn't understand
But one thing is for certain, though my life on earth is o'er
I'm closer to you now than I ever was before
There are many rocky roads ahead of you and many hills to climb,
But together we can do it by taking one day at a time
It was always my philosophy and I'd like it for you too,
That is, you give unto the world, the world will give to you
If you can help somebody who's in sorrow and pain,
Then you can say to God at night, "My day was not in vain."
And now I am contented, that my short life was worthwhile,
Knowing as I passed along the way I made somebody smile
So if you met somebody who is sad and feeling low,
Just lend a hand to pick him up, as on your way you go
When you're walking down the street and you've got me on your mind,
I'm walking in your footsteps only half a step behind.
And when it's time for you to go from that body to be free,
Remember, you're not going.. you're coming here to me
And I will always love you from that land way up above
We'll be in touch again soon
PS. God sends His love! We love you, Jaron!

There isn't a day that goes by that we don't think of you!
Very much loved & very sadly missed,
Me-maw Sue, Pap-Paw Mike and family

BRINGING SIGNING TO CRELLIN — Nikki Gouker, Miss Western Maryland 2002, recently visited the students at Crellin Elementary School, and taught them letters, numbers, colors, objects, and their names in sign language. Gouker is the founder of H.A.N.D.S. (Helpers Are Needed for Deaf Signing) in 1999. The workshop is geared to teach the basics of American Sign Language and includes the alphabet, numbers 1 through 10, colors, basic phrases, and deaf culture. Gouker is an interpreting student and aspires to become a nationally certified sign language interpreter. "It is my hope that all people will equip themselves with the basics of American Sign Language," she said. "If all hearing people learn the basics, which my workshop teaches, we will no longer be faced with the awkwardness and frustration of not being able to communicate across language differences. Bridging the communication gap between the hearing and the deaf begins with you." The H.A.N.D.S. workshop has been presented to nearly 1,000 people across Maryland and in numerous libraries and schools. She is a graduate of Shepherd College with a bachelor's degree in secondary English education, and will compete in the Miss Maryland competition in June. To learn more about the H.A.N.D.S. program, people may log on to www.hands-usa.com. Gouker is shown above teaching the third, fourth, and fifth graders some signing.

INSOMNIA

Rated R - Running Time: 1:58 - Released 5/24/02

From director Christopher Nolan, who gave us 2000's most intelligent thriller Memento, comes Insomnia, a remake of a critically-acclaimed 1997 Norwegian film of the same name by Erik Skjoldbjærg and Nikolaj Frobenius. In fact, it was so widely lauded, one wonders...why bother making another version? As with any other question in the movie industry that begins with the word "why," the answer is the same: Money. With a script updated to appeal to the American audience by newcomer Hillary Seitz, Nolan's insightful direction, and onscreen talent like Al Pacino, Hilary Swank, and Robin Williams, this new version attempts to mine the material for the highest possible dollar return. And while it may be little more than an Americanized knock-off of Skjoldbjærg's film, it will no doubt pull in more bucks.

Don't get me wrong. This is a taut, well-crafted film, and it perpetuates Nolan's reputation for interesting directing choices and also showcases some nice camera work by cinematographer Wally Pfister. Basically recounting the exact story from the Norwegian film, Insomnia centers around a once-great cop who has come under investigation for some questionable behavior, and is sent to a remote northern outpost where the sun never sets. In this version, that cop is L.A. investigator Will Dormer (Pacino), whose legendary status precedes him in Nightmute, Alaska, where he and his partner Hap Eckhart (Martin Donovan) are assigned to help with a local murder case. In fact, the local cop on the case, Ellie Burr (Swank), practically gushes over Will when she meets him. "I've read all your books," she says. But there is an undercurrent of tension between the two partners, since Hap's intention to cooperate with the L.A. investigation may bring Will's whole career under scrutiny.

The Nightmute case involves a teenage girl who was brutally beaten and left dead at the city landfill, but the killer had not just dumped her bloody corpse in haste. Taking time and care, he had lovingly cleaned her up, washed her hair, and trimmed her nails, removing any trace of forensic evidence. "This guy crossed the line," Dormer says. But things begin to go awry when the team tries to catch the killer on a foggy day. Thinking he has the suspect in his sights, Will fires, accidentally killing his partner. Their estrangement over the pending investigation might lead some to believe he did it on purpose, but no one saw...except the murder suspect (Williams). Then, during a sleepless, sunlit night, Will gets a phone call from the man, who wants to strike a deal. If Will agrees to point the investigation away from him, he will stay quiet about what he saw. As the investigation goes on, Will's lack of sleep begins to affect his perception and judgment, while the ever-present sun seems to cast a constant light on his guilt and Ellie comes closer and closer to discovering the truth.

From what I hear about it, I'm sorry to have missed the 1997 version of this film, but this one is certainly adequate. Pacino gives one of the best performances I've seen him in; his sense of sleeplessness is infectuous, weighing down the entire proceeding with a kind of relentless fatigue. This isn't an easy characterization; he must be the hero and yet be capable of evil, always on the fence of morality, never showing in which direction he'll fall. Meanwhile, Swank is superb in a much less fulfilling role, solidly proving that her Oscar for Boys Don't Cry was no accident, and Williams is surprisingly low-key and believable as the killer. This film may not keep you up at night, but it certainly shines a light on the talent of its participants. ★★★★½

SPIRIT: STALLION OF THE CIMARRON

Rated G - Running Time: 1:22 - Released 5/24/02

After working as storyboard artist on films like Toy Story, James And The Giant Peach, and The Prince of Egypt, animator Kelly Asbury takes a seat in the director's chair, along with colleague Lorna Cook, to produce a bland but pleasing animated horse story for Dreamworks called Spirit: Stallion Of The Cimarron. Written by John Fusco, the film is pleasing to the eyes, and the ears (it's got some nice music by Hans Zimmer and a few mildly catchy songs by Bryan Adams), but lacks the fast pace and complex story line of most recent children's films. This is not necessarily a bad thing; it's kind of nice not to have to explain the traditions of the Jedi Order or the history of Middle-Earth to your 5-year-old, and at under 1½ hours, its running time is also very kid-friendly.

Spirit recounts the story of a wild mustang in the "Old West" (I gathered it was set some time in the 19th century) who is separated from his herd and taken prisoner, first by the United States Cavalry and then by a friendly tribe of Native Americans, and forced to fight for his freedom, finding out the meaning of love and loyalty along the way. Although the horse himself doesn't talk, his first-person perspective is provided by the voice of narrator Matt Damon (who doesn't do any particular character work), and the only other significant speaking parts are an Army colonel (James Cromwell) and a Lakota boy named Little Creek (Daniel Studi). The sparse nature of the dialogue seems to emphasize the grandeur of the setting, as the most beautiful aspects of the American West are captured in vibrant colors on the screen during the many wordless action scenes and those between the lead horse and his girlfriend, a blue-eyed, blonde-maned mare. The story is ultra-simple and includes some rather incredible leaps, both literal and figurative, but the digitally enhanced visuals are more than enough to compensate for the lack of complexity in the narrative.

This film is probably better for younger children; those who are used to more sophisticated fare might get bored, but little kids seem to love this stuff. My 6-year-old talked about it all day long. All in all, it's an adequate way to spend a few hours—much more than I can say for many other films out there. ★★★½

ENOUGH

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 1:54 - Released 5/24/02

Much has been made of Jennifer Lopez's status as a "triple threat." At first a dancer who got her break as one of the Fly Girls on the TV sketch show In Living Color, Lopez has carved out a niche for herself in films, TV, and music, moving through the ranks to become a megastar in recording and a Hollywood fixture. But of her acting abilities...let's just say she shouldn't quit her day job. Of course, it doesn't help that she keeps getting involved in awful movies. I enjoyed The Cell, more because of the special effects than J-Lo, but The Wedding Planner and Angel Eyes were utter trash, and I'm sorry to say that Enough, written by Nicholas Kazan and directed by Michael Apted, isn't much better. The story of an abused wife who finally has to take matters into her own hands, it draws from a script with all the symptoms of a frontal lobotomy, and Lopez doesn't help to compensate for that.

The first part of this film involves how "Slim" (Lopez) and her wealthy, arrogant, future-ex-husband Mitch (Bill Campbell) first meet. Writer Kazan (son of famous and controversial director Elia Kazan) chose to include this opening in order to introduce a character played by ER's Noah Wyle who reappears later, but this choice really shoots itself in the foot, because it comes off rushed and oversimplified. Rather than just beginning the story with Slim and Mitch as an already married couple, we have to go through their courtship, marriage, and the birth of their daughter, which is done in about 10 minutes with all the tenderness of a rectal exam. Suddenly they're a family with a beautiful home and a 6-year-old daughter named Gracie (Tessa Allen), and there's trouble: Mitch, who has proven that he's used to getting what he wants, is having an affair with a French woman named Darcelle. I knew something was wrong when he refused her offer to join him in the shower. Never, EVER refuse Jennifer Lopez when she offers to join you in the shower. When Slim finds out about the affair, Mitch apologizes, but doesn't even offer to break it off, stating that since he earns the money, he makes the rules. "I'm a man," he explains, indicating in three little words the entire film's unpretentiously male-bashing chick-flick mentality.

When Slim argues, Mitch punches her out. When she complains about being punched out, he punches her out. And when she tries to leave the house, enlisting the aid of some friends, like former co-worker Ginny (Juliette Lewis), guess what happens. He punches her out and threatens to shoot her friends. But she does finally get away, and so begins an occasionally eerie but mostly predictable cat-and-mouse-and-red-herring game in which he traces her movements by investigating credit card transactions, freezes her accounts, and hires his old pal Noah Wyle (remember him?) to follow her. Eventually, after ascertaining that she can't combat her husband's abuses by conventional means, she takes boxing lessons, learns to jaywalk, and prepares to meet him fist-to-face.

This movie suffers from idiotic dialogue, ridiculous situations, and unbelievable characterizations throughout. When it is not overtly brain-dead, it's just plain boring, with too many plot detours, road trips, and hairstyle changes for its own good. And those annoying title cards are something else. In between all the stupid car chases, stupid fight scenes, and stupid dialogue, director Apted gives us these little clichéd silent-movie-style cards that flash on the screen with helpful notices like "Get out of there." Lopez, Campbell, and Lewis are not so terrible that they should bear all the blame for this film's substandard quality. But they're Enough. ★½ vehicle when she arrived home from work with her 2-year-old son. The trio was apprehended shortly thereafter along Broadford Road.

During the investigation of the attempted carjacking incident by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation, it was determined that the trio had burglarized the family's garage and house and had attempted to steal a truck parked at the residence.

"I am pleased Judge Sherbin acknowledged the seriousness of the situation and treated this more than a youthful indiscretion," said Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County states attorney. "The state has always maintained that these youth acted in a very cold and calculating way from the outset. They planned the escape, as was evident by their clothing and route of travel. After arriving at the residence in Deep Park in the morning hours, they amassed a number of items to use as weapons and lay in wait for someone to return to the house with a vehicle."

"As Judge Sherbin heard in the victim-impact statement read in court," continued Thayer Welch, "these young men had a number of opportunities to make choices that day, and they chose to perpetrate very serious acts of violence against a young mother and her family. They now have a long time to re-think those choices."

Adams had appeared in the Circuit Court in February and pleaded guilty to four of the crimes with which he was charged. He received three concurrent sentences of 12 years each for first-degree assault, second-degree burglary, and attempted carjacking, and a concurrent sentence of two years for the second-degree assault.

After a series of motion hearings, McLean's various charges were heard by two juries, with findings of guilty on five counts. He was sentenced to three concurrent terms of 12 years for second-degree burglary, attempted carjacking, and first-degree burglary, and to two concurrent sentences of one year for attempted motor vehicle theft and reckless endangerment.

The third escapee had previously appeared in Juvenile Court for the initial escape charge. "No additional charges will be filed against him," said Thayer Welch. "The victim has always maintained that his was the least culpable behavior, as he did not approach her vehicle nor raise any weapon toward her. We believe it is time to allow [the victim] to move forward."

Because the Juvenile Court does not have jurisdiction over a person who is 16 or 17 years of age and charged with a first-degree assault, Adams's and McLean's cases were filed in the District Court and later forwarded to the Circuit Court.

Garrett County Chamber of Commerce
Home of Deep Creek Lake

UPDATE

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce held its monthly meeting May 16. Chairman Jonathan Kessler presided.

Chamber president Ken Wishnick reported that the number of chamber web site visitors is continuing to rapidly increase. "During the last 12 months there were over 95,000 unique visitors who logged on to our web site," he said, pointing out that this is a 25% increase over the previous year. He also distributed graphs showing the continuing decline in unemployment in Garrett County, adding that tourism growth has significantly contributed to this result.

Wishnick distributed statistics indicating that from July through December accommodations tax collections rose 6% compared to the previous year. When winter tourism numbers are included, July through March accommodations tax collections show a 10% year-to-year gain. "These reports show that winter 2002 in Garrett County has been very strong," he noted.

He then reported that response to the chamber's marketing continues to set new records. During April, just over 10,000 requests for Vacation Guides were processed and inquiries came from all 50 states.

Deb Clatterbuck reported to the board on the "extraordinary interest" shown in Garrett County at the Towsontown Festival. "Ken targeted this festival two years ago and the response is mind-boggling. "People wait in lines to get our vacation guide and no matter how many we bring, we still run out," she said.

The board previewed changes to the chamber's web site that are being prepared by Genesis Publishing and Advertising, the company that produced this year's Vacation Guide. When complete, there will be a search engine, more photographs, and easy navigation to the information that is in greatest demand.

The following new members were approved: Reliable Office Technologies Corporation, owned by Tom Rihn, Oakland; Nature Lake Tours, owned by Steve Stallings, Accident; and Renunisse Antique Mall, owned by Cott and Barb Sisler, McHenry.

Results were announced of the recent board member election. Incumbents Bob Browning and Jonathan Kessler retained their seats and will be joined by newcomers Judy Devlin, Denny Glotfelty, and Jimmy Railey. The new board members will assume office at the next meeting, slated for June 13, at the Visitors Center, McHenry, beginning at 8 a.m. New officers will be selected at that time.

Southern Claims Second Straight State Crown With 2-0 Win Over Catoctin; Bosley Whiffs 13

While the old saying goes "heavy lies the head that wears the crown," the Southern High School varsity softball team's philosophy should instead be "if the shoe fits, wear it." The Rams are wearing the Maryland Class 1A crown for the second straight season after taking a 2-0 shutout win over Catoctin in last Thursday's state final at Severn's Randazzo Park. Pitcher Jennifer Bosley capped an amazing postseason run, and high school career to boot, by dominating the Cougars with a two-single, 13-strikeout performance.

The triumph gave SHS the repeat championship the experienced unit had begun stalking almost immediately after claiming the 2001 title last May over Bohemia Manor.

"For the past two years we have expected to win the championship," Ram coach Dave Bosley remarked. "Our players knew what the result would be if they worked hard enough, and they put in the effort to get it. The first championship was really sweet, but the second one is just as sweet because it's the end for six of our players [Jennifer Bosley, Megan Burner, Erica Green, Ashley Liller, Gina Reeves, and Autumn Uphold are graduating seniors], and because it's the end of my career as coach," remarked Southern skipper, who is retiring after nine seasons at the SHS helm. Long-time Ram assistant coach Christy Eyler, an integral part of Southern's successes, is also hanging it up after this season.

Catoctin, which had downed North East 5-2 in its semifinal round, brought a 20-4 record and a fine pitcher into its effort to dethrone the Rams. Not to be denied, however, the Rams and star pitcher Bosley, engine of the Rams machine, were gunning for the Cougars after besting St. Michael's 4-0 two days earlier in their semifinal. Bosley did not issue a walk in her final appearance in a Southern uniform. The shutout win capped her perfect 19-0 campaign with a season earned run average of 0.17, and drew the curtain on an amazing four-year varsity career mark of 64-6. Over the past three years, coincidentally enough, as a unit the SHS squad has compiled a 63-6 record.

The Rams delighted their many followers who had made the three-plus hour trek to the Severn diamond Thursday by grabbing an early 1-0 lead in the first inning. After Cougar hurler Shawna Wilkes, who had brought a 12-game win streak of her own into the contest, retired the first two Southern batters, shortstop Ashley Liller blasted a triple to deep left field. Bosley, batting cleanup, slapped a hard grounder to the CHS shortstop, who bobbled the ball and allowed Bosley to reach first base safely while Liller hustled home for the score.

The touted Bosley-Wilkes pitchers' duel unfolded as expected when the Rams' ace retired the first nine batters she faced, striking out three batters in the leadoff stanza, two in the second, and three in the third, while Wilkes worked to hold Southern to its lone first-inning run until the fifth stanza.

Burner got to Wilkes in the second inning by cracking a long drive to right field that went off the fielder's glove, and she sped around the bases to claim third base with a triple. With one out, Amber Bernard was hit by a pitch to put runners on first and third, then she scampered to second base when the next Ram struck out. A scoring opportunity was missed when Wilkes recorded another strikeout to close the inning unscathed.

Southern came close to scoring in the fourth inning as well. Catoctin dodged a bullet early in the stanza when Reeves blasted a long fly ball to right center, which the Cougars' right-fielder gathered in with a running catch to stymie a sure triple or more. Green followed with a walk, and Megan Bernard then sacrificed her to second with a bunt, but the next Ram batter struck out to end the stanza.

Bosley's perfect-game bid came to an end in the fourth inning when the Cougars' Nicole Sweeney led off with a single to right field, but the SHS pitcher bore down to blank the next nine Catoctin batters in a row.

"I thought the defense behind Jennifer was great," Coach Bosley said of his crew, which didn't commit a single error through the seven-inning battle. "Jennifer's pitching was fantastic, she was as good as she's ever been. She got behind in the count a couple of times, but came back to get the strikeout."

The Rams gave their star pitcher twice as many runs as she needed by taking a 2-0 lead in the fifth. Third baseman Autumn Uphold, batting at the top of the SHS line-up, got the ball rolling by swatting a single up the middle of the defense.

Up next, Burner dropped a perfect sacrifice bunt to advance Uphold into scoring position. Taking full advantage of a Cougar mental lull on the play, the fleet-footed Uphold sped around second and claimed third base untouched. She scored when Liller blooped a high pop-up that fell behind third base, and the spin on the ball caused it to twirl away from the Cougar fielder. By the time it was retrieved and tossed to second, Liller had scampered around to slide into a the bag for a two-out one-run double. Liller was stranded at second when Wilkes whiffed the succeeding Ram batter to close the inning.

Down by two with its back against the wall, Catoctin managed a single off Bosley (only the Cougars' third batted ball to leave the infield) to lead off the seventh and final stanza. However, after Bosley whiffed a pinch-hitter for the first out, Cougar runner Heidi Stull tried to steal second on an 0-2 count and was cut down by a superb throw from SHS backstop Gina Reeves to Liller for

SOUTHERN STRUTS ITS STUFF — "The girls knew what they wanted, and did what they had to do to get it," is how SHS coach Dave Bosley summed up the Rams' varsity softball team's year-long march to the 2002 Maryland state crown. The champs are shown above on the Randazzo Park field with their championship plaques after downing Catoctin 2-0 in Thursday evening's final. Crucial to the Rams' title repeat, and an amazing 63-6 SHS run over the past three years, have been superb fielding third baseman Erica Green, below left, and standout pitcher Jennifer Bosley, below right. Bosley's rising fastball and dropping curve limited the Cougars to just two singles as she struck out 13 batters while not issuing a single walk. Some of the Rams are pictured at the bottom "strutting their mitts" and showing the camaraderie that got them to the top of the state ranks for two consecutive years and into the state championship contest for three straight seasons. May is Lyme Disease Awareness Month

Lyme Disease is caused by a bacteria that is transmitted to humans by tick bites, primarily by the deer tick. These ticks feed on infected animals such as mice, raccoons, skunks, squirrels, or domestic pets which harbor the bacteria. Bacteria enter the skin and move to various body organs. The typical infection results in a classical "bulls eye" rash. The infection may cause lethargy, fatigue, stiff neck, and/or muscle and joint pains. Fever may be present. When not treated, problems with the central nervous system may develop. Arthritis and heart abnormalities also can occur.

Lyme Disease is treatable with antibiotics. The rash may disappear without antibiotic treatment, however, that does not mean the disease is cured. If diagnosed early, three weeks of oral antibiotics is recommended. After the infection is present, intravenous antibiotics are recommended for 21 days. Lymerix is the only FDA-approved vaccine for preventing Lyme disease, but is being removed from the market by the manufacturer due to poor sales.

Huskies, Rams Dominate All-WMIL Wrestling

Of the 13 high school wrestlers named this past week to the All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League, Garrett County grapplers filled eight of those spots, with five of them from Northern High School and three from Southern High School. The team consists of the 13 weight-class winners in the league competition.

Northern's Pete Stein, who was the 125-pound Maryland state 1A/2A champion this past season, was the top finisher among the local honorees. He completed his 2001-02 campaign with an overall record of 25-4.

State 145-pound runner-up Darric Kamp, also of Northern, was named, along with teammate Trey Brenneman, who finished third in the 275-pound class at the state meet. Kamp's record this past season was 29-6, while Brenneman recorded a 31-3 mark.

Other Huskies named to the All-WMIL squad were Dan Ganoe in the 135-pound class and Jordan Brenneman at 152 pounds. Ganoe's season record was 16-6, while Brenneman finished with a 23-8 mark.

Southern Rams named to the squad were Justin Gregory in the 119-pound class, Scott Wildesen in the 130-pound division, and Chris Hayhurst in the 140-pound class. Their respective overall records for the year were 14-11, 22-9, and 23-8.

Local wrestlers named to the second team All-WMIL were Lee Yoder of Northern (171 pounds) and Joe Ashby of Southern (125 pounds).

Other first-team members included state champion Nick Durst of Beall, who had a perfect 36-0 record in the 160-pound division; Zach Sloane, 171 pounds, also from Beall; Eric Stowell, 103 pounds, Westmar; Roy Payne, 112 pounds, Fort Hill; and Clay Miller, 189 pounds, Allegany.

Wisp Hot Stove Squad Holds On To First Place

The Wisp Hot Stove League team, Garrett County's sole representative on the 31-team youth baseball circuit, stands alone atop the East Division despite losing its first game this week. The 4-1 Wisp started off with a 7-4 loss to CD/MeadWestvaco on Thursday, but rebounded to administer an 18-3 drubbing to Kiwanis Monday, and downed American Insurance Company yesterday 6-4.

Details were sketchy concerning the Wisp's three-run loss to CD/MeadWestvaco at Northern High School. Reports did state that the Wisp was held to five hits as 11 batters were retired via strikeouts. The contest was a match-up of undefeateds, as CD/MeadWestvaco had brought a 2-0 record to bear against Wisp's 3-0 mark.

The Wisp returned to form against Kiwanis at Holler Field Monday, as Michael Wolf sped home on a two-run inside-the-park home run, and Mark Logsdon drove home three runs while three of their teammates recorded two RBI apiece in the 15-run blowout.

Logsdon recorded two singles, Darrick Lowdermilk whacked a triple and a double, Preston Sisler sliced a double and a single, and Darryl Glotfelty drove in two runs on a pair of fielder's choices. Matthew Bass contributed two singles and an RBI.

The Wisp pitching trio of Sisler, Corey Carr, and Wolf teamed up to allow just two singles over five total innings of work.

Yesterday in Bel Air the Wisp mounted a last-inning rally that gave it a two-run victory over American Insurance Company. The Wisp had taken the early lead with a two-run stanza in the top of the first, and the hosts answered with one run in the bottom of the inning.

The Wisp scored a single run in the top of the second to go up 3-1, but American Insurance scored twice in the fifth and once in the sixth to take a 4-3 lead heading into the seventh and final stanza. The visitors' game-clinching rally was sparked by a clutch two-strike bunt by Logsdon.

Sisler paced Wisp with two RBI and Robert Stark, punched out a pair of singles. Darrick Lowdermilk worked the first five innings on the mound, but Sisler tossed the final two innings in relief to gain credit for the win. The Wisp pitching duo gave up six hits, while the Wisp batting line-up was held to five hits.

The Wisp is slated to host Ali Ghan tomorrow afternoon at Northern High.

Ram Champs To Be Included in USA Today Piece

The upcoming Tuesday, June 4, issue of USA Today is tentatively set to include a special pull-out sports section devoted to high school fast-pitch softball state champions at each of the four classes of varsity play, and the Maryland 1A champion Southern High Rams are slated to be included in the published list.

Southern athletic director Matt Redinger said this morning that he has been contacted by the nationally published newspaper for information on the Rams squad. Although details for the special section are still in the works, a total of 200 teams will likely be included in the section, with the probable publication of each team's player roster.

Redinger was able to confirm that USA Today has printed bumper stickers for each of the state champion schools, and a quantity of bumper stickers specifically honoring the 2001-2002 Maryland state champion Southern Lady Rams softball team should be delivered to the school this afternoon or tomorrow.

The stickers will be available for purchase at $3 each from the school secretary in the main office and from Redinger himself. All proceeds will benefit the SHS softball program and the Southern Athletic Department.

W.Va. Basketball Players Sign With Garrett Women

The women's basketball program at Garrett Community College has signed two top players, Sha Anderson and Tasha Robinson, from Martinsburg (W.Va.) High School, both of whom earned post-season accolades as they helped lead the Bulldogs to a 15-8 record last winter.

Anderson was named to the West Virginia All-State third team, the All-Sectional team, The Martinsburg Journal Elite Eight, and The Hagerstown Herald-Mail All-Area First Team. Robinson was singled out for honorable mention accolades by The Herald-Mail.

Martinsburg crushed Musselman High 64-46 in the West Virginia Sectional opener before falling to Jefferson 46-39.

Anderson and Robinson will be joining an experienced Lakers' team this coming season, as GCC coach Steve Willison lost just four players to graduation from his 12-player roster.

First United To Sponsor 14th Charity Tourney

First United Bank & Trust will be sponsoring the 14th annual Charity Golf Tournament and Banquet at the Oakland Golf Club on Friday, July 12. This is the fourth year that First United has organized this event. The tournament has become a tradition over the past 13 years and has raised over $167,000 for Garrett County charities. "Participants are able to enjoy a challenging round of golf, and at the same time, help raise much needed funds for worthy community projects," stated a band spokesperson.

This year, the recipient of the tournament proceeds will be United Way of Garrett County. Established in January 2000, United Way of Garrett County provides funds to area charities. United Way of Garrett County is a nonprofit organization that relies solely on contributions for its funding. All funds are used exclusively for programming within Garrett County. David W. Thomas, executive board president of the United Way of Garrett County, stated, "This community has been extremely supportive of the work we do, and First United selecting us as the recipient for this year's tournament further exemplifies that support."

Golfers will be competing for team prizes redeemable at the Oakland Golf Club Pro Shop. First place low net and low gross teams will each receive $1,000 gift certificates. The second place low net and low gross teams will each receive $650 gift certificates, the third place low net team will receive a $400 gift certificate, the fourth place low net team will receive a $200 gift certificate, and the fifth place low net team will receive a $100 gift certificate.

First United also invites all professionals, businesses, and individuals who wish to support the charity event without participating in the tournament to register as associate sponsors. Associate sponsors receive two tickets to the banquet and awards ceremony, which will be held immediately following the tournament. They also receive recognition on prominently displayed signs on the day of the event and through a "thank you" ad.

Anyone interested in becoming a sponsor should call 1-800-470-4356, ext. 2420.

Rams Claim

the inning's second out. Catoctin batter Cameron Jensen chopped a grounder to short that Liller gathered in and tossed to Green at first for the third and final out, and the Rams' celebration was under way.

Perhaps the play of the game, the importance of Reeves's cruise missile of a throw to nab Stull is best understood in light of what could have happened had she not risen to the occasion. A successful steal would have put a runner on second in scoring position with just one out; a double play opportunity would have been nearly impossible without intentionally walking Jensen to put runners on first (the tying run) and second. Even an out by Cameron would have still brought the Cougars' on-deck batter — Valentine one of the best hitters in the state — to the plate to face Bosley in a classic pitcher/batter end-of-game situation.

"How about Gina Reeves?" her coach exclaimed immediately after the contest. "I actually was looking for the runner to steal, but wasn't able to get that thought to Gina, because I thought they might try to get something going. Gina is ready throw whenever anyone is ready to run, and she's shown she's one of the best by throwing out 11 runners attempting to steal this season."

Although Southern's batting line-up was held to five hits by Wilkes, who struck out eight batters and issued just one walk, those hits came at the right times. Liller whacked a triple and double, Burner belted a triple, and Green and Uphold rapped out a single apiece. The Rams' unselfish sacrifice-bunt offense played a crucial role in getting runners into scoring position, as Megan Bernard tallied two sacrifices and Burner had one to account for three of SHS's four sacrifice bunts.

"Our four sacrifice bunts were very important," Coach Bosley said afterward. "We really haven't had the overwhelming team speed this year to steal at will, so when we got somebody on base the bunting moved them along to second. The flow of this particular game had us bunting with one out more than we usually do, but it paid off when Megan Burner's perfect fifth inning sacrifice ended up pushing Autumn all the way to third on one play, and Ashley was able to bring her home on a double. That was big, because although we felt pretty good with one run, we felt a whole lot better when we got number two. Realistically we didn't expect to score a lot of runs, but we did what we had to do to win. I'm extremely proud of all the girls, especially the six seniors. It was a true all-around team effort across the roster."

Bosley also expressed his appreciation for the behind-the-scenes efforts that have played a big part in the Rams' successes. "Cathy O'Neil and Junior Ferguson have been huge helps to program with their donations, and the Southern Garrett Athletic Association was very generous in their donation that helped us get a charter bus for the team's trip to Severn. SHS athletic director Matt Redinger and the school administration played big parts in getting us that bus from Pittsburgh. We also appreciate the work of the Southern High baseball team for helping us with our hitting early in the season.

Not one to mince tough words, Bosley did stress, "One thing I'd like to point out to the community at large, however, is that I hope people realize that the 9-12 summer slow-pitch league in the Oakland area will cause us to fall behind other teams, because they play a fast-pitch game, and Frostburg and Cumberland are already ahead of us. That could have a serious impact on the future of the Southern High softball program — for the worse, I'm afraid.

"I'll enjoy being able to travel next spring to watch Jennifer play for Radford University," Bosley observed, "but I'll miss coaching, for sure. My biggest thank-you has to go to our softball players, and their parents and fans who have been such a huge support all season and throughout my years as a coach."

Oakland Oaks Slated To Open Pen Mar Play

The Pen Mar Baseball League will open its 2002 summer season this Saturday as the Oakland Oaks play host to the Parkersburg (W.Va.) Pen Mar squad for a 2 p.m. doubleheader at Northern High School. The Oaks will travel to Parkersburg the following day for another 2 p.m. twinbill. The Oaks will be coached by Craig Bosley for the second consecutive season.

Four teams compose the Pen Mar league roster this year, as the Oaks and Parkersburg (which is composed of players from the Parkersburg-based Ohio Valley College squad) are joined by the Cumberland Tri-State Generals and the Rosemont (W.Va.) Pen Mar team. The circuit has slated a regular season schedule of 28 games, and will be fielding an all-star squad to battle the Fayette County Baseball League All-Stars in late June on the Hopwood, Pa., diamond.

Founded in 1949, the Pen Mar League is the oldest semi-pro baseball circuit in the tri-state area, and it remains an all-wooden bat league.

Area Speedway Review

ROARING KNOB
by Donna Butler

Gary Dalton became Roaring Knob Raceway's first repeat winner, claiming the Mel Minnick Sr. Memorial for the Fayette Tire Late Models' segment of the Tri-State Shootout series. Other winners of the evening were Tim Jackson, Scott Spade, Dave Summers, and Ike McCleary.

Morgantown native Gary Dalton overcame adversity and took the $2,000 first prize for the 40-lap Mel Minnick Sr. Memorial. Dalton and Nick Jones raced hard over the first 18 laps, with Dalton leading the first 16. Jones got by for the point on the 17th, but his time in front would only last 3 trips around. Problems on the Jones machine sent him pitside, handing the top spot back to Dalton on the 20th circuit. Dalton took charge until lap 27, when he experienced difficulties and went to the tail of the pack, giving the lead to Jeff Ferguson.

From that point, Dalton was a man on a mission, as he tore through the field. By the 31st lap, Dalton was back in third when Mel Minnick slapped the front chute wall, bringing out the caution. On the restart, Dalton barged into the lead and never looked back, followed by Ferguson, Gary Tonkery, Garry Sisson, and Bob Neratka. Billy Eash, Ron Reese, Chuck Clise, Mel Minnick, and Doug Horton filled out the top 10. Heats for the Fayette Tire Late Models were taken by Ferguson and Dalton.

Over the entire distance of the Caney Valley Sport and Marine Hot Stock feature, the proverbial blanket could've been thrown over the top 5. Scott "The Ace" Spade wired the field, but had to withstand the relentless pressure of Jim Byers, John Redshaw, Chuck Bloom, and Jim Bendishaw Jr. They tried the high side, the low side, and the middle groove. Each move was skillfully countered by Spade, as the Farmington, Pa., driver took his well-deserved first of the season. Byers, Spade, and Bendishaw took heat wins.

Tim Jackson towed in from Pennsboro, W.Va., and left with the gold in the VitaLink-QCOL Classic Lites. Jackson led every circuit, beating back the challenges of Mike Hay and John Cogar. Hay came in second, followed by Cogar, John Mark Spencer, and Bub Six. Jackson, Mike Hay, and Matt Hay took heat wins.

Dave Summers of Grafton, W.Va., came out of retirement to lead the Fort Necessity Garage Modified 4-cylinders flag to flag. Mike Lewis, Louie Orris, Gene Gindlesperger, and Spencer Cale completed the top five. Summers took the heat.

Bruceton Mills, W.Va.'s, Ike McCleary won the chase to the checkered in the Fort Necessity Garage Stock 4-cylinders. Following McCleary to the stripe were Marty Spade, Dave Friend, Jim Crossland, and Ed Leonard. Friend and McCleary were heat winners.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park will return to action this Saturday, June 1. In addition to the regular 5-division show, the Faster Pastor Preacher Feature is on the card. Local clergy members will strap themselves into Hot Stocks and stomp the loud pedal on the raceway. Appalachian Timber Products will present a wheelbarrow race for the youngsters.

Roaring Knob Raceway Park is located two miles west of the Youghiogheny Lake, just off Route 40 along Fearer Road. INTERSTATE 79 SPEEDWAY
by Cheryl Baker-Stasiak

Forty-one late models were in the pits for the second leg of the West Virginia State Championship Series at Interstate 79 Speedway on Sunday evening. Parkersburg's Mike Balzano started on the pole after winning the six-car dash. The race was slowed by only one caution on lap 40 when Rod Conley had a flat tire. He was able to change the tire and rejoined the field.

Balzano led the entire 50 laps. He was able to hold off a late race challenge by Tim Hitt. Hitt was second and Paul Wilmoth was third. Nathan Durboraw, Denny Chamberlain, Booper Bare, Davey Johnson, Rod Conley, Chuck Harper, and M.T. Hall rounded out the top 10.

Booper Bare was the Timberwolf Hard Charger of the race by advancing from the starting spot to finish sixth. Jeff Burdette was the fast qualifier with a 15.416. Heat winners were Chuck Harper, Robbie Scott, Davey Johnson, and Nathan Durboraw. B-Mains were won by Nolan Dalton and Gary Dalton.

Deck Defibaugh bested the 28 AMRA modifieds. Defibaugh started on the pole after winning his heat. Louie Krushansky started on the outside pole and finished second. Mike Wilson passed John Burdette on lap 24 to take third at the finish. Burdette finished fourth, while Kenny Johnson, Shawn Davis, Barry Jacobs, Ray Perkins, Greg Hauger, and Ron Parrish finished in positions five through 10. Heats went to Defibaugh, Krushansky, and Johnson. The B-Main was won by J.C. Casto.

In the Pure Stock division, John Redshaw came from his seventh starting spot to win his second feature of the season. Redshaw and Jim Bendishaw traded the lead several times in the 20-lap event. Bendishaw was second, while Dusty Hamrick was third. Rounding out the top 10 were Joe Loudin, Jim Byers, Scott Spade, Chuck Bloom, Scott Davis, Pat Frazier, and Kevin Keene. Heats went to Punky Conrad, Jim Bendishaw, and Dusty Hamrick. The B-Main was canceled when only four cars came to the line and they were added to the main event.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

by Dan Muss

It was a grand sight indeed to see the 40-odd sails out on Deep Creek Lake this past Saturday, and it felt good to be out there with them. The first race of the season is a tune-up race called the Steiding Cup, where all boats start together and there is one winner. C Fleet did not race in that one since we race only one race per day.

There was a real surprise for the Steiding Cup, a new sailboat on our lake called an "International 14." This is a high performance racer that weighs only 280 pounds fully rigged. It carries 250 square feet of main and jib plus 300 square feet of spinnaker. It won the Steiding Cup handily, but let me tell you, this is a young person's boat. Sailors Chris Drury and Eric Silverman managed to keep it up, but barely.

The Becker Cup Regatta sailed with one race on Saturday, two races on Sunday, and one race on Monday. As my fearless crew, Marilyn Filemyr, and I sailed out to the starting line, I saw my old nemesis, Ted Rissell, who has institutionalized his role — his boat is now named "NEMESIS." I laughed so hard when I saw his boat's new name I almost dropped the tiller.

One surprise was Larry and Debbie Anderson winning the Flying Scot B Fleet. They are products of the Deep Creek Sailing School and only started racing a few years ago. We are very proud of them, and are also amazed at Don and Barbara Griffin, who finished second in the Flying Scot A Fleet. A second place finish against tough competition demonstrates their skill, but what is really amazing is sailing two long races on Sunday in a fairly stiff breeze. Don is in his early 70s; I couldn't guess his beautiful wife Barbara's age.

When Ted Rissell and I started the Deep Creek Sailing School nine years ago we attended a one-day U.S. Sailing Association seminar in Annapolis on how to run a sailing school. That course was taught by Joni Palmer, assistant director of the U.S. Naval Academy's Sailing Program. That course had a great influence on the way in which our sailing school developed. Joni also ran the courses that our sailing instructors took for U.S. Sailing's instructor qualification, which we needed for our insurance. Last summer Joni and her husband Ray Gauthier came up to sail in our Invitational Regatta. By the end of the summer they had bought a cottage and a Flying Scot, joined our yacht club, and are now part of our regular racing field.

Railey Hosts Cheerleader Training Camp

Railey Mtn. Lake Vacations announced recently that it will hold its second annual Baltimore Ravens Cheerleader Training Camp at Deep Creek Lake. Area businesses will be hosting the cheerleaders each evening so that the public may have an opportunity to meet them.

The cheerleaders will be at Larry's Blues Cellar at the Silver Tree Center, Deep Creek Lake, on Friday, June 7 at 6:30 p.m. for an autograph and photo session. On Saturday, June 8, they will be at Smiley's Fun Zone, McHenry, from 6 until 9 p.m. On Sunday, June 9, at 3 p.m., the cheerleaders will give a presentation at Northern High School. All events are open to the public.

The cheerleaders' team has 22 men and 48 women from a variety of professional backgrounds, such as lawyers, electrical engineers, and teachers. Their training includes a three hour practice session, two days a week and a 10-hour day on games days. Tryouts for the team are held each year. Half of the 2002 team are new members, according to a Railey spokesperson.

For more information about the events, persons may call 301-387-5533.

Youth Fishing Rodeo Slated At Herrington Manor

The Herrington Manor State Park youth fishing rodeo is set for this Saturday, June 1, from 8 a.m. to noon at Herrington Lake. The annual event is free to all participants 16 years old and under. Entry fees to the park are waived for the day, which is also a free fishing day statewide, as no fishing license is required to fish in any Maryland waters that day.

Prizes will be awarded in three age categories, plus a prize for the largest fish of the day. Several casting contests will also include prizes, and a drawing that will immediately follow the rodeo will involve a number of prizes, including a new bicycle from High Mountain Sports.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Division is stocking the lake several days prior to the event, which is sponsored by the Garrett County Board of Realtors, a number of local businesses, and the park staff. For further information, persons may call Herrington Manor State Park at 301-334-9180.

Wishnick Resigns

board that he is willing to assist in the effort to recruit a replacement and make the transition "to the extent that my commitments will allow."

In an interview yesterday, Wishnick said that he has enjoyed his time as chamber president, and that the decision to resign was a difficult one. But he said that he is looking forward to "the considerable opportunities for professional growth" in his new position.

Umbel Enterprises, owned by Hugh Umbel, includes Legacy Homes, the Foodland Fresh Supermarkets at Deep Creek Lake and in Grantsville, the Market Square Shopping Center, and several other current and proposed business ventures.

When asked to what he attributed the 60% growth in county tourism during his tenure, he said, "The growth is the combined result of many chamber members promoting our area. However, the chamber is the lead cheerleader for the county. We shaped our vacation guide into a compelling publication that is second to none. We then added layers of targeted marketing that really hit the bull's eye. One example is the 'park your car and travel by boat' promotion. This produced the single most successful ad and brochure campaign that was ever run by the chamber."

Wishnick said that his departure should not have a significant impact on the Autumn Glory Festival, the largest single event that is coordinated by the chamber. "Deb Clatterbuck has been doing most of the leg work for the past three years, and certainly has the ability to take the lead this year," he said.

When asked how his leaving would affect the chamber overall, he responded, "If the right staffing decisions are made, the chamber should stay on track. I regularly held weekly meetings at which the staff discussed projects and issues. We're a small group, so knowledge of each other's projects was encouraged."

He said that his advice to the chamber on finding a replacement would be to "find someone who is fair, ethical, has a vision for the future, and knows how to work with many different kinds of people."

Wishnick, who holds a master's degree in urban planning from Texas A&M and a bachelor's degree in economics, has been a regional planning director in Louisiana and New Jersey, was a vice president of Browning-Ferris Industries Inc., and was a private business owner. He and his wife Fran, who reside along Foxtown Road near Accident, are the parents of a daughter and a son.

A separate Ceilidh (or Scottish party) will be held that evening beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Ceilidh will feature Rideout, Scotch Mist, Peterson, and Shanty Irish.

Mtn. Lake Park, had been completed. The project, which took over a year to complete, is expected to extend the life of the structures another 20 years, he said.

Community Action has also been working with town mayors through the Rural Legacy Program. The agency is helping the mayors establish town ordinances and looking at ways they may enforce them. Yoder noted that even though towns may have ordinances pertaining to issues such as uncut grass, trash, and stray dogs, it is often difficult for mayors to actually enforce the ordinances. The town officials may share a law enforcement officer who would enforce all of the towns' ordinances, said Yoder.

Sanitary District

Ron Petrella, Sanitary District administrator, reported that a contractor had been awarded the construction bid and that a preconstruction meeting had been held for the Deer Park water project. "Things are finally starting to progress," said Petrella about the project. He said once the U.S. Department of Agriculture "okayed" the bid process, construction could begin.

Commissioner Fred Holliday asked Petrella about the project's budget. Petrella said the project was over budget because of delays. He added, however, that the USDA had indicated that additional funding may be available once it receives and approves the project's plans.

He added that a construction bid had also be awarded to a contractor for the Keyser's Ridge sanitary project and that work could begin soon on that project as well.

County Circuit Rider

Mike Mullan, the circuit rider operating out of the Garrett County Economic Development Department, reported that he has been busy working with towns on various issues. For example, they are examining recycling and looking at ways to recycle ink-jet cartridges, cardboard, newspapers, and electronic equipment.

He and Accident officials have been working on the town's sewage project. They have raised sewage rates to help pay for the new system and will soon be setting up a reserve account as well, Mullan said.

He has also been helping Deer Park find a new clerk/treasurer and is working on a charter item that establishes how a vacancy is to be filled on the town council.

Ruth Enlow Library

Cathy Ashby, Ruth Enlow Library director, reported that the library system had signed a contract with Frederick Ward and Associates of Bel Air and Columbia. The architectural firm will design the new Grantsville Library.

Ashby also reported that the library system has received a Gates Foundation Grant. The Oakland branch will receive four new computers, while each of the other branches will receive two. The grant will also provide for a content server, software, and software training for staff members.

Planning and Zoning

John Nelson, director of Planning and Zoning, told the commissioners that he was disappointed that Delegate George Edwards's natural gas rights bill had again been vetoed by the governor.

Nelson's department has been working with county farmers who want to join the Maryland Agriculture Preservation Program. Many area farmers, however, cannot join because natural gas companies own the mineral rights on their properties. The program requires that companies give up their rights before allowing land owners to join. Edwards's bill would have allowed farmers to join the program without that restriction. "Hopefully, we'll try again next year with a new governor," Nelson said.

The next Board of County Commissioners' public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, June 4, beginning at 9 a.m. in the commissioners' meeting room at the courthouse.

Birdwatcher Conference Set At Wisp

Maryland birdwatchers from the Maryland Ornithological Society will hold its 2002 annual conference at the Wisp Resort and Conference Center, McHenry, June 7 through 9, with activities for local families. A silent auction at the event will benefit three Garrett County schools, according to Mike Callahan, MOS president.

"Western Maryland is one of the best bird watching locales in the entire state of Maryland, so it's no wonder that the Maryland Ornithological Society will be holding its weekend-long annual conference here," Callahan said.

These gatherings bring together birdwatchers and naturalists from around the state for three days of activities that will include field trips to local birding "hotspots," distinguished speakers, the presentation of scientific papers on ornithology, and fund-raisers, such as the silent auction.

Hosted by MOS members of Garrett County and the Allegany County Chapter, the silent auction will benefit Swan Meadow School's Barn Owl Nesting Box project, Southern Middle School's Schoolyard Wetland project, and the Northern High School's Envirothon Team.

The following events are open to the public. In the Crawford Room at the Wisp, the Wildlife and Nature Artist exhibit will highlight some of the region's wildlife artists. It will be open 12:30 until 5 p.m. on Friday, June 7; from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 8; and from 10 a.m. to noon on Sunday, June 9. Artists will be on hand to display and sell their work.

Nature Book and Gift Store in the Whitewater Room at the Wisp will be open to the public during the same hours listed for the wildlife art exhibit.

Educational exhibits in the lobby of the Wisp will include the Maryland Breeding Bird Atlas and various bird and nature displays.

For more information about this conference or the MOS, persons may call local coordinator Fran Pope at 301-334-4908 or e-mail her at fpope@genetmail.net.

ON DISPLAY AT BIRD CONFERENCE — Work by Gary Yoder, seen above, will be on display at the 2002 annual conference of the Maryland Ornithological Society at the Wisp Resort June 7 through 9. A silent auction will also be held to benefit three Garrett County Schools. See story for more details.

Persons may call the Oakland library at 301-334-3996, or stop by to reserve a copy of the book.

"Navigating between the Indian traditions they've inherited and the baffling new world, the characters in Jhumpa Lahiri's elegant, touching stories seek love beyond the barriers of culture and generations," the book's jacket reads. "Lahiri writes with deft cultural insight reminiscent of Anita Desai and a nuanced depth that recalls Mavis Gallant. She is an important and powerful new voice.

"In 'A Temporary Matter,' published in The New Yorker, a young Indian-American couple faces the heartbreak of a stillborn birth while their Boston neighborhood copes with a nightly blackout. In the title story, 'Interpreter of Maladies,' an interpreter guides an American family through the India of their ancestors and hears an astonishing confession."

Among the highlights of the 15th annual Highland Festival, scheduled for this Saturday, June 1, will he the "unveiling" of a new Deep Creek Brewing Company product known as "Tilted Kilt Scotch Ale." The new beer is being brewed specifically for the festival by brewer Jeff Petruso.

A limited nmmber of special glass mugs will be sold at the festival which will feature the brewery logo on one side and the lestival logo and date on the other.

"We are really pleased that Deep Creek Brewing Company is partnering with us," said Jerry Humberson, of festival presenter Humberson Homes and Mountain Properties. "I think it will add a bit of taste and color to the festival."

"We are glad we came to an agreement to do this," said Darrin Green of Deep Creek Brewing. "We will be helping out a non-profit group."

The festival is benefiting United Way of Garrett County, and other non-profit groups are using the event to help raise funds. "Everything is coming back to the county," Green said of the new focus of the festival.

Petruso, who has been a home brewer lor five years, said that a number of the company's other specialty brews will also be available at the festival, including Deep Creek Gold and Youghiogheny Red.

The festival will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Bagpipe bands, Celtic musicians, various other performers, vendors, and crafters will all participate.

The Ceilidh (Scottish party), catered by Taste Unlimited, will begin at 7:30 p.m. that evening. The Ceilidh will feature music by Scotch Mist, Bonnie Rideout, Carl Peterson, and Shanty Irish. Persons are invited to check the web site www.highlandfest.info for more information, or telephone festival coordinator Jerry McGee at 301-387-8300 or 1-800-457-6777.

THE HOST BAND for the 15th annual Highland Festival, set for this Saturday, June 1, at the Garratt County Fairgrounds in McHenry, is once again the Garratt Community College Pipes and Drums, pictured above left. The local band, under the direction of Pipe Major Jerry McGee, will be among five pipe bands that will perform. Another is the Frederick Scottish Pipes and Drums, based in Frederick, pictured above right. The band wears the Scott tartan in honor of Francis Scott Key, a native of Frederick and author of the "Star Spangled Banner." Under the direction of Pipe Major David Thome, the band recently returned from New York City after participating in one of the world's largest parades of highland bagpipes and drums. Still another band slated to participate in Saturday's festival is the Allegheny & District Pipe Band, based in southwestern Pennsylvania and pictured below. The band was created via the merging of two bands in 1993 and has since won numerous compatitions. Competing in Grade IV in 1995, the band went undefeated with nine consecutive victories and earned the title of EUSPBA Champions Supreme/ Overall Champion. The band also traveled to Scotland in 1999 to compete in the World Pipe Band Championships as a Group III entry. It is under the direction of Pipe Major A.G. Lee. Still another band that will participate is the Balmoral Highlanders Pipe Band, organized just last year in Pittsburgh. See stories for Highland Festival details.

Highland Festival To Feature Entertainment For Entire Family

The 15th annual Highland Festival, slated for this Saturday, June 1, will have plenty of things for visitors to do, according to festival coordinator, Jerry McGee, including athletic games, a car show, vendors and crafters, piping competition, a military encampment, daneing competition, oxen demonstration, and livestock exhibits. Members of the House of Gordon will present a sword and kilt performance.

The massed band performance and clan parade will officially kick off the festival at 11 a.m. Dave Martin will sing the national anthem and Rev. John Grant will give the opening prayer.

Five bagpipe bands will perform throughout the day: MacDonald Pipe Band, Allegheny & District Pipe Band, and Balmoral Highlanders, all of Pittsburgh, the Frederick Scottish Pipes and Drums, and the host band, the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums.

Performers include world renowned Scottish fiddler Bonnie Rideout, folk singer Carl Peterson, Celtic band Sang Run, Scotch Mist featuring Lynne Barnes on harp and Roger Dale on recorder, Sweet Briar, and pub band Shanty Irish.

Local organizations will provide a variety of foods. "We are trying to make this a community event visitors can attend, instead of just a tourist event," said Jerry Humberson, chairman of the festival board of directors.

County groups will be earning funds or providing information at the festival, including the Knights of Columbus, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Rotary Club, Dennett Road Elementary School, the Dove Center, the Sport-aerobic team, and the Humane Society.

Members of the League of Women Voters will staff the information booth and encourage residents to register and vote in the coming elections. President Henrietta Lease will register voters at the festival.

WKHJ will broadcast live from the fairgrounds during the morning hours. Highland Festival announcers on the performance field will be Tom Frawley in the morning and Rev. Chip Lee in the afternoon.

Humberson Homes and Mountain Properties are presenting the festival this year, according to McGee, and a board has been formed to help keep it going. Started 15 years ago by the Promotion Council, the Chamber of Commerce presented the festival for two years and then turned it over to the Deep Creek Lake Lions Club, who hosted it for two years.

Members of the Lions Club are serving on the board and still helping, McGee said. Some of the activities started by the Lions Club are being continued by the new board, such as adding local crafters, providing children's activities, and bringing in more Irish, British, and Welch influence. Board members are Humberson, McGee, Jeff Nelson, Chip Smith, Rich Ford, Sheila Reeves Menchaca, Jo Donaldson, and Fred Thayer.

The festival will be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, off Route 219, McHenry, rain or shine. Many activities are held in the fair buildings, and others can be moved into the Quonset huts, said McGee. Tickets cost $10 at the gate. Children under 12 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

ship and the Maryland Teachers' Scholarship for which only those who have earned an A.A. degree are eligible. Students who enroll in Garrett's honor program also receive scholarships that amount to a 50 percent tuition reduction. "In addition, we guarantee that all courses planned in accordance with a transfer contract or with one of our articulated agreements will transfer, or the student will receive a full tuition refund," said Roberson.

Garrett currently has transfer programs articulated with other colleges as follows: Frostburg State University — Business Administration, General Studies, Social Work, Psychology, Wildlife Fisherics, and Teacher Education; Fairmont State College — Aviation Technology and Electronic Engineering Technology; Allegany College — Allied Health programs, Criminal Justice, and Culinary Arts; and Potomac State College — Computer Programming and Computer Applications for Business.

In some of these programs students can complete two years at Garrett before they transfer; in others they can complete two or three semesters before transferring.

"Of course we will continue to promote our career programs for students who do not plan to earn a four-year degree," Roberson said. "Garrett now has a unique feature through the Career Services office that mentors a student from enrollment through the job placement process."

Garrett's career advancement degree programs are Adventure Sports, Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology, Agriculture Management, Juvenile Justice, and Business and Information Technology. Some of these programs also offer one-year certificates for students seeking early entry into the workforce.

"Whatever the student plans as a career, we offer many options and many advantages," Roberson added. "We believe our new logo expresses this — "Small college, big results."

BABIES HONORED IN CRADLE ROLL — Parents, relatives, or friends may honor their favorite babies born at Garrett County Memorial Hospital by enrolling them in the Cradle Roll. "The Cradle Roll provides a unique way to obtain recognition for a special child in your life," said Linett Sines, GCMH marketing and development specialist. A minimum donation of $25 to the GCMH Foundation enrolls any baby born at the hospital. The name and birthday of all enrolled babies will be prominently displayed on a wall in the hospital's Family-Centered Maternity Suite. Parents will receive a certificate at the time of enrollment, and the child's name and the individual(s) providing recognition will be included in the foundation publication. All Cradle Roll donations will be used to purchase equipment specifically for the maternity suite. Pictured above are Tony and JoLeen Haskell with their son Ethan as Shirley Rounds, GCMH Family-Centered Maternity Suite RN, places his name on the Cradle Roll. Ethan is one of the newest members of the roll.

Eastern Star Meeting Held

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday, May 21, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple. Worthy Matron Nancy Harsh and Worthy Patron Theodore Raynovich presided.

The Worthy Matron's opening thought was "Don't Be Afraid." She welcomed Wilda Hile and Charee Reckner, Deputy Grand Lecturers of Maryland. She also recognized Richard Csamer, Grand Representative to West Virginia, and Joy Lou Fogle, Past Matron, McKinley Chapter No. 12, Cumberland, Grand Representative to Oregon. She greeted Mildred Sickles, Past Matron, Uniontown (Pa.) Chapter No. 263, Uniontown, Pa.

The officers presented a program, "Our Eastern Star," in honor of Hile, who was making an official visit. Her message was "A Little Lesson in Human Relations." The chapter sang "Happy Birthday" to Elizabeth Daniels and Hazel Sherwood, who were celebrating birthdays in May. The Worthy Matron thanked her substitutes, Fogle, Deborah Raynovich, and Dottie Csamer; Joyce Anderson for refreshments; and Lillian Reckner for the music. Her closing thought was "Keep the Heart Beating."

Members of the Eastern Star and their families were invited to the Masons' Strawberry Night on Tuesday, May 28.

The next regular meeting will be June 4, when there will be a Father's Day program and a Flag Day tribute.

Clunes aren't winning 'Frontier House' fans

By Taylor Michaels

Adrienne Clune

Q: I found PBS' "Frontier House" amazing and disappointing at the same time: amazing, because of the hard work the producers invested to make it an authentic experience, and disappointing, because of the ignorance, childishness and lack of personal character some of the yuppie "pioneers" exhibited. Right now I just want to slap the Clunes! –Verna Elleen Radcliffe from Michigan.

A: Judging from my mail, you'd have to get in line. In fairness, however, it should be noted that reality shows of this nature – from "Frontier House" to "Survivor" – are drastically edited down from many more hours of footage to make the story as compelling as possible. The Clunes, the California family who came across pretty badly, might very well argue that the PBS miniseries left out footage that could have shown them in a more favorable light.

Q: I remember seeing Billy Bob Thornton on a TV show with John Ritter and Markie Post a few years ago. I don't remember his performance as all that memorable. How did he get from TV to the movies? –M. Ziegele, Hudson, Fla.

A: You're thinking of "Hearts Afire," a 1992-95 CBS sitcom in which Ritter and Post originally played a pair of bickering lovers working in the Washington, D.C., political arena, then – in a second-season format change – newlyweds who had moved back to his Southern hometown to run the local paper. Thornton played Ritter's childhood friend Billy Bob Davis.

The Arkansas native, who started out in the late 1980s with small movie roles, captured attention in 1991 by co-writing and co-starring in the movie thriller "One False Move." He became a major Hollywood player in 1996 with "Sling Blade," which he won an Oscar for writing, as well as a second nomination for his performance as mentally disabled Karl Childers. He also directed the critically acclaimed film.

Q: My family enjoyed "Under One Roof," which only aired twice. Will it be back? If not, who won the house? –Mindy via e-mail.

A: A United Paramount Network publicist says the game show, which was quickly yanked after pulling ghastly ratings in its first two installments, may return later in the summer. The contestants stopped playing after the show was pulled, so no one has been awarded the house as of yet.

Q: Is the guy who plays Danny on "The King of Queens" related to series star Kevin James in any way? –Julie via e-mail.

A: Yes, as a matter of fact. Gary Valentine is the real-life brother of Kevin James.

RYAN'S GLADE 4-H CLEAN UP — Several members and friends of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club met recently along White Church-Steyer Road for their annual trash clean-up. The young workers gathered trash on April 26, just a few days after Earth Day. Pictured in the front row, from left, are Zachery Pritts, Jennifer Steyer, and Andrea Steyer. In the second row, same order, are Nolan Marple, Gary Pritts, Tara Marple, Jessica Steyer, Carrie Steyer, Laura Pritts, Michael Steyer, and David Cummings. Third row: Gregory Tichnell, Brandon Manko, Dale Marple, Jeanine Cummings, and Andrew Pritts. Eric Tichnell is in the back. Other helpers not available for the photo were Nathan Tichnell, Faith Tichnell, and Katelyn Gnegy. In addition to accomplishing this annual community service project, the members planted flowers to further celebrate Earth Day.

THE SUN — Through the month of June, daily sunlight hours are nearly 15 hours. June opens with 5:52 a.m. sunrises and ends with 5:53 a.m. (The earliest sunrises occur in mid June when the sun first appears at 5:49 a.m.) Sunset times also scarcely change; early June sunsets are at 8:41 p.m. while late June sunsets are at 8:51 p.m. (year's latest sunsets). During June, the sun's midday height stays about 73 degrees (45 degrees is 1/2 way up while 90 degrees is directly overhead.) June 21 is the first day of summer when the sun rises farthest North, reaches its greatest height and sets farthest North.

THE MOON — June opens with a shrinking or waning moon in the morning sky. The moon is last seen at dawn on June 8 as a thin crescent low in the eastern dawn. The moon returns to the western dusk on June 12, appearing near the bright planet Jupiter. The next night the crescent moon will be near the brilliant planet Venus. The best time of the month to observe the moon's craters and mountains will be within a few days of June 17 when the moon will be about half-full (like a letter "D") with the maximum amount of shadows. The moon will be full on the 24th. June's full moon has the lowest sky path of any full moon of the year. When the moon or any other sky object appears low in the sky, the light has a much longer path, filtering out the blue and green components, so the moon often looks yellowish or orange. This is where we get the word "honeymoon." June ends with the moon seen only in the morning sky.

THE BRIGHT PLANETS — Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine more steadily than the twinkling night stars. But if a planet appears very close to the horizon or if it's windy, even the planet's light may flicker. Early June will see the two brightest planets, Venus and Jupiter, side by side in the western dusk. By mid June, Jupiter will have fallen lower than Venus. June ends with Venus the only conspicuous planet in the western dusk.

JUNE'S BEST SIGHTS — In June, you can divide the evening sky into two halves; the eastern half features the summer groups and stars while the western half displays the spring groups and stars. In the middle of the western sky is the star group Leo whose brighter stars form a hook. Very high in the western sky is the bright golden star Arcturus, the brightest star of the spring evening sky. Arcturus lies along the handle of the Big Dipper. In the East, the best star group is the Summer Triangle, made up of a trio of three bright stars. The brightest Triangle star is Vega, the summers evening's brightest star. The Big Dipper in the North is now coming down, with its two bottom stars pointing right and down to the North Star. Close to the northern horizon is Cassiopeia, which resembles the letter "W."

JUNE ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES — There are no regularly scheduled planetarium programs during the summer months. For information on our programs, call 301-687-4270 which will also give you directions on how to reach the planetarium. The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet on Friday, June 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the LaVale Public Library. All interested sky gazers from the tri-state area are welcome.

Dr. Bob Doyle directs the planetarium at Frostburg State University. Since the mid '70s, Doyle has been writing sky columns for beginners who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure/map, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle also hosts "SkyWatch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights, that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM, Frostburg State's radio station that transmits at 91.9 FM in eastern Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Dr. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Boaters Urged To Take Caution On Waterways

The Natural Resources Police are urging Marylanders to exercise caution when boating on the state's waterways during the busy summer boating season. "Boating provides countless hours of family recreation and fun," NRP Col. John W. Rhoads said. "But a fun trip can turn into a deadly one if boaters don't follow basic safety guidelines, the most vital being to wear a personal flotation device at all times, whether the boat is moving or not."

Rhoads also reminded boaters to follow these and other safety tips when embarking on water journeys this summer:

•Don't drink alcohol when operating a boat. NRP considers operating a vessel when intoxicated a serious concern to boaters and their safety. The legal blood alcohol level limit for driving and boating violations was lowered last year to .08.

•Use a float plan. Tell a responsible friend or relative where you are going and when you plan to return, making sure they have a complete description of the vessel. Always contact the person who has the float plan upon returning.

•Check the weather reports before leaving shore and remain watchful for signs of bad weather. Listen to National Weather Service Radio, and if a Small Craft Advisory is posted, get in to shore immediately as the winds are or will be too high to operate a vessel safely.

State law requires that individuals born after July 1, 1972, who wish to pilot a vessel in Maryland waters take a state-certified Boater Safety Course. Classes are free and offered year-round across the state, and information on an upcoming class at Garrett Community College in McHenry may be obtained by calling the college at 301-387-3000.

Last year, Maryland enacted a rule requiring all children under the age of 7 to wear a U.S. Coast Guard-approved personal flotation device while under way on a recreational vessel less than 21 feet in length on Maryland waters. Recreational vessels include motorboats, sailboats, canoes, kayaks, rowboats, and any other device capable of being used for transport on the water, when the vessel is being used for other than commercial purposes. The life jacket must be the proper size for the child and must be in good and serviceable condition. This requirement does not apply when a vessel is moored or anchored, or when a child is below deck or in an enclosed cabin.

For additional boating safety tips, persons may visit DNR's boating regulations web site at www.dnr.state.md.us\boating\regulations\sast.

State Board Of Ed. Approves Kindergarten Start Date Plan

Children will have to be at least 5 years of age by September 1 before being allowed to start kindergarten, under a plan approved last week by the Maryland State Board of Education. This change will be phased in over the next four years.

The change in start date will begin its phase-in this fall for preK students, and in 2003-2004 for kindergarteners.

Currently, kindergarten students must be at least 5 years of age on or before December 31 to enter school in the fall. The change in the kindergarten rule will be phased in as follows:

•October 31, 2004, for those children entering during the 2004-2005 school year.

•September 30, 2005, for those children entering during the 2005-2006 school year.

•September 1, 2006, for those children entering during the 2006-2007 school year.

The September 1 date will continue to be used thereafter for students entering kindergarten.

For preK, the transition will begin this fall. Until this year, preK students must be at least 4 years of age on or before December 31 to begin school in the fall. The preK rule will be phased in as follows:

•October 31, 2003, for those children entering during the 2003-2004 school year.

•September 30, 2004, for those children entering during the 2004-2005 school year.

•September 1, 2005, for those children entering during the 2005-2006 school year.

Again, the September 1 date will be used thereafter for students entering preK.

The board's action concluded a process that began last December. The board at that time received a proposal to change the age of school attendance from the Maryland Kindergarten Committee, a panel of educators and parents co-chaired by Jacqueline Haas, superintendent of the Harford County Public Schools, and Toni Ungaretti, an assistant professor at Johns Hopkins University.

After preliminary approval by the board, the regulations were issued on March 22. A public hearing was held last month, and the board voted unanimously last week to finalize the regulations.

"The academic rigor of the kindergarten classroom has been building over time," Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick said. "It is our goal that students enter Maryland schools ready to learn, and this measure is an important step in that direction."

Local boards of education may adopt regulations permitting a 4-year-old child, upon request by the parent or guardian, to be admitted to kindergarten if the local system determines that the child demonstrates the capabilities warranting early admission. In addition, the regulations maintain the option for parents to request a "Level of Maturity Waiver" for the local board to exempt from mandatory attendance for one year a kindergarten eligible child.

What changes with electric choice and what doesn't?
A. You'll get to choose your electricity supplier, while delivery over poles and wires remains the same.
In the past, your entire electric service was provided by your local electric utility. With electric competition, the three main parts of electric service – generation, transmission and distribution – are separated. As the market develops, you will be able to choose the company that provides the generation of your electricity. This company is called an electricity supplier. Transmission and distribution services include the actual delivery of electricity over poles and wires and will continue to be provided by your local utility. Your utility is now called your electric company. They are the ones to call if the power goes out, just as you always have. Got questions about electric competition? Give us a call or visit our web site!

Collecting

by Larry Cox

If you're planning to head out to the antique malls and stores this weekend, keep these things in mind:

• First, when buying a valuable collectible, always insist on a certificate of authenticity from the dealer.

• Demand a money-back guarantee and get that guarantee in writing, so that if a problem arises later, there's no misunderstanding about refunds or store policies. If you wish, ask the dealer if you can get a second opinion.

• If a dealer doesn't cooperate or if you have an uneasy feeling, walk away.

Q. I have several chests of older tools. Most of them belonged to my grandpa, who was a woodworker during the 1920s. In addition to wooden planes, I have various clamps and hand-forged tools. Where can I find a buyer? — *Steve, New York

A. In recent years, tools have become one of America's most popular collectibles. Milt Boyd has collected and written extensively about wooden clamps, or hand screws. His e-mail address is clampguy@aol.com.

John Whelan is the author of "Wooden Plane: Its History, Form, and Function." Although he does not buy planes, his book might be helpful and may be ordered by contacting him at 38 Colony Court, Murray Hill, NJ 07974. His e-mail address is jmwhelwdpl@aol.com.

Gifts for Pet Owners

Q. My sister and her children love pets — they already have two cats and an aquarium, and they plan to adopt a puppy for my nephew's birthday. What sort of gift should I buy my nephew that would relate to his love of pets? — *Janice D., Omaha, Neb.

A. A dog-related gift would be perfect. Before going to the pet store, however, contact your sister and ask what sort of supplies (like a leash and collar, another food dish, etc.) the new puppy needs. That way, you won't be giving an identical gift.

Once you know what's needed, you can plan a great gift for your nephew and the new puppy. A gift basket filled with puppy treats, sample packets of dog food, chew toys (all appropriate for the dog's age), a pocket-sized book on puppy training and a new collar and leash would be a great gift.

If price is not a big issue, consider a larger gift. A water dish with a built-in reservoir is a good gift for an energetic puppy; as the dish empties, water flows down from the reservoir to refill it. Weighted food-and-water bowls prevent spills and ensure that the puppy has enough to drink on hot summer days. A cushioned doggy bed or a tie-down stake for the yard are also nice gifts.

Consider a book about dogs. "Puppy Training for Kids" by Sarah Whitehead (Barron's, $12.95) is an entertaining and informative full-color book. It's part of the Barron's Educational Series and is available at bookstores. (The series just released a second book, "Kitten Training for Kids," which might make a good companion piece for a family that also has cats.) Or, consider a book like "Pup," a beautiful collection of black-and-white photographs of puppies by Deborah Samuel (Chronicle Books, $14.95).

No matter what gift you choose, your nephew will be thrilled. And so will his new friend.

Potential Harmful Interactions Between Herbs and Medicines

More and more Americans are using herbal medicines for a variety of reasons and in care or prevention of numerous health problems. Although some properly prepared herbal medicines have been shown to be effective in select health problems, herbal medicines have side effects. Some individuals think, "If it's natural, it can't hurt you." They are wrong. Consider tobacco, hemlock, the poisonous mushrooms, cocaine, opium, and poison ivy.

In addition to causing adverse effects, potentially harmful interactions may occur between herbs and both prescription and nonprescription medicines. Following are select interactions recently published in Archives of Internal Medicine.

St. John wort may interact with popular antidepressants; kelp may interfere with thyroid replacement therapies; feverfew, garlic, Ginkgo, ginger, and ginseng may alter bleeding time and should not be used with the anticoagulant warfarin.

Washing Winter Away

"Look at this. I had forgotten how colorful these cushions are!" It's a sure sign that winter is past when we pull the lawn furniture out of our musty basement or the dusty garage and hose away the winter cobwebs. It's hard to remember from one summer to the next the bright flowered patterns of spring. And the garden... "Now what is that tiny plant? I can't remember what I planted last summer. Oh well, I will feed it and water it and be surprised."

Yes, in spring our spirits are awash with excitement. The coats are back in the closet. We feel as light and free as the first birds on our feeder. Though spring comes every year, that first warm day, the birth of a new generation of baby bulbs... and baby birds; all of these seem surprisingly new.

Maybe you have forgotten what it is to feel light and free. Spring can enter your heart whatever the weather or season when you worship God and discover His strength and peace. "He leads me beside still waters. He restores my soul." (Psalms 23:2-3)

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

For the next nine weeks we will dealing with the Book of Psalms. Next to some of the sayings of Jesus, the Psalms are the most frequently remembered and quoted scriptures for Christians. The reason, of course, is that so many of them speak to us in our own life situations.

While we are studying some of these psalms, let us remember that this book is an anthology of hymns and prayers or liturgies that were composed between the tenth and second or third centuries BC. It is often referred to as the hymn book of the Bible. These songs and poems were probably intended to accompany acts of worship in the temple. Though the psalms may seem quite similar, there are eight different types: Enthronement Hymn (celebrating the Lord's kingship), Songs of Zion (devotion to the Holy City), Laments (seeking deliverance), Songs of Trust, Thanksgivings, Sacred History (recounting God's dealing with the nation), Royal Psalms (for a coronation or royal wedding), and Wisdom Songs (meditations on life and the ways of God).

To Perish or Prosper

At the time that the book was assembled, Psalm 1, a wisdom psalm, was probably selected to serve as an introduction, preface or prologue to the whole collection. The message reflects typical Old Testament teaching: the righteous prosper and the wicked perish. Immediately, some of us protest. What about Job? What about Jesus? What about most of the Apostles?

The psalmists would, I think, readily admit that there have been, are and will be exceptions and for some of the righteous the prospering came and comes in a more ultimate form. So living in a righteous manner does not guarantee a life of untrammeled good fortune, but, taking into consideration large numbers of people, those who live in a righteous manner will tend to be "blessed," as Psalm 1 indicates. A number of polls and studies support this concept, indicating that people who attend worship with some regularity are happier, healthier and more productive. They have also determined that couples who pray together generally have happier and more fulfilling marriages.

When we were children some of us grumbled, probably silently, that our parents made us go to church whether we wanted to, or not. Some of us may even have vowed that, when we would become parents, we would not force our children into this family pattern. Of course, many do not, but often I am surprised and amused to find parents requiring of their children what they themselves as children resisted.

In The Long Run

Why? Because, no matter how we may have reacted as children or youth, as adults we often realize that life needs a spiritual base. That does not mean that you and your family are guaranteed to escape all tribulations, but that in the long run your lives will be significantly blessed by the life of which the psalmist is writing. Sometimes that spiritual life is all that may keep you going when life seems to fall down around you.

The psalmist says "Blessed is the man..." and it means "Oh how happy the one who walks not in the counsel of the wicked ....but his delight is in the law of the Lord..." (1:2). We may think

Stutzman Lawn To Be Among Those On "Secret Country Gardens" Tour

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will host its annual tour on Saturday, June 29, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Included in this year's event will be the garden of Mark and Laura Stutzman, located along G Street in Mountain Lake Park.

Moving to Mountain Lake Park over 12 years ago with his family, Mark Stutzman (pictured above) said he found many challenges with both the garden itself and the mountain growing season. Adjusting his expectations and keeping plenty of fertilizer on hand, Stutzman has surrounded his Victorian house in an English country style. With new French drains and the removal of overgrown plants, the present garden incorporates a path around the house. Among a few of the sights visitors will see are a patio, raised beds of perennials and herbs, and a hydrangea hedge.

"I like a garden to surround me like a blanket of green, offering serenity and seclusion," Stutzman said. "It also needs to have a structure that creates obvious areas of function, invites meandering, and allows for expansion."

A visit to this garden setting in historic Mountain Lake Park can be enjoyed during this third annual garden tour, sponsored by the club, a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. The tour will feature a total of five gardens.

Tickets, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $5 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland and in Terra Alta, W.Va., and the Deep Creek Pharmacy at Deep Creek Lake, or, on the day of the event, at the Gazebo in Oakland.

Proceeds from the tour will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of area communities, as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information, persons may contact Judy McLeod at 301-387-9015 or Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249.

Local Teacher Nominated For Maryland Award

Elizabeth Rees Gilbert, science, language, and social studies teacher at Swan Meadow School, was recently nominated by the Garrett County school system as a candidate for Maryland's Teacher of the Year award for 2002-2003.

Gilbert was among two dozen teachers in Maryland who were introduced to the Maryland Board of Education recently as candidates for the award. "Each year, I have the pleasure and the honor of introducing to the board some of the finest educators our state has to offer," said Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent. "And each year I am more impressed with their quality, dedication, and determination to do the best job they can to educate our children."

The teachers represent all levels of Maryland education and each vies for the title of Maryland Teacher of the Year. A panel including representatives from the Maryland State Department of Education, the Maryland General Assembly, and key education associations will review comprehensive packets submitted by each teacher and chose seven finalists. Those candidates will be interviewed and will make an oral presentation before the judging panel.

The Teacher of the Year will be selected in September. The winner receives a cash award, the use of a brand new car for one year, and will be considered for national Teacher of the Year honors.

Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend conducted a forum on teacher retention with the candidates before their introduction to the state board.

The Maryland State Department of Education directs the Teacher of the Year program in cooperation with the Maryland Business Roundtable for Education.

MTN. GLADE SERVICES DONATES TO DOVE CENTER — Mountain Glade Adult Day Services participants and staff have found two ways to assist the Dove Center in its mission of service to women and children who have been victimized by domestic violence and sexual abuse. The facility's "giving jar" produced $90 in coins and currency that was donated to the center to purchase needed supplies, and a community quilt project is under way as well. A volunteer purchased the quilting materials, pieced it together, and helped put it into a quilt frame. Volunteers, participants, and community groups are being asked to help in the quilting process. When finished in the fall, the quilt will be used as a fund-raiser for the center. Pictured with some of the supplies purchased with giving jar proceeds are Ethel Gerard, seated, and standing from the left are Nellie Hare, Dove Center executive director Heather Hanline, and Richard Kolb.

GCC Students Selected For Who's Who

The 2002 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges will include the names of 18 students from Garrett Community College who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders.

Students named this year from Garrett Community College are: Jared Broadwater, Daniel Dockary, Sharon Elliott, Henry Elsea, Mary Evans, Amanda Freeland, Melanie Harvey, Lisa Jones, Jessica Lyons, Heather Miller, Donna Pope, Eric Preston, Jackie Resh, Haiku Sikka, Vance Slagle, Lauren Stillwagon, Reeda Tuula, and Marcie Wilt.

These GCC students join an elite group of students from more than 2,300 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations. Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of Who's Who students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

Outstanding students have been noted in the annual Who's Who directory since it was first published in 1966.

Students Given State Recognition For Academics

Hundreds of Maryland's top students are being honored this spring in special in-state ceremonies to celebrate their academic abilities. Two of those honored are residents of Garrett County.

Locally, two children were among the top scoring youngsters. They are Adam Fitzwater and Jordan Schwinabart, both students at Broad Ford Elementary School.

The students participated in a national "talent search" sponsored by the Johns Hopkins University Center for Talented Youth (CTY). Founded in 1979, CTY identifies America's top students in grades five through eight and provides programs, services, and resources to help them make the most of their abilities. (CTY's web site: www.jhu.edu/gifted).

These bright young people were invited to participate in CTY's talent search because they scored at the 97th percentile or higher on school standardized tests. They then took additional above-grade-level exams, which yielded further information about the verbal and mathematical reasoning abilities of these learners.

Seventh and eighth graders who took the college SAT and scored approximately in the top 26 percent compared to all students in the search were recognized at awards ceremonies. Fifth and sixth graders who took the PLUS Academic Abilities Assessment and scored approximately in the top 38 percent were honored at Celebrations of Talent. Both ceremonies recognized students who scored in the top 15 percent of students taking CTY's Spatial Test Battery (STB), a test assessing spatial reasoning.

Patricia Owen, Director of CTY's Talent Search, credits schools for helping make families aware of Hopkins' programs. "School counselors, principals, and others who encourage participation clearly are advocates for academic excellence, and we join the children's families in expressing our thanks to them for expanding the academic opportunities of Maryland's brightest youth," she said.

Ceremonies were held at the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, earlier this month. Over 86,000 students from 19 states and the District of Columbia participated in the talent searches offered in 2002 through CTY.

Salem School To Start Formal Study Of Swamp

Salem School will be starting a formal study of Wolf Swamp, the wetland owned in part by Salem and in part by the Nature Conservancy of Maryland.

"We plan to utilize the swamp and surrounding areas for a non-invasive study of basic scientific concepts and ecological principals," said classroom teacher Phyllis Jordan, who is also a naturalist. Jordan, who has already used the swamp informally as a class-room, spent four years as a park naturalist at Rocky Gap State Park in the employ of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

She has put together a plan of study which will provide students with a broad base of knowledge and hone their appreciation for the natural environment. "Enjoyment of the natural world will lead to a desire for conservation," notes the study outline, which includes: observation and naturalist journalizing of plants, animal tracks and signs, and macroinvertebrates; classification of organisms; use of scientific keys to identify specimens; graphing and organization of data; and water velocity studies.

Jordan, who holds degrees in earth science, general science, and secondary education from Frostburg State University, came to Salem from the Bishop Walsh schools where she taught a range of science classes to high school and middle school students. She has been at Salem for four years.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Ensign Brenton E. Helbig, grandson of Gene C. Helbig, Oakland, recently received his commission as a naval officer after completing Officer Candidate School (OCS) at Naval Aviation Schools Command, Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.

During the 13-week-long training program, Helbig received extensive instruction on a variety of specialized subjects, including navigation, ship handling, engineering, naval warfare, and management. Helbig also completed a demanding daily physical fitness program that involved running, swimming, and calisthenics.

In addition, Helbig and fellow OCS graduates received leadership training and instruction on the importance of the Navy's core values — honor, courage, and commitment; and how their meaning impacts the personal and professional conduct of the men and women serving in the Navy around the world.

Helbig is a 1989 graduate of Richard Montgomery High School of Rockville. He joined the Navy in March 1993.

SCOUTS OFFERING RELAY WALKING SERVICE — Putting a new twist on the Scout motto of "Do a good turn daily," Boy Scouts of Oakland's Troop 22 will again be available to walk for others at the annual Garrett County Relay for Life, set for Friday and Saturday, June 7-8, at the Southern High School track. The Scouts are ready to take their turns on the track, and will take donations throughout the night to walk for others who are unable or just too tired to walk. Last year, Troop 22 collected nearly $500 by volunteering to walk for others, with most of the business coming after midnight when people were getting really tired, according to assistant senior patrol leader Brendan Stephens. In addition to walking for others, the Scouts will also be responsible for collecting trash throughout the night. To make reservations for the Scout walking service, persons may call Bob Stephens at 301-334-8647 between 6 and 10 p.m. Some of the willing walkers shown above, from the left, are Michael McConnell, Adam Fitzwater, Brian Teeter, Brian Georg, Brendan Stephens, Matt Gorley, Matt White, Royce Warnick, Evan Savopoulos, and Michael Varner.

Maryland Farmers Have Dry Week For Field Work

With the exception of a few light showers, Maryland farmers had a dry week last week, with 5.9 days suitable for field work. Temperatures to start the week were about 15 degrees below the average, a continuation of the previous week's cool weather. Frost damage to corn and vegetables has been reported in some areas. By week's end, however, temperatures warmed up to normal. In general, last week's conditions were good for progressing planting and harvesting activities.

Hay harvest has advanced significantly over the previous week and with good quality. Alfalfa hay harvest has surpassed the half-way mark with 69 percent harvested, 35 percent ahead of the previous week, 21 percent ahead of last year, and 18 percent ahead of the five-year average. Fifty percent of all other hay has been harvested, moving 21 percent ahead of the previous week, 9 percent ahead of last year, and 10 percent ahead of the average.

The dry weather has also allowed farmers to bring corn planting near completion. Corn is now 94 percent planted, 14 percent more than the previous week, 6 percent ahead of last year, and 7 percent of the five-year average. Corn emerged is 76 percent, 13 percent more than the previous week, 8 percent ahead of last year, and 35 percent ahead of average.

Frost Damage on Barley and Wheat

Whenever temperatures drop to 30° F at this time of year barley and wheat are vulnerable to freezing injury. Barley and wheat fields that are in the boot stage can take colder temperatures than when the heads have emerged. At the boot stage, the head is covered by the leaf sheath of the flag leaf that gives some protection, but some damage may occur when the temperature drops to 28° F or lower for more than two hours. The type of injury varies with exposure time, but floret sterility could result or the heads could be trapped in the boot. Heads may be distorted as they attempt to emerge as the stems elongate. Newly emerged heads are quite vulnerable to freezing injury when the temperature drops to 30° F or below. Signs of freezing injury can be seen within a few days after freezing. Injury can occur to the entire head or only a portion of the head. Most frequently the head tip is injured. Damaged florets will turn white and the tissues will shrivel. Yield loss will be minimal if only the top florets of the head are injured; otherwise, if entire heads are affected, the loss may be proportional to the number of heads killed. If most of the grain heads are dead you may consider harvesting for silage.

Frost Damage on Corn

Most of this corn should recover soon. One of the best ways to determine the viability of frost-damaged corn is to wait 3-5 days and then examine the growing point for evidence of regrowth, which will be light green in color. The growing points should be firm and yellowish white and not mushy. On smaller plants, there will usually be evidence of new growth emerging from the whorl by then. Generally, yield loss from frost is less when the growing point is below ground, when it is protected from frost. Try to be patient when assessing the effects of the frost damage on the crop.

Farmer's Market at Deep Creek Lake???

There is interest in establishing a Farmer's Tailgate Market for fruits, vegetables, ornamentals, baked goods, crafts, etc., in the Deep Creek Lake area. If you would be interested in participating as a producer call the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office at 301-3346960. Neighboring counties are welcome.

Wildlife Tips

Moles and voles are very active now. Where voles are a problem try using snap traps baited with apples. Moles can be controlled by collapsing old tunnels and installing spear traps in new runways that appear. Moles are continuously feeding on soil insects. If you eliminate the food supply by applying a soil insecticide such as diazinon you can reduce the population.

This is snake mating season, their most active time of the year. Snakes are beneficial animals and should not be harmed. Garter snakes are beneficial and are emerging at this time. They are brown or black with yellow stripes down their backs. It is unlikely that you will encounter copperheads or timber rattlesnakes in your landscape. These are the only two poisonous snakes in Maryland.

Remove bird nests attached to your house after the birds have left to prevent problems with bird mites coming into your home. These small mites do bite people. Bird nests may also be found in rain gutters and chimneys. Keep birdbaths clean, and provide birds with fresh food and water.

Where deer are feeding on garden and landscape plants, apply a repellent, such as "Deer-Away," "Hinder" or "Ro-Pel" to vulnerable plants. Taste-based repellents tend to work better than smell-based repellents. If deer pressure is heavy, try rotating repellents.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS
Time spent at work is an important part of most people's everyday lives. This makes the workplace an ideal environment and opportunity for encouraging good mental health.
Positive mental health messages can help relieve everyday stresses at work that can cause problems that affect employees personally and professionally. The war abroad and uncertain economy can create additional anxiety for workers by heightening fear about travel and threats to job security, among other issues. Employees often look for support from co-workers, employee assistance programs and other employer sponsored programs.
A happy workforce is a productive workforce. Call the Mental Health Center and ask about employee assistance programs. Good mental health is good for the bottom line.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Phillip and Sondra Buckel's son Jerry and wife Amy hosted a pig roast to celebrate Phillip's 50th birthday on Saturday afternoon. Guests included Amy's parents from Arlington, Va., and brother Gary, and Sharon Buckel and their beautiful daughters, who were up for the weekend — Candi from Annapolis and Leslie from Ashburn, Va. Also here for the weekend and party were Phillip's and Gary's brother David and wife Donna from Lexington, Ky. Approximately 50 people were present.

The setting was at the Western Maryland 4-H Center where Phillip is the caretaker. What a beautiful setting for any kind of outdoor celebration. The picnic area is under a grove of big old hardwood trees, and just down the hill from the picnic area is the public swimming area. When I was young we used to call it "Pleasant Valley," but the old timers called it "The Farm." The real name for the lake is "Cunningham Lake," which is named after a family who had a large plantation in the early 1800s. Scattered around the rolling hills are some old stone foundations, and someone told me they used to be the slaves' quarters which were used for raising tobacco. I guess they found out that our climate was too cool and has too short a growing season for raising that crop. But that was a long time ago and now "The Farm" just has a large plantation of large pine trees and, of course, the lake, even though the lake is now filled with water weeds and the shore hosts a large flock of permanent resident Canada geese. Still, it is a beautiful scene. During the Depression of the 1930s the CCC built the dam and the many stone and log pavilions and shelters, as well as the cabins for the 4-H Camp across the lake.

Larry and Lana Roby from Coldwell Bankers Realtors donated the American flags that were placed along the roads in the Rock Lodge Road and Rt. 495 areas. I thought that the Youth Group of Emmanuel placed the flags for them, but know that my mother Ruth and granddaughter, Emma Bass, put them up along Rock Lodge Road from Mosser Road down to Rt. 495. They try to help out every year.

About 50 faithful people were on hand for the Memorial Day service at the Bittinger Cemetery conducted by Grantsville American Legion Post #214. And of course, like every year, the band kids from Bittinger joined the rest of Northern High School Marching Band to participate in parades held in Accident and Grantsville. It is always an exhausting morning for the band, especially when the weather is so hot.

Kevin Bass and sons Matthew and Scotty, and daughter Emma, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bass at the house of his sister, Kyler, in Altoona, Pa., Saturday and Sunday. They returned in time to catch the tail end of the Memorial Day party in the Cove at the home of cousin, Courtney Englar. Several old friends of his and his brother Mike came up from the Westminster area. Although Courtney got an e-mail from our world traveler, Joe V, that he planned to return in time from Egypt to come up for the party, he didn't quite make it. So I guess the long distance award would go to Aunt Dot Quaintance, who drove down from upstate New York.

I saw a few nice hay fields cut last weekend and early this week, but it does not look very good for those poor farmers to get them in before it gets rained on. Right now I hear a distant rumble of thunder and see the coming rain. All this rain is bad for both those who are behind in their spring plantings and those who start early on haymaking. Very few people have gotten their gardens planted yet, and those who did get them in early must have suffered some severe frost damage. The flat of impatiens that my girls got me for Mother's Day and which I covered almost every night really got burned, as on that really cold night I slipped up on covering them. I don't know whether they will recover or not, but they don't look promising.

I know that my lilac bush and one big beautiful one behind Buckel's Store really got set back a few weeks ago. I am also concerned about our fruit crops this year, as our apple tree was in full bloom when the couple bad frosts hit a few weeks ago. Sheila Southerly told me that the shrubs at the church got nipped. However, she blames the deer that ate all her new shoots of her Black-Eyed Susan plants, and the pesky bears for knocking off some robin's nests, probably to eat their eggs.

Speaking of wild birds, my bird feeder was empty for several weeks because I had trouble finding the birds food of choice, thistle seeds. If you want to attract gold finch, purple finch, or house finch, tufted tit mouse, and all the most beautiful small birds, you need to put thistle seed out for them. I finally found a bag of it at Frantz True Value Hardware Store in Accident and now outside of my window is a blur of yellow, green, red, and purple. My hummingbirds are happy and are really feeding well.

Hazel and Wayne Gonier, Hagerstown, visited her mother, Kathryn Bowser, over the holiday.

Everyone I talk to about this spring weather agrees that we have had a strange season here in Bittinger. It seems a very late cold weather appeared and we had many May frosts. Then suddenly we got hot and muggy weather, so the plague of house flies was earlier than usual. I will have to call Sheila to see whether the deer flies are back yet. Yes, Sheila did get buzzed by one yesterday as she took a walk to gather wild flowers to take to the graveyard. She also saw three bears in her flower bed and on top of her picnic table. They probably were attracted by the scents of leftovers from a picnic for a birthday party for Tyler on Sunday afternoon. Yes, we have another 13-year-old teenager. His guests, of course, were mainly boys who played baseball in the back yards.

I also report that my mother was coming home from church Sunday and a fairly large black bear ran across the road in front of her and over the split rail fence in Brenneman's Grove. He sauntered in the grove before finally moving on. My brother Barry also saw one on Rock Lodge Road towards the lake. Kevin Bass and children encountered one on the way over to Courtney's house in the Cove in late afternoon.

Mrs. Alberta Nolder and daughter, Arlene Meyers, and her daughters from Baltimore, visited Harriett and Ken Buckel on Sunday afternoon.

UPCOMING EVENTS

The Windy Ridge Hoedown will be singing at the Bethesda Church of the Brethren on Rt. 495 (six miles from Grantsville) on Sunday, June 9, at 7 p.m. The public is invited, and refreshments will follow the program.

The second chicken barbecue of this season will be held at the Bittinger fire hall on Saturday, June 8, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Salisbury, PA 15558

This project is a joint study between Maryland State Highway and Penn Dot. The total project limits are I-68 (MD) to Meyersdale (PA). The Maryland study portion will develop and evaluate improvements to US 219 from I-68 to the Pennsylvania State line in Garrett County. The Project Planning phase includes agency and public involvement: the review of all reasonable alternatives, including the No-Build alternative; as well as social, economic and natural environmental impacts. As part of the public involvement activities, and consistent with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, comments are invited regarding historic properties in the project area.

The purpose of this meeting is to acquaint the public with the need for the project, the progress of the study to date and to provide an opportunity for citizen involvement before the Project Planning process begins. Displays describing the various aspects of the project will be available beginning at 5:00 p.m. Representatives of the State Highway Administration and Penn Dot will be available to discuss the project and to answer questions. No formal presentation will be given.

All interested individuals are invited to attend the meeting and to express their views regerding the project. Forms for written comments will be available at the meeting.

Citizen involvement in the Project Planning phase is encouraged. Written comments and requests to be included on the project planning mailing list may be submitted to Russell Walto, Project Manager, Project Planning Division, C-301, State Highway Administration, P.O. Box 717, Baltimore, Maryland 21203-0717, by calling 410-545-8547, toll free at 1-800-548-5026, or by email at rwalto@sha.state.md.us. Those persons on the project planning mailing list will be kept informed of the project development and the opportunity for public involvement as the study progresses.

HEARING IMPAIRED/NON-ENGLISH SPEAKING PERSONS: If anyone who is hearing impaired desires to attend this meeting, please notify the project manager at the State Highway Administration in writing or teletype to 1-800-735-2258 (Statewide toll free). Non-English speaking persons who wish to attend should notify the same address or call 410-545-8547. All requests for an oral, sign language interpreter must be received by June 10, 2002. ### "HAT PASS" FUND-RAISER

This year's "Hat Pass" fund-raiser at SHS to help Relay for Life was a big success. Thanks to a $150 donation from Jane Avery and her students in the Keepsake Project, support from several teachers, a lot of students who paid to wear a hat (or just because they wanted to help out), and support from the community, we raised a total of $512 for Relay for Life. There will be a drawing on Tuesday for all staff and students who donated. We're giving away a "movie package" with dinner (donated by McDonalds), two movie tickets (compliments of Garrett 8 Cinemas), popcorn, drinks, candy (donated by the SHS Peer Helpers), and dessert (compliments of Lakeside Creamery).

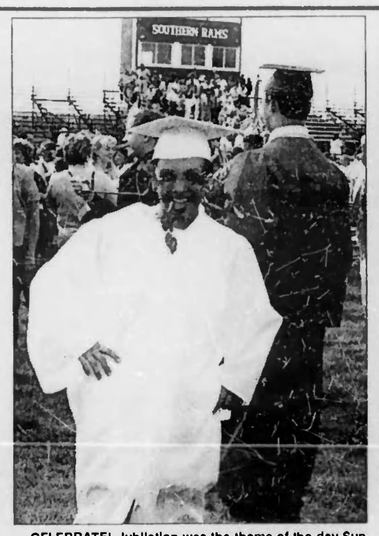
Four Face Drug Charges After McHenry Stop

Two adults and two juveniles face drug charges after suspected marijuana and psilocybin mushrooms were located in their car during a traffic stop in McHenry late Friday night, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police.

At approximately 11:45 p.m., a 1999 Chevrolet Cavalier was stopped for an equipment violation on Garrett Highway south of Friendsville Road. The odor of suspected burnt marijuana was noted coming from the vehicle, and a search revealed that two of the vehicle's four occupants, John Patrick Rohlich, 18, Seaford, Del., and 22-year-old Melissa Dawn Glenn, of Bridgeville, Del., both possessed the suspected contraband.

A further search found that the 16-year-old driver possessed suspected marijuana, and a 17-year-old passenger was in the possession of the suspected psychedelic mushrooms. A pair of smoking pipes were also located inside the car.

Rohlich and Glenn were released from jail after each posted a $500 bond as set by a district court commissioner. The juveniles were released to responsible adults.



CELEBRATE! Jubilation was the theme of the day Sunday afternoon as 299 Garrett County students earned their high school diplomas and celebrated their success. Southern high graduate Gina Reeves is pictured at left as she does her own dance of joy, and mother Brenda Frazee is shown at right perhaps performing her very last gesture of high school "support" for her daughter Bridget, a graduate of Northern. The skies were clear and the breeze pleasant for both outdoor ceremonies, held at the schools' respective athletic fields in the presence of family and friends who literally packed the stands. ## GC Relay For Life Readies To Step Off Against Cancer

Over 1,000 walkers are expected for this weekend's Garrett County Relay for life, slated to get under way with a 7 p.m. opening ceremony tomorrow night (Friday, June 7) at the Southern High School track in Oakland, and continue through the night and next morning until the 11 a.m. closing ceremonies.

This marks the fourth annual GC Relay for Life, and organizers have set a goal of $172,000 for the event, the signature fundraiser for the American Cancer Society. At this point approximately 80 teams have signed up to participate, and organizers are hoping to field a total of 100 teams by the opening ceremony tomorrow evening. (Sign up details appear below.)

"The relay is a celebration of life honoring cancer survivors while also remembering those who have passed away from cancer, and proclaiming hope for a cancer-free future," said a Cancer Society spokesperson. "The event generates a community atmosphere created by team members camping out, spending time with family and friends, enjoying entertainment, and sharing food, games, and camaraderie."

Teams and individuals may continue to sign up to participate in the relay until the 7 p.m. opening ceremonies. The registration tent will be located at the main entrance to the track, and event staff will be wearing lime green T-shirts. Participants are asked to obtain pledges of any amount for their efforts and pay a small entry fee. Teams are assigned campsites in or around the track, where team members may put up tents. The site is a team's "home base" for the event, during which members take turns walking or jogging around the track, making sure to keep at least one team member on the track for the duration of the relay.

The festivities will begin with the survivors' buffet dinner at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow, sponsored by Garrett Community College. Following the dinner will be the traditional survivors' lap at 7 p.m., in which local cancer survivors, wearing colored sashes, kick off the overnight relay by taking the first ceremonial lap around the track. The survivors will be individually called to the track as the number of years they have survived cancer is announced.

Survivors who would like to attend the dinner and/or participate in the first lap may contact relay chairperson Linda Fike at 301-387-3049. "I'm really excited to be the event chairperson for the first time this year," Fike commented. "Relay is such a worthwhile cause, and it's amazing what a small county such as Garrett County can do for the

The box car costume contest, set for 9:30 a.m. Saturday, tests racers' creativity with a materials list of one large carton, five paper plates, tape, crayons, markers, and scissors. Participants are encouraged to bring their materials to the track and construct their "race cars" there with the help of teammates and friends. ## Baltimore Man Sentenced For Attempted Theft

A Baltimore man pleaded guilty in Garrett County Circuit Court last week to a charge of attempted theft over $500. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Ronald Allen Francisco, 30, to one year at the Department of Corrections.

He was charged by officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation in November 2000. Francisco and two others were observed by a Grantsville-area couple who were awakened by their dog's barking and looked outside to see the trio preparing to load a 1985 Kawasaki four-wheeler into the back of a U-Haul van.

Realizing they had been seen, the group fled. The trio was later stopped for traffic violations in Allegany County by Maryland State Police, who obtained identifying information from Francisco, the driver of the vehicle.

Information To Be Presented On 219 N. Project

A "kickoff" informational meeting has been slated for Monday, June 17, from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Salisbury (Pa.) Borough Community Room to provide initial information on the proposed highway improvement project for U.S. Route 219 North from Interstate 68 into Pennsylvania. The meeting is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation, which is heading up the upcoming project study in conjunction with the Maryland State Highway Administration. Local elected officials and MSHA representatives are planning to attend.

The open house community meeting is also designed to give "area residents the chance to express their views on the project," according to spokesperson. Display boards will show the preliminary design concepts and layout of the project. The options considered range from a four-lane highway to a no-build option, as social, economic,

GCHD Reports Third Rabies Case For 2002

The Environmental Health Services of the Garrett County Health Department has reported the third case of laboratory confirmed rabies in the county for the year 2002.

A raccoon fought with and was killed by a dog on May 22, according to the report. The dog was vaccinated against the disease. The raccoon carcass was sent to the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's rabies laboratory in Baltimore.

After the rabies infection in the raccoon was confirmed, the exposed dog was given a vaccine booster and will be observed closely for 45 days, a spokesperson said. There was no human exposure in the incident.

Pet owners are urged to check the vaccination status of their dogs, cats, and ferrets. The health department will hold its second series of clinics for this year June 10-13. The clinics will be held at locations throughout the county. The vaccines are $5 each.

For more information about rabies or the vaccination clinics, persons may contact Environmental Health Services at 301-334-7760.

Rabies Clinics Scheduled By Health Dept.

The Garrett County Health Department has slated its first series of low cost rabies clinics for the vaccination of cats, dogs, and ferrets from Monday, June 10, through Thursday, June 13. So far this year three positive rabies cases have been confirmed in Garrett County, which matches the total of last year's confirmed cases.

The clinics will be offered according to the following schedule: Monday at the Bittinger fire hall; Tuesday at the Garrett Community College maintenance bay; Wednesday at the Deer Park fire hall; and Thursday at the Eastern Garrett fire hall in Finzel.

The clinics are set from 5 to 6 p.m. each evening, except for Thursday's clinic in Finzel, which will take place from 6 to 7 p.m.

The vaccination cost is $5 per animal, and county dog licenses will be available at each clinic. Dogs should be on a leash and under the control of a responsible individual. Cats and ferrets should be brought to the clinic in a cage or a tightly secured box with air holes.

Commission For Handicapped Addresses Parking Space Misuse

The newly formed Garrett County Commission for the Handicapped recently discussed concerns about the abuse and misuse of handicapped parking for physically challenged individuals. According to Thomas Bratten, chairman of the commission, the problem seems to be increasing, and some people are even apparently hanging fake handicapped parking permits from their rearview mirrors.

"Is the increased misuse another symptom of the rudening of America with more people only caring about themselves, just plain laziness, or is it a lack of understanding?" are some of the explanations for misuse that the commission considered.

"Probably all of the above," said Howard Gerard, commission member, adding that rationalization should be added to the list. "You know people say to themselves, 'I'll only be in for a minute,' 'There are plenty of other spaces,' and so forth," said Gerard about some able-bodied motorists seeking parking spots.

Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg also thinks most people who misuse handicapped parking rationalize to themselves that they will not be long in the spot. "They just do not take the time to let their conscience kick in," he said.

He also noted that many handicapped parking spaces only marked by paint on the pavement are no longer clearly visible. Gregg, who is also a member of the Commission for the Handicapped, said he would like to assist business owners by making signs readily available.

All the members of the commission agree that there are some people who are just "self-centered, inconsiderate, and arrogant" about misusing handicapped parking. "The commission will be working on increasing public awareness to change opinions that misusing handicapped parking spots is not and should not be acceptable, and certainly not something to be proud of," said Bratten, who is also Maryland Secretary of Veterans Affairs. "People who misuse handicapped parking need to take a look at themselves."

For more information about the Commission for the Handicapped and parking, persons may call the Garrett County commissioners' office at 301-334-8970.

A NEW PARK FOR KITZMILLER'S KIDS — Nearly 100 Kitzmiller Elementary School students were on hand Friday to help Mayor Jim Browning, shown to left of sign, land donor Harrison Hanlin, right, and a number of town officials mark the dedication of the future site of the Harrison Hanlin Children's Park. The park site is located in the town's center near where many adult activities take place, in a location where children's opportunities for play have been limited in the past. Hanlin, a longtime Kitzmiller resident, "thought it would be nice for kids to have a play area downtown near the post office and community center," Browning said. Former mayor Nancy Brady is applying for grants that will enable the town to purchase playground equipment, children's statues, and possibly a coal mining car to highlight the town's mining history. The 89-year-old Hanlin, who has owned the Centre Street property for 50 years, is a retired railroad foreman who also worked in Kitzmiller area coal mines and served in the U.S. Army. Browning and Hanlin are flanking a dedication sign painted by Juanita James that, appropriately enough, depicts children at play. "The town is doing what I wanted," Hanlin remarked. "Whenever parents have something going on, the children will have a safe place to play."

N.Y. Trucker Charged After Crashing Rig

A New York truck driver escaped serious injury Saturday afternoon when his tractor-trailer rig crashed through a guardrail along Interstate 68 and overturned, according to Maryland State Police stationed at the McHenry barrack.

The accident occurred at approximately 2 p.m. on the westbound highway near the Finzel exit when Rafael Perez, 55, Rochester, lost control of his rig, which tore through as much as 50 yards of guardrail before coming to rest on its side in a grassy area along the shoulder of the road.

Perez declined medical treatment following the mishap. The Frostburg Area Ambulance and Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Company responded to the scene.

State police charged Perez with negligent driving.

PG County Man Charged With DUI In Oakland

A Prince George's County man was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol (DUI) Saturday night by Oakland police officers.

Michael Keith Baden, 34, Fort Washington, was released when he signed citations issued following a 10:50 p.m. traffic stop in northern Oakland. Police had observed his 2002 Ford pickup straddling the white line and then drifting across the center line as it traveled north along Garrett Highway.

The truck was stopped as it pulled into the Wal-Mart parking lot. In speaking with Baden, officers noted the odor of an alcoholic beverage emanating from his vehicle. Further observation led to the DUI charge.

Oakland Man Faces Alleged Assault Charge

An Oakland man faces charges including second-degree assault after Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to an address along General Kelly Road in reference to a domestic assault Monday night.

Randy Paul Eastman, 40, allegedly assaulted his wife while at their residence, police said. Investigation revealed the suspect had attempted to leave the residence in his vehicle prior to the deputies' arrival.

Eastman failed field sobriety tests, and was arrested and charged with second-degree assault, driving under the influence of alcohol, and driving while impaired by alcohol.

He was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $2,500 bond, said a jail spokesperson.

June Designated Homeownership Month By USDA

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has declared June as National Homeownership Month. Events are being scheduled in rural communities throughout the country. During the first week of the month-long celebration, USDA Rural Development has scheduled 61 local events in 26 states.

The housing programs that are part of the Rural Housing Service (RHS) began with the Housing Act of 1949. The act sought to make homeownership available to families in rural areas. While serving only farm owners until 1961, the program is now available to any low-income rural resident who qualifies.

In Maryland so far in FY 2002, a total of 72 households obtained direct loans of $6,481,399. An additional 314 loan guarantees totaling $36,991,985 have been issued. A total of 68 repair loans and grants totaling $395,150 have also been provided.

A part of USDA Rural Development, RHS also administers a loan and grant program to help lower income families make necessary repairs or improvements to their homes. In 1990, a homeownership loan guarantee was introduced to assist those with slightly higher incomes to obtain no-down-payment loans from private lenders.

The agency's Mutual Self-House Housing program enable families to build their own homes by providing technical assistance grants to groups to manage the equity-building projects.

Juvenile Faces Drug Charges After Arrest

A 16-year-old Friendsville area resident faces charges including drug possession after his arrest Monday morning on Garrett Highway near Northern High School, according to the Maryland State Police.

The incident unfolded at approximately 9 a.m. when the juvenile pulled his vehicle out of the entrance to the school at Pride Parkway, and reportedly nearly struck a state police cruiser traveling on Garrett Highway. The state trooper was forced to take evasive action to avoid a collision and during the ensuing traffic stop detected the odor of suspected burnt tobacco and marijuana emanating from the car while he was talking to the suspect.

A vehicle search uncovered two smoking pipes bearing suspected burnt marijuana residue, two plastic vials containing suspected Oxycontin. The juvenile was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and Oxycontin, and failure to obey a traffic control device, and was issued a civil citation for underage possession of alcohol.

The arrest was made by Cpl. J. LeMay of the McHenry barrack.

Fla. Man Faces Charges After Winston Chase

A Florida man was charged by local Maryland State Police troopers following a rear-end collision in McHenry yesterday afternoon.

Warren Jay Dickey, 78, of Pompano Beach, was traveling south on Garrett Highway at 4:26 p.m. when his 1990 Oldsmobile 88 ran into the back of a 1998 Pontiac Bonneville operated by McHenry resident Rodney Lynn Berger, 52. Berger was attempting to make a left turn onto Fysell Road at the Foodland Fresh grocery store when the mishap occurred.

Dickey was treated to obtain minor injuries but refused transport to the hospital, was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision. Berger was issued the Northern

Two Men Injured, Charged After Overturned Car

Two Westernport men were injured Saturday evening when the car overturned along Savage River Road near Middle Fork and rolled over twice before coming to rest on its roof, according to Department of Natural Resources park rangers assigned to the New Germany/Savage River Complex. Both men face charges in connection with the accident.

At 6:28 p.m. Robert David Alexander, 20, lost control of the car, which skidded 257 feet during the course of the mishap. Excessive speed was cited as a factor in the ranger's report. Alexander was transported by the McCoole Ambulance Service to Big Run State Park, and Maryland State Police helicopter Trooper 5 flew him from there to Cumberland Memorial Hospital, where he was hospitalized overnight before being released Sunday.

Alexander's passenger, Joshua Shane Marsh, 18, hometown not available, was transported by Tri-State Ambulance to Cumberland Memorial, where he was treated and released.

Alexander was charged with several traffic offenses, including negligent driving, while both men were charged with underage possession of alcohol by someone under the age of 21. The Bloomington Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Compromise is Crucial...

It was obviously good news last week when President Bush met with Russian president Vladimir Putin, and the two of them agreed upon continued nuclear arms reduction efforts between our two nations; however, now the world is faced with the real possibility of a nuclear clash between India and Pakistan, which is news of the worst kind. If such were to occur, the result would be catastrophic, not only to millions of Indians and Pakistanis, but also to the citizens of many other nations, and probably the entire world.

One of the great human flaws is our attachment, our addiction, to the material things, the finite things, of this world. We come into this life with nothing, and we spend the next 50 or 70 or 90-plus years striving to obtain as many material things as possible, even though each and every one of us knows that there is not one single piece of it that we can take with us when we leave this earth. We expend huge amounts of time and energy in this acquisition process. We compete for things, sometimes fairly, sometimes unfairly. At times we even kill to obtain or to maintain what we have. A fight can occur over just about any kind of material good, but one that often sparks major conflict is land.

Such is the case in the Middle East, where Arabs and Jews continue to slaughter each other over a piece of land which is claimed by both. Such is also the case with Pakistan and India, who are fighting over the land known as Kashmir.

This is probably an over simplification of the problem, as the differences and areas of contention among these groups are extensive and date back literally centuries. But possession of land is a major factor.

So the solution that is being considered by both sides, evidently, is to simply wipe each other out completely. Then neither side will own the land, and once the radiation levels return to normal in about a gazillion years, some other people will move in and claim the land. The logic of it all escapes us.

It is crucial that the government of the United States, and for that matter, those of every other nation on earth, do all they can to foster a compromise between India and Pakistan. And time is of the essence.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

After reading several articles over the last several weeks concerning the new adventure complex that's going to be built near Deep Creek, I just thought of a few things.

Ask yourselves: How old is Garrett County? It was here long before Deep Creek Lake. People survived here before the big boom. And we will make it somehow if it would ever go away.

Why can't the government take some money and put industrial and other higher paying jobs in this county, instead of spending millions to supply low paying jobs?

And as for the out-of-towners wanting this complex, why don't you put it near your full-time neighborhood because we didn't ask you to move here and try to run our county. Then again, money talks, doesn't it? That's why nobody wants to hear what the hard-working, low-wage Garrett Countian has to say!

James A. Tasker

P.S. Keep it up, George Faher; Good writing!

To the Editor:

On Monday, June 3, at 5:45 a.m. we had a wonderful experience. We looked out the window and saw a large black lump about 20 feet from our porch. Upon closer observation, we realized it was a black bear consuming the sunflower seeds from our bird feeder. She was lying on the ground, and we discovered cubs sleeping close to her.

She continued to eat, and after a long time the cubs began to wake up and move around. Occasionally she would raise her large head and look around in our direction. The cubs became more active and played together.

At first we thought there was one cub, then we saw two and soon realized there were three, about the size of a small dog. They played around the base of a tree and then climbed up the trunk about 40 feet.

Meanwhile, the mother finished eating all our birdseed and walked over to our bird bath to get a huge drink of water. She looked around and decided to leave. As she ambled away, the triplets scrambled down the tree and followed her in a parade. Mrs. Bear had an injured left foot, which we saw when she limped away from our cottage through the brush and across the street. We lost sight of them as they wandered into the woods about 75 feet away.

She had knocked down and consumed our peanut butter feeder and had raided our garbage can. We had a short clean-up time after an hour and a half of a thrilling experience. We assumed regular life after 7 a.m., but now have a never-to-be-forgotten memory. This was a delightful time for us on Oak Way Road on Harvey's Peninsula at Deep Creek Lake, and we will nave an exciting story to tell our friends in Level Green, Pa., when we return home.

On Tuesday as we were eating lunch on our porch, we were surprised to see the bears returning. She became alarmed when we tried to chase her away, and warned her cubs to hurry up a tree. They stayed up about 40 feet until she gave a safe signal and then hurried down to her. We observed her lying down and nursing her cubs. When they were satisfied, she limped away across the street and disappeared into the woods.

The DNR recommended that we remove our bird feeders. We love to watch the many beautiful birds, so this is a very difficult decision.

This was all a fabulous experience for us and one we will never forget! What a memory!

Paul and Erdean Ross

To the Editor:

I was pleased to read in the paper that Phenix Technologies is moving ahead on its new building and that the county received a grant of $750,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission to purchase Phenix's current building. Jim Hinebaugh of the Garrett County Economic Development Office spoke of Senator Paul Sarbanes's aid in procuring that grant. And recently the ReNew Committee in Grantsville was the recipient of federal funds that Senator Barbara Mikulski obtained to help with the construction of the new library. Garrett County is lucky to be served by two such cooperative and effective public servants.

But where is Roscoe in all this? Does Rep. Bartlett's negative attitude about the role of the federal government prevent him from being a part of the effort to create jobs and learning opportunities in our county? We rely on Senators Sarbanes and Mikulski again and again to help us with federal funding and federal agencies. Don't we need a representative who's part of the team as well? Perhaps Garrett County voters should think again in November about who really helps and who stands in the way of the progress that Garrett Countians, many of them good Republicans, are trying to make.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Moors
Friendsville

Relay for Life."

A highlight of the event is the luminary ceremony. Hundreds of candles in small white bags are placed around the track at dusk. Each are either in memory or in honor of persons who have battled cancer. As night falls, at about 9 p.m., the candles will be lighted and a moment of silence will be observed. Special music is planned for the ceremony as well. Luminaries may be purchased up until the time of the event for $5 each.

Throughout the duration of the relay, a number of contests and races will be held, and a variety of prizes will be awarded. Among the awards to be given are those for the best theme and best campsite meal. Trophies will be given to the individuals and the teams that raise the most money in various categories, such as family, community, school, business, and government agency.

During the early morning hours, team names will be drawn out of a hat, and the team member on the track at that time can win a prize. An overall circulating trophy will be engraved with the name of the top team.

A free shuttle bus service will be available to transport relay participants from the front of the Southern High School parking lot directly to the track. The shuttle bus will complete the loop approximately every 10 minutes. Bus service hours are Friday 4 p.m. to midnight, and Saturday noon to 1 p.m.

The nightlong event is open to spectators as well as participants, and a variety of entertainment and activities will be taking place. There will be food available throughout the night, including barbecued chicken, sandwiches, soup, beverages, Rotary french fries, and Lakeside Creamery ice cream. Breakfast will include pancakes and sausage, sausage gravy and biscuits, doughnuts, and beverages. The food concession will be at the Lions Club booth next to the football field.

All proceeds from the relay will benefit the American Cancer Society and its many programs. This includes the programs and assistance offered to Garrett County residents battling cancer. Local programs boosted by the funds include cancer prevention education efforts, the Road to Recovery program that helps provide transportation to patients receiving daily treatment in Cumberland or Morgantown, and numerous cancer prevention programs.

For further information on the Relay For Life, persons may call Fike at 301-387-3049 or Terry Riley at 301-334-5684. "Terry has been an excellent mentor and an invaluable resource for me," Fike commented. "It's been a real privilege to work with an amazing group of people on the relay planning committee."

View from My Window

PLANTING THE PUMPKIN PATCH AND OTHER MYSTERIES

A farmer who farms full time with horses once told me, "If you think farming part time with a tractor is hard, it's a cinch compared to farming part time with a horse."

His point was that a tractor can sit in its shed from week to week and even month to month, and be ready to start the next time it is needed. A horse, by contrast, needs to be worked regularly in order to be ready for the principal demands of preparing the ground or of harvest.

I heeded his counsel, and stuck with the tractor. Having said that, it is also true that running a tractor is never a cinch for me. In fact, I have trouble running any piece of machinery more complicated than a hoe. My mind, so quick to grasp the most complex concept, boggles at anything with moving parts.

My eldest nephew was the last one to use the tractor, a Massey Ferguson 35. He had reported a fundamental problem, namely that it quit every little bit. When I cranked up the tractor this spring, it was immediately obvious that the difficulty had not evaporated over the winter.

I was able to use it to weed the garden plot with the rotary mower. That small job complete. I got the tractor back into its shed, and called for help. Of my several Cousin Wilsons — every woman of the family seems to have given her maiden name to some male offspring — I telephoned one, and asked him to stop here for an informal consultation over the tractor.

He diagnosed a fuel-line problem, which was bad, but which he said he could and would fix, which was excellent. He would get back to me and, more importantly, to the tractor in a few days. Instead of continuing to mow, for want of a tractor, I turned to other tasks. The garden plot having been weeded, I decided to put in a pumpkin patch.

Due to my six weeks of sabbatical last summer, I had no garden. This year, with the same prospect in view, I have tried a more creative approach, the garden which is a project of my congregation. Also this year I did not want the garden plot just growing to weeds as it did last year. Giving it over to pumpkins and winter squash seemed a happy solution.

I like mulching a garden anyway, but mulching pumpkins and winter squash is, in my not so humble opinion, the only way to go. I use the method of three layers of newspaper covered by grass clippings, straw, or hay. This conserves moisture, suppresses weeds, and builds soil structure (courtesy of the earthworms).

Distinguishing between pumpkins and winter squash is artificial and somewhat deceptive. As garden writer William Woys Weaver states emphatically, "There are only squash." We usually call the big, orange, ribbed things harvested in October — and the miniatures that look like them — "pumpkins."

Fruits as different, for example, as the crookneck winter squash, used typically for pies, and the pattypan summer squash are the same species. There are four species of squash grown in the U.S., but nothing about species can be discerned from appearance or length of season alone.

Even the origins of the names do not help much. "Squash," according to Weaver, comes from and is hidden at the end of the Algonquin word askutasquash. The Indian word means "something that is eaten green," which fits well our culinary approach to summer squash, but not to what we call winter squash.

"Pumpkin" comes from "pompion," which has no antecedents, cited by the Oxford English Dictionary, before the middle of the 16th century. Webster's suggests that "pompion" comes from the Latin, and ultimately the Greek, word for "edible gourd." "Pompion" may also be related to the French word "poupon," which means baby, suggesting that a "pumpkin" is a squash that is as big as a baby.

If you don't care for the guesses of Oxford, Webster, or yours truly, then feel free to make up something yourself.

It was my intention to plant both pumpkins for jack-o-lanterns — also known as cow pumpkins because of their value for bovine nutrition — and three varieties of winter squash for pies and other fall and winter eating. The first day I dug my hills, and planted the seeds. The next day I began the work of mulching, a job that continues.

My hope is that Cousin Wilson will finish the tractor repair the day after I finish mulching the squashes, both pumpkins and otherwise. Life will be simpler that way since I like doing one thing at a time.

Beitzel Seeking Re-Election As Commissioner

Wendell R. Beitzel has announced his candidacy for re-election as Garrett County commissioner. The candidate has represented District III on the board of commissioners since his election in the fall of 1998.

"My principal campaign pledge in 1998 was to provide strong leadership to restore sound financial management of county resources, to work to reverse the trend of creating greater debt and larger bureaucracy, and to improve and protect the quality of life and environment for everyone who lives in or visits Garrett County," stated Beitzel. "I believe that I have kept my pledge."

A native of Accident, Beitzel and his wife Ruth reside along Rock Lodge Road near Deep Creek Lake. The couple have one daughter, one son, and a granddaughter. He attended Garrett County public schools and graduated from Northern High School.

Beitzel earned a bachelor of science degree in biology from Fairmont State College, and master's degrees in management and business administration from Frostburg State University. Beitzel has also studied at John Hopkins University, the University of Maryland, American University, and Garrett Community College, as well as the American Water Works Utility Management Institute at Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Va., and the West Virginia Mon-Valley Leadership Academy.

A U.S. Army veteran, Beitzel served during the Vietnam war, and was employed as a research biologist and microbiologist for three years at the of the National Institute of Health's National Cancer Institute in Bethesda. Beitzel worked for 10 years in the environmental health office of the Garrett County Health Department, and was serving as assistant director of Environmental Health at the time of his appointment as administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, where he served for nearly 18 years.

During Beitzel's tenure at the Sanitary District, over $50 million of water and sewer projects were successfully funded, constructed, and placed into operation.

"I am especially proud of the achievement to secure funding, design, and construction for the Deep Creek Lake sewer system," the candidate stated. "This $20 million project protects the water quality in and around Deep Creek Lake. It has provided tremendous economic opportunity for growth and development in this region and has increased the Garrett County tax base dramatically."

The Beitzels own the Point View Inn, at Deep Creek Lake, which is now operated by their daughter Tanya. The candidate is the president of Beitzel Enterprises Inc., the corporate operating entity of the Point View Inn and related properties.
